

LOCAL MATTERS OF INTEREST.

SATURDAY

From present appearance it looks as if Sussex will have to have an additional grammar school teacher before the end of the year. The law provides that after 50 pupils are enrolled in the grammar school the board of education may demand an additional member of the teaching staff on paying wages of $500 per annum. In the grammar school at present there are 52 pupils registered and the room is decidedly overcrowded. Of course this condition of affairs will be relieved when the new school house is ready for occupation—Sussex Record.

An event which will be of great interest to the large circle of friends of both the bride and groom, will take place in the near future in Fredericton, when Miss Mina A. Reade, daughter of Captain J. A. Reade, of Hopewell Cape, N. B., will be married to Rev. Edward Amund, of Windsor, N.S. Miss Reade, who is well known throughout the Maritime Provinces as an educationist of much ability, and who taught for some years in the Normal School at Truro, N. S., has for the past year or two been actively associated with the American League for Women's Suffrage, with Headquarters in Boston.

One of the worst fakes that has struck Sussex for some time arrived here on Wednesday in the shape of a Punch and Judy show. That the victims were little children makes the case have been all right but the management promised a prize to the holder of a lucky ticket. The performance was held in the afternoon but the presentation was delayed until night. When night came the Sussex Institute hall was in darkness and a number of the children waited in vain for the show to commence and the presentation of the prize. The whole fiasco is based on interesting children, through the other places would do well to work their best to prevent the game being done. The Sussex Institute, too, would do well to have a care as to the class of performances that are permitted to use the hall—Sussex Record.

It is understood that the apparatus is ready except for the cable which has yet to be laid and will be connected with Tiner's Point fog alarm. James Lowell, M. P.
