THE ROLL CALL.

Tune.—When the Roll is called up Yonder.

(Words by Oliver Hazelwood, with apologies to the author of original.)

When my King and country calls me and I'm wanted at the front, When the sharp shells are bursting in the air, When the foe in fury charges, and we're sent to bear the brunt, And the roll is called for service, I'll be there!

Chorus.—When the roll is called for service—I'll be there!

When the Kaiser's lines are broken, and his armies out of France, When the Belgian desolation we re-see, When the final muster's ordered, and the bugle sounds 'Advance', May the God of battle help me to be there!

Chorus.—When the roll is called for service—I'll be there!

When the Allies march through Prussia, with the foe in full retreat, That our hearts be kept from hatred, in our prayer, When the 'right of might' is ended in a crushing last defeat, And the roll is called in Berlin, I'll be there!

Chorus.—When the roll is called in Berlin—I'll be there!

When for me 'Last Post' is sounded, and I cross the silent pond, I've a Pilot who of 'mine fields' will beware; When 'Reveille' sounds in heaven, and the armies of the Lord, Sing the Hallelujah chorus—I'll be there!

Chorus.—When the roll is called up yonder—I'll be there!

Devil's Testimony Regarding Efficiency

To Editor of The Halifax Herald:

Sir,—On the third page of The Halifax Herald Saturday morning there appeared a picture of General Von Haeseler mounted on horseback. It is headed 'The Devil of Metz', and underneath the cut you have 'That's what the Germans call General Von Haeseler, eighty years old veteran, called from retirement to command the assault on Verdun.'

Temperance people have been accused of going to extremes in their opinions, etc. Well, I am going the limit—in fact to the 'Devil' himself. This 'Devil' testimony regarding efficiency as given to the public is as follows: 'The soldier who abstains altogether is the best man. He can accomplish more, can march better, and is a better soldier than the man who drinks even moderately. Mentally and physically he is better. Brandy is the worst poison of all. Next to it comes beer. Rack limbs the capacity and lowers mind, body and soul. Strong drink tires and only increases thirst. For soldiers, water, coffee and above all, tea, are the best drinks.'

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at fifty, in sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that wrinkles, white hair, or carious teeth are signs of weakness which lead to old age.

To be stronger, wiser, and keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-purifying properties of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, which keep your blood rich with iron and other elements, and build up your system.

Then the young country lad is interested by the glitter of low life. 'G'iter is the right word, for at best such a life is not to be compared with that of the country. A short time is Reasonable Request.

The lady was complaining to her dairyman some time ago regarding the quality of his milk.

"Short of grass feed this time of year," said the jocular milkman. "Bless you, them cows o' mine are just as sorry about it as I am. Lotten stands and watches em' cryin', reg'lar cryin' morn, because they feel as how their milk don't do 'em credit. You don't believe it?"

"Oh, yes, I believe it," said the lady; "but I wish in future you'd see that they don't drop their tears into our can."—The Hits.

Little Worries in The Home.

IT IS THESE THAT BRING WRINKLES AND MAKE WOMEN LOOK PREMATURELY OLD.

Almost every woman at the head of a home meets daily many little worries in her household affairs. They may be too small to notice an hour afterwards, but it is these same constant little worries that affect the blood and nerves and make women look prematurely old. Their effect may be noticed in sick or nervous headaches, fickle appetite, pain in the back or side, hollow complexion and the coming of wrinkles, which every woman dreads. To those that afflict Dr. Williams' Pink Pills offer a speedy and certain cure, a restoration of color to the cheeks, brightness to the eye, a hearty appetite and a sense of freedom from weariness.

Among the thousands of Canadian women who have found new health through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. N. Worrall, Broughdale, Ont., who says: "After the birth of my second child I was so weak and run down that I was unable to do anything. The doctor said I had scarcely any blood in my body. I could not walk half a block without being completely exhausted and all the treatment of the doctor did not seem to help me. I called in another doctor, but with no better results. My feet and legs became frightfully swollen I suffered with severe pains in my back and sides. I would be all day dragging around at my household work, and I was beginning to give up all hope of recovery. I had been urged to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills but like many others, thought they could not help me when doctors had failed to do so, but after much urging I decided to try them. To my surprise in a few weeks I found myself constantly growing stronger, and eventually able to do my household work without fatigue. I strongly advise every weak woman to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

You can get these Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WHIRLIGIG OF TIME

It Brings Many Strange Coincidences to the Life of True Man.

By WALTER JAMES DELANEY.

Coward! How that word rankled within the soul of Ralph Warden, and what a difference its utterance had made in his life! Looking back six months, it seemed to him as though that word had been the start of all his troubles, the evil star of his destiny.

He had lived at Junta, a frontier town and a military post since boyhood. Just as he came of age his mother had died. Through her brief period of illness it had been the friendly visits and kind ministrations of Ethel Lynd that had made her recovery and peace of mind possible. To love the beautiful daughter of Colonel Lynd, he had fancied that she somewhat encouraged him, when a rude circumstance had brought down into his life all his fair and castles of hope.

He recalled the day when Miss Lynd, her girl cousin, and her friends of Ethel were sitting near the river, when a lonesome drunkard known about the district as Pauper Joe, reeled across their path. He changed to a good blow and a status. His maddening fury called him a name that was always wiped out with blood in that primitive section, and struck him.

For a moment the fire of resentment and indignation sprang to the eyes of Ralph. Then, clenching his fist, holding his breath, his face grew when as he gazed again at a statue. He fancied he noted a look of contempt cross the face of Miss Lynd. He heard a word spoken—

"Coward!"

Then the group passed on, but not until Lieutenant Underfoot had stepped forward, vaulting his chivalrous strength in some way at Ralph, and with a good blow sent the poor wretch, Pauper Joe, to the ground.

It might have been over-sensitive nerves, but Ralph fancied that Ethel and her friends purposely hurried on. He lingered. The same influence that had held his hand back from resenting an insult, now drove him to the curb of a further humanity. He was he lifted the stranded wreck to his feet, led him to a lodging house, and led enough money with his property to care for his penniless father, and recovered from the effects of drink and injury.

Two days later Ethel left Junta, and Ralph had not met her in the meantime. Ethel was going on a long visit to a distant point where her father was making his annual round of the military posts.

"I kept my promise," said Ralph to himself staunchly, as he thought of the light that had come over his fair love dreams. "I have lost Ethel, the story of that blow has got around town, and some think me a mean spirited creature; but I promised mother, and I have kept my word."

It was on her death bed that Mrs. Warden had drawn her son to the sacred pledge regarding two things—drink and fighting. Her own father was a victim to the wine cup. Ralph's dead father had suffered death in a hot border fight brought about to care for his penniless father, and recovered from the effects of drink and injury.

And the whirling of time had gone on. Ralph had drifted to another town. He was not very successful in getting work. One day a sudden revelation came into his mind; he would join the regular army. Thus it was that one year after this last sight of the only woman he had ever loved, he was a sergeant at Fort Danger, on the border of the United States.

"I wronged you once, Warden," admitted the lieutenant voluntarily the day Ralph came to the fort. "I thought you a poltroon, and said so. Later it leaked out to all of us about your sacred promise to your mother. I respect you for it. I think that discovery made pretty Miss Lynd end

Benefits of Prohibition.

Reports come from West Virginia that crime has decreased 50 per cent in that state since prohibition went into effect a year ago. Reports from 54 municipalities show that the total arrests during the year before prohibition went into effect were 15,267, while the total number of arrests during a year of prohibition were 7,731. There has been a decrease of 50 per cent in crime and a decrease of practically 75 per cent in drunkenness, a wonderful showing for the first year of prohibition. Add to this the increased prosperity and happiness in the homes of West Virginia's people and the result is cannot be measured in monetary values.—Wichita Eagle.
