About 400 persons saw the game, which was too one-sided to be enjoyable. The stick work of the Tigers, however, was greatly enjoyed by the young fans, who howled themselves hoarse every time the ball was pounded out. Toronto Telegram:—Tom Longboats defeat on Saturday was a bump to those who looked on the Indian as the only thing in the road racing line in this fair Dominion. But let not their voices cease to cheer. Tom stopped badly in his Hamilton-Toronto run, and then went out in his next race and trimmed things up a bit as usual. The Indian has not yet fully recovered from that carbuncle trouble, and is not in condition for a hard race. TRAINERS AT WOODBINE HANDICAPPED BY WEATHER.

A beautiful morning attracted a whole host of railbirds and expert race-horsemen to the Woodbine yesterday morning. Clockers were in full force and from seven to ten the track presented a brisk and buay scene. The going was slow, but the track was drying out splendidly and if this fine weather continues by opening day it should be as near perfection as it is possible for it to be. Yesterday there was no chance for fast work, but there was a deal of schooling from the barrier and some trainers seized the advantage to go right to first was completed. Canadian trainers recognize that the disagreeable weather of last week and the week before has considerably handicapped them and as their entries for the King's Plate practically compel them to keep their stables in Canada they are ventilating the question as to whether the situation would not be improved if, by special permit, candidates for His Majesty's Guineas would be trained in the United States. They argue that not only is the lateness of the season in this country detrimental to their interests, as compared with those of owners of horses that have already been raced, but a lack of condition and of earlier training is disastrous to every Canadian-bred that has to be pushed forward in order to meet his May engagements. They think that they should be allowed, as I have said, to train in the country to the south of its, or that the dates of the meeting itself should be changed to a month later. In their opinion, as things are, more horses are ruined than are benefited by the rich stakes given in the spring meeting for Cenadian-breds. Even foreigners hesitate to enter in a mile and a quarter race, like the Kentucky Derby, because it is so early in the season. As a consequence of this feeling, which is more general then can be supposed, the field for the Derby this year was small and as one gentleman said, composed almost entering the propertical propertics of the season with the continue to the propertic propertics.
