In addition to the address, he was presented with a testimonial signed by 23 of the leading residents of the Landing, together with a well-filled purse. Mr. Pritchard left for the east Friday morning. The address presented to him read as follows: Mr. Pritchard—We have come here this evening to tender you our heartfelt regrets upon the occasion of your departure from Athabasca Landing.

We also present you with this testimonial as a token of the sincere regard which the citizens of Athabasca Landing have for you. You are leaving us, Mr. Pritchard, but we assure you that although we can no longer enjoy your society, our thoughts will often be with you in your new field of labor, and we hope also that your surroundings there will be more genial to you as a cultured and educated man than the desolate regions of the north which offer so little to the student and man of books. Perhaps we should congratulate you upon your appointment, for undoubtedly you are going to an important sphere of labor, where enthusiasm and energy will be required, and allow us to express the opinion, Mr. Pritchard, that if this is the case, you will be the right man in the right place.

Your stay in the Landing has revealed to us two features in your character, fellowship and progressiveness. You have always been ready to join in our small functions here, and you have always for the best of your ability every good move that has been made. We shall, therefore, keenly feel the loss of your pushing and energetic personality in our functions and meetings in the future.

VEGREVILLE FAIR A SPLENDID SUCCESS

Despite Threshing Operations and Prolonged Absence of Rain, the Attendance—The Entries in the Live Stock Classes—View of a Superior Quality.

By a Staff Correspondent. Vegreville, Oct. 7.—The first day of the Vegreville annual fall fair opened auspiciously yesterday at Agricultural Hall, the gates and farmers of the district, which made it difficult for many of the farmers to attend, though the day was a large representation of the citizens and farmers of the Vegreville Valley. The event was more truly agricultural than most fall fairs, for the fact that the customary accessories which often detract from the purpose of a fair more than add to it were omitted from the program. The Vegreville Agricultural Society is to be congratulated on the splendid grounds which they possess and on the accuracy of the domestic manufacture. The Agricultural Hall is a very commodious structure and is admirably suited for the display of vegetables, grains, and articles of domestic manufacture. The sheltered stalls for the live stock exhibits place the Vegreville district much in advance of many similar agricultural communities. Attention must also be made of the show ring where the stock was exhibited yesterday, and of the grand Contractor Legion which the fair is seen to the best advantage. This combination of circumstances coupled with excellent weather made the fair most successful in every way.

The Live Stock End of the fair, which is most desirable at an agricultural fair, to make 35 of educational value is a good exhibition of pure bred stock, which the fair's supporters, C. M. Vanstone and C. R. Beggs, breeders of Oldenide horses, arranged for the fair. The seed horse, sired by Baron's Pride out of a MacGregor mare, was imported from the old country last winter and secured five firsts. He also secured first prize in his class at the Brandon fair. It is a magnificent horse and a first prize two year old, King Edward is a handsome red and white Lass a likely filly. In the cattle entries were a herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle exhibited by J. J. Bell, an extensive breeder of Islay, Alta. John E. Powell and Andrew Thompson had a good herd of shorthorn cattle, and dairy cows. A book of registered Suffolk sheep were shown by J. J. Bell and a bunch of registered Merino sheep were shown by J. J. Bell and a bunch of registered Merino sheep were shown by J. J. Bell.

The display of vegetables and farm produce in the Agricultural Hall spoke volumes for the magnificent growth of vegetation in the Vegreville district this year. The cabbages, cabbage, onions, beans and potatoes were all of the best quality and particularly the potatoes would be difficult to excel. The grains and grasses told the same story in the cereal line, with special emphasis on the oats and barley. In the realm of the feminine arts there was much to be seen and admired. Dainty fingers wrought beautiful creations in embroidery, crochet, knitted and patchwork. The culinary art was represented by home-made bread, butter and delicious preserves in endless variety.

The exhibits of writing, drawing and composition of the part of the school children of the district, demonstrated that the schools are doing good work in instructing the youthful mind, and that they look with favor on the fall fair as an opportunity to make their progress known.

Interest in the fair is being sustained by racing events and a series of base ball matches between the Edmonton and Vegreville teams. A full program is being worked off today (Wednesday). The officers and directors of the Agricultural Association are as follows: President, G. J. Gasseigne; 1st vice-president, S. A. Richardson; 2nd vice-president, Robert Fairbairn; directors, John McKeith, David McFarlane, E. J. Sanders, A. E. Wilson, T. H. Tierney, Jas. J. Stanton, A. E. Jennings, A. W. Centard, E. W. Leach, Geo. Robertson, Theo. Balsam, M. W. Cole, Wm. Clement, J. B. Holden, D. McAlm; secretary-treasurer, A. L. Horton.

A. W. Jafery was judge of poultry and Donald Ross, of Edmonton, of grain and vegetables. H. A. Craig, superintendent of fairs, and W. F. Stevens, live stock commissioner, represented the provincial agricultural department. The following is the prize list in full. Heavy Horses—Clydes.
