A Horrible Death.

Robert Walsh, Fermeuse, Killed by Powder Explosion.

Yesterday at Fermeuse, Robert Walsh was killed by the explosion of an old cannon. Yesterday being the Feast of the Ascension, and Rev. John Walsh, Parish Priest, being about to visit the place, the fishermen proposed to have an impromptu celebration, to hoist their flags and fire off guns. Poor Walsh had filled up an old cannon that had been lying there for years with powder, having put in about two pounds. In ramming home the wad the powder exploded and burst the cannon and Walsh's head was blown off and carried to a distance of several yards. His body was horribly mutilated by pieces of the cannon. The remains were gathered up and confined. Rev. Father Walsh broke the news to the mother of the deceased. He was her only support, and was a fine type of a fisherman. He had been one of Capt. Kean's sealing crew the past fourteen springs. Messrs. M. P. Cashin and P. F. Moore received the news early in the afternoon and at once wired messages of condolence to the relatives of the deceased. The Telegram joins in expression of sympathy.

Uncle Walt
THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

The poets have sung in a harrowing strain of the moneyless man and his sorrow and pain. He gets the ice pitcher wherever he goes—no welcome for him, no relief for his woes!—He is kicked from hotels by the janitors' feet, policemen begrudge him the use of the street, he's chased from the alleys as though but a dog, and turned from the doors of the swell synagogues; he must drag out his days in the best way he can—the world has no use for the moneyless man. Supposing it's true, why should cuss words be hurled like bricks at the poor old-long suffering world? In ninety-nine cases or more out of ten, the blame should be placed on the moneyless men; the lazy, the shiftless, when busted and wrecked, how much from the world are they due to expect? And why should industrious citizens give to loafers infesting the towns where they live? When bitter misfortune comes down on a guy who's shown that he's honest and willing to try, the world looms up in a praiseworthy way, and does what it can for that suffering guy. But most of the hollow-eyed moneyless men have bunked this planet again and again. I don't blame the world that it's likely to pan, on the chest-nutty spiel of the moneyless man.

Newfoundlander Killed at Sydney Mines.

North Sydney, May 20.—Henry Thomas Farrell, a coal cutter employed at the Mackay mine, was almost instantly killed while at work in the colliery yesterday afternoon. The accident followed the firing of a shot, and was due to a fall of stone which struck him on the head, and crushed him to the earth. Fred Fennell, his room mate, had just left Farrell, who was in the act of pulling some loose shale from the roof, when the big stone came down and ended his life. Fennell succeeded in removing the stone from Farrell's body with the assistance of some fellow workmen, and had the body removed from the pit. The remains were taken to Dooley's undertaking rooms and an inquest was held last evening by Coroner A. R. Forbes and a jury. The verdict of the jury was that death was accidental and that no blame attaches to the company.

After the inquest Farrell's body was prepared for burial and taken to his residence on Brook Street, whence the funeral will be held to Lake Side Cemetery at 2.30 Sunday afternoon. Farrell was 32 years of age and leaves a wife and six children. He came to Cape Breton about ten years ago from Clarke's Beach, Conception Bay, Nfld., and has been employed at the Mackay mine for about twenty months.

SIGN OF FISH.—Those who went outside the Narrows last evening to have a "try" for a fish, caught from ten to twenty medium sized ones with the jigger.

GUESTS AT BALSAM.—Albert E. Haynes, New York; Mrs. A. E. Haynes, New York; H. J. Crowe, Boston.

Reply From Mr. Hibbs.

Dear Sir,—I have before me in your issue of yesterday a letter entitled "Our Agricultural Society," in which a writer styling himself "Peggy" and addressed from Lower Gullies, attempts to belittle the Agricultural Society here in a very unmanly way by making some very uncomplimentary references to certain gentlemen connected with this branch.

I wish to say on behalf of Lower Gullies that I can positively assert that the letter in question was never written by or emanated from any person living here, and I would advise this individual that when he feels disposed to again insult people through the press, and has not courage enough to write over his own signature, to at least be man enough to address his communications from his own settlement, and not attempt to convey the impression that such drivelling nonsense was written by a person entirely innocent of the like.

In conclusion I wish to remind him that when the people of this settlement start in to criticise the management of the Society it will be in a more honorable manner, or at its meetings, in the hope of improving it and not by a jeering offensive hash-up in which most matters are misrepresented, and the odium of blame cast on a person who I hope will never become coward enough to apply insulting nicknames to neighbors in public. Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor. Yours etc. R. HIBBS.

Nerves Are Exhausted

And nervous prostration or paralysis is creeping steadily upon you.

You hear of people suddenly falling victims of nervous prostration or some form of paralysis. But when you get all the facts of the case you find that they have had months or years of warning.

They haven't slept well. There has been frequent attacks of nervous headache. Digestion has failed. They have been irritable, easily worried and excited and have found memory and concentration failing.

Had they but known that these symptoms tell of exhausted nerves or had they realized their danger they would have restored the feeble, wasted nerves by use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great restorative treatment cures by forming new, rich blood and by rebuilding the wasted nerve cells. No medicine is more certain to prove of lasting benefit to the system. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50; at all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
