

Wedding Bells.

FREEMAN-CHATREAU.

Decorated with spring flowers and a large white cloth, the altar of the St. John's Cathedral was the scene of a beautiful wedding on April 29. The bride, Miss Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Freeman, was given away by her father, Mr. Wm. Freeman, son of Mr. Robert Chatreau, Walkerton. The bride wore a gown of beige crepe and tulle, with a large corsage of white roses and lily of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Freeman, who wore a green crepe with black picture hat and corsage of sweet peas and pansies. The bridesmaids were Jean Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Freeman, and Mrs. Carol Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Freeman. The groom, Mr. Robert Chatreau, was in a tuxedo. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Mackay, of the St. John's Cathedral. The wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Freeman, 14 St. John's. The bride and groom were surrounded by many guests, including a large number of friends and relatives. The bride and groom were both very happy and enjoyed the celebration very much.

Conductor Seizes Child.

A woman in a remote village near St. John's, while working in her garden, found her baby on a large stone in the garden. When she suddenly an enormous woman appeared on the child and snatched it off in its claws (a Geneva correspondent). For a moment the woman was in a state of panic, but she was quickly calmed by a miracle, being Professor Ochsenmaul, a distinguished zoologist from Bern University, who went to the scene of the incident. The woman was surprised to find the child in the garden. The child was a small, white, fluffy creature, and the woman was not less than 18 inches long.

George Died.

A man named George used to be a Chinaman's place and smoke almost daily. One day he rushed into a shop and said excitedly, "Hip, loan me some money. I'm alive!" And he went with the money. About a week later, a friend of his gambled and lost on the same day and said: "Hip, where is my money?" The confiding George replied: "George, my friend, I don't come up to a club."

Some Hen.

"Talking of hens," remarked the visitor, "reminds me of one I had. She would hatch out anything from a tennis ball to a lemon. One day she sat on a piece of old hatched out two quarts of hot water. She doesn't come up to a club."

Use of Lemons.

Lemonade, home-made, is a safe and healthy drink. It is a good remedy for many ailments, including colds, flu, and sore throats. It is also a good remedy for heartburn and indigestion. The juice of a lemon, mixed with water and sugar, is a very refreshing drink. It is also a good remedy for many ailments, including colds, flu, and sore throats. Chimes Ring To-Night

AND TO-MORROW AFTERNOON.

"Each performance of 'The Chimes' is better than the last" was the opinion expressed last night by those who had heard the celebrated Opera for the fourth time. The perfection engendered by the success of the previous performances gave to last night's an ease which will entitle 'The Chimes' to rank amongst the most successful entertainments ever staged in St. John's. Among those present were some who had enjoyed the opera in London, and their appreciation of the local production was honest and pleasant. The choruses, songs, dances and above all the dramatic presentation lacked little if any of the professional rendering. The costumes (and they are all local) were the prettiest ever seen in the Casino. To the Christian Brothers, their pupils and ex-pupils, Mr. Hutton, and the ladies and gentlemen whose combined skill was so happily successful in the production of 'The Chimes', the congratulations of the St. John's public are due, while the four thousand who have already enjoyed this splendid opera are delighted for what they got from the stage and appreciative of the capable and gentlemanly management of Mr. Pippy, and his pleasant helpers in the auditorium. The opera will be repeated to-night and the matinee to-morrow will ring down the final curtain on 'The Chimes of Normandy'.

The Bowmen of England.

It is not generally known that archery is still a fairly popular sport in England. There are, however, flourishing clubs, with very ancient traditions, in many parts of the country, and one club which has long held its home in Regent's Park is just on the point of moving to new quarters—probably at Finsbury. This club has a wonderful collection of archery relics, including a bow and a set of arrows more than 4,000 years old. It is hoped by the British Museum authorities that they may be permitted to put some of these interesting trophies among their archives.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

CHINESE CIVIL WAR.

PEKING, May 5.
General Chang Tso Lin's troops have suffered severe reverses at three points, and numerous refugees and wounded are clamoring at the closed gates of the city for entrance.

TROTSKY'S THREAT.

MOSCOW, May 5.

The Genoa Conference has made it clear that leading European diplomats do not realize that the labor revolution in Russia is the beginning of a new historical epoch, and not a temporary change from one form of property to another. War Minister Trotsky said to-day that the collapse of the Conference would retard Soviet economic work, but the ruin of the economies of Europe would proceed more quickly. France is approaching the greatest catastrophe in the world, which will begin with finance, Trotsky said. Her policy is one of despair. America, he thought, might effect a new orientation of world economics, but not by dictating to Russia what forms of property and legislation she ought to inaugurate. Russia only wants peace, but if the powers intervened to enable foreign capitalists to exploit Russian labor the Red Army would do its duty, said Trotsky.

ACCIDENT TO AUSTRALIAN PREMIER.

LONDON, May 5.

Premier Hughes of the Australian Commonwealth was thrown from his horse, and his collar bone broken, yesterday.

NOT CONCILIATORY.

DUBLIN, May 5.

Eamonn De Valera in a speech here last evening disavowed any desire to hamper the peace agreement. He said nobody was more anxious for peace than he. The division in sentiment is due to the fact that there were men and women in Ireland who would never consent to be British subjects, and if they were to be dragged into the British Empire, it must be over their dead bodies. Great Britain, he added, was Ireland's only enemy.

BELIEVE HOSTILITIES EX'PED.

PEKING, May 5.

General Wu-Pei-Fu was in control at Peking at noon, and General Tso-Lin, whose forces he routed yesterday in a fierce battle, south of the Capital, was reported fleeing to Mukden. Chang's army is retreating in disorder towards T'ien T'sing. Observers here believe Chang's sudden collapse has ended hostilities.

ACTIVE AGGRESSIONS.

DUBLIN, May 5.

Barracks at Castle Pollard, West Meath, are reported to have been blown up by Irregular Forces, who destroyed the Mullingar Barracks Wednesday. The Irregulars were pursued from Mullingar to Castle Pollard by Provisional Government forces, and the barracks are said to have been blown up to prevent their occupation by the latter.

SETTLING DOWN.

GENOA, May 5.

The Genoa Conference, to-day, expected to conclude its deliberations on Financial, Economic and Transport Questions. This will leave only political problems to settle, and very stubborn problems they are. The Russian question and the proposed non-aggression pact are taxing even the ingenuity of Lloyd-George, but there was great optimism to-day over a probable solution to both questions. Patience is being counselled by all the leading delegates, and the Conference apparently is facing the hard pull of at least three weeks.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, May 5.

Nine dead, 38 injured, two probably fatally, and property damaged estimated at $400,000 was the toll of death and destruction in the wake of a tornado, which late yesterday, swept through the West side and on out of the city, to Oak Hill, eight miles southwest, according to a check of the situation last night.

Dye Any Garment Or Old Drapery in Diamond Dyes
