MIGRATION MOVEMENTS.

Mr. E. H. Forbush, Director of Ornithology for the State of Massachusetts in his August notes corroborates the opinion of this writer that the migration movement of birds began earlier than usual this year. Many members of the snipe family, many water birds have gone South in August this year.

Mr. Forbush says that:—
"Early migration has been the rule in southern New England. In eastern Massachusetts land birds have been heard passing at night since the 29th of July. It would be interesting to know whether these early migrants were generally moving southward, or whether they were merely wandering to different points of the compass as many do at this season. Some have been seen far north of their usual breeding grounds. It is evident that the great majority of the local small birds have gone somewhere. It seems that many birds in the more southern states move south before the migration of those of the same species which nested farther north begins. No real southward movement of northern warblers was reported from the Maine woods until the last week of the month."

The same kindly authority tells me that on July 13th in Maine a Great Blue Heron was seen to catch an eel about three feet long, which would itself about the bird's bill in several spirals and seemed to be choking it, but finally the bird succeeded in swallowing the serpentine fish. This reminds us of a story published in an ornithological journal. A Heron in a river struck at a fish swimming between its legs. The bird darted its head between the legs and caught the fish behind it. Then neck, legs and fish became tangled and the bird was upset, but he never let go that fish and in the end swallowed it!

Says All Auto Drivers Should Take Rigid Test.

Detroit, Sept. 28. (A.P.)—A locomotive engineer must spend years as an engine wiper and fireman before he is permitted to drive an engine over a private right of way, but any person may drive an automobile down a public street used by millions of people with no experience whatever.

This comparison was used by William F. Rutledge, chief of Detroit police and president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, as the explanation of his edict calling for rigid examinations of all applicants for motor car drivers' licenses, which are required under a state law. Enforcement of this law was urged in a resolution adopted at the recent convention of the International Association in Buffalo.

"It is time for the police departments of the country to take the initiative in such matters, without waiting to be prodded into activity by civic societies," Mr. Rutledge said.

Carrying out the spirit of the resolution, the Detroit police department is requiring each applicant for a driver's license to demonstrate that he is physically fit to drive a car; that he can read and understand traffic signals, and that he understands thoroughly all traffic ordinances. As a result of these examinations the police have found that only about a third of the applicants for licenses meet the requirements of a safe and sane driver.

It has been found necessary, Mr. Rutledge said, to establish police schools where prospective drivers of motor vehicles may learn how to handle a car. Classes are held two days a week, morning, afternoon and evening. The two lessons complete the course, after which the "students" may apply for licenses.

The Funny Side of Things

CAN YOU SEE A JOKE! HAVE YOU A SENSE OF HUMOUR!

A "Tit-Bits" Test.

The above questions mean more than: Can you see the point of a joke or of a funny picture? They mean: Can you see the funny side of the things that happen to you and around you every day?

If you can, then you have a REAL sense of humour—and you are one of whom we wish to hear.

Listen: Funny things are happening everywhere every day; funny remarks are being made—and lost. Tit-Bits wants to record them.

We invite you, therefore, to send us, written clearly on a postcard, brief accounts of the laughable things you see and hear. We will pay special rates for the best Tit-Bits of humour sent in.

What We Want.
We don't want jokes or storyettes cut out of other papers; we want brief, clearly-written accounts of amusing things you have yourself seen or heard.

Don't imagine things; we ask for real, actual daily experiences or bright remarks that you have heard. Begin at once. Make a note to-day of funny things you see or hear and that happen to you. Then, write out the best one on a postcard, and send it to "Humour," Tit-Bits, 8-11, Southampton Street, Strand, London, W.C.2.

Send as many as you like as often as you like! Publication means good payment.

Susan Sage's Column

A small piece of camphor placed in the oil-vessel of a lamp will make it burn much more brightly than if oil alone is burned.

A sponge cake always looks more tempting if there is a nice crust on the top. This is easily attained by sprinkling castor sugar over the top of the cake before putting it into the oven.

When soup or gravy has been accidentally salted too much it can be made quite palatable again by adding a little sugar.

If you are fond of coconut you will like it in gingerbread. Mix together two ounces of butter, two ounces of sugar, and half a pound of treacle, then add gradually half a pound of flour, a quarter of a pound of coconut, one beaten egg, and a quarter of an ounce of ginger. Dissolve one teaspoonful of carbonate of soda in a little milk, and add this to the mixture last of all. Bake for one hour.

To make marbled jelly, it is, of course, necessary to have jellies of different colours. After the various jellies have been made and set, fill a mould with irregularly-shaped pieces of each kind. Now dissolve a block of lemon jelly, using boiling milk instead of water. When it is cold pour it into the mould already prepared and leave it to set.

Savoury pancakes are great favourites, and provide a good opportunity for using up cold meat. Chop the meat finely, and stir it into a Yorkshire pudding batter, then fry in hot fat.

Twine which has been used for parcels should not be thrown away. Keep it until you have a large ball, then knit it loosely into a square. It makes an excellent cloth for cleaning pans.

When the bars of a firegrate turn rusty rub them over with a piece of onion, then blacklead in the usual way. The result is a brilliant and lasting polish.

Stuffed Sheep's Hearts—Soak one or two sheep's hearts in salt and water, then carefully cut away all the valves. Make a small quantity of stuffing with breadcrumbs, herbs, sweet pepper and salt, a dust of flour to bind it, instead of using an egg, and just moisten with water.

Press this into the cavities of the hearts, and simmer in a hot pot for an hour and a half.

Uses For Old House Linen—Old cotton sheets make useful dust-sheets. The best parts of linen sheets can, with the addition of a little embroidery, be turned into pillow or sheet shams, tray-cloths, toilet-cases, etc. Pieces too old to be worth making up should be kept and used in case of sickness. Old face-towels make household-cloths. Old tablecloths can be cut down into carvings-cloths, tray-cloths, centres for d'oyleys, etc.

Mount Cashel Silver Jubilee—There will be a Meeting of the above Committee on Friday night, October 5th, in the B.I.S. Club Rooms, at 8.30 p.m. C. E. JARDINE, Sec. Committee. Oct. 4th.

The Cutest Little Dancer Yet Seen Here

MISS FAWNETTE DELIGHTS AUDIENCES.

The large audiences at the popular Star last evening simply went in wild applause at the performance of the wonder girl—Fawnette, and it was a most wonderful performance in every way. This talented artist danced the Doll Dance and her every action denoted the most finished acrobatic dancer that we have yet seen. Fawnette appeared as a big doll, moving mechanically at every step, and at both performances was obliged to respond to encores.

Mr. Tesori was probably heard to better advantage than on previous occasions, and he also was obliged to respond to encores, in fact it appears that at each one he like Cossie "is better in every way every day." The big production which is billed for next week—The Old Homestead—is one that is going to prove a wonderful attraction, as not alone from the picture itself, which is a masterpiece, but the musical part of it, is going to be put over in the Star movie way. Watch this paper for further particulars.
