Visiting M.P.'S Impressions

In this issue appears an article written for the Daily Mail by Dr. L. Hayden Guest, M.P., on the recent visit of the Parliamentary Delegation to Newfoundland, and we quote the following extract from another article, in which the writer gives his impression of the people and the country's industrial outlook:

"150 PER CENT. BRITISH."
 "The people of Newfoundland are very British—150 per cent. British some of them describe themselves. They are largely descended from West of England families, very many from Dorset, and there are important elements from Scotland and from Ireland."

Bright With Hope.
 It will be development on a splendid foundation not only of great wealth of natural resources but also of great strength of national character. To one who served, as the present writer did, alongside the Newfoundland Battalion in the 29th Division in France, watching can ever eradicate the impression of a fanaticism, of a bravery, and of a splendour of courage and endurance which characterized those men. And the naval record of Newfoundland surpassed, if possible, the land record."

For my own part, I think that if it were only to visit the land that had produced the Newfoundland people, the time of the Imperial delegation would have been well spent. But the object of such visits is not only to pay homage to the past but also to consider developments of the future and how better to use the joint resources of all our great Dominions. To visit Newfoundland now when social and industrial developments of a far-reaching character are taking place, when despite great political difficulties and handicaps, a point of vantage has been attained, is to visit a country bright with hope."

Just what practical results may follow the visit of the members it is of course impossible to conjecture, but there can be no doubt that Dr. Hayden Guest's graceful tributes will have the effect of enlightening the people of Great Britain regarding the Colony, and even if the visit serves no other purpose, it will have been well worth while. The remarks made by Dr. Guest are all the more gratifying as he is a keen observer, familiar with conditions in many countries, and is by no means given to paying empty compliments.

Our Money or Their Lives

The high death rate among children during the month of September as indicated in the Table of Vital Statistics prepared by the Registrar General is a setback after the favourable returns of the previous months, and is far from reassuring to those who were of the opinion that conditions were improving in this respect.

The heaviest toll is again taken by those diseases to which the children in the city are susceptible at this season, and the figures are all the more significant in view of the increased efforts made in recent years to cope with such cases.

The solution of the problem, however, rests, not with the medical fraternity and the Welfare Associations, but with the civic authorities and in particular with the citizens themselves. So long as we are willing to tolerate dirt, to submit to the careless handling of foods, and to be satisfied with the antiquated system of sanitation which is in operation in the city, so long must we expect to pay the price in the precious lives of our children.

The plea is there is not sufficient money available to effect the necessary improvements; but the question is, is there any serious effort made to find the money? Is there even any inclination in that direction? As a matter of fact many desirable improvements do not call for the expenditure of a single cent, but simply for the exercising of the authority which the powers possess.

And in so far as it is a question of money, are we hesitating as to whether we shall part with our dollars or part with our children?

Put Back the Clock

At 11 o'clock to-morrow night Daylight Saving Time ends, and all clocks will be changed to one hour earlier. To effect the change of time it is considered advisable either to advance the hands of the clock eleven hours or to stop it for one hour, rather than to move the hands back, as it is considered that the latter method injures the mechanism.

Hotel Tenders Accepted

We are informed that in connection with the plumbing and heating of the Newfoundland Hotel the contract has been given to Farquhar Bros., Halifax, owing to the fact that it was "incredibly lower" than the one local tender submitted. It is said to be one of the largest contracts of the kind undertaken by a Nova Scotia firm.

The contract for the electrical wiring and fixtures has also gone to a Canadian firm, namely Messrs. Goulet and Delangeur of Québec, as no local firm cared to undertake such a big proposition.

And Why Not?

If women can have their hair cut, why can't men use Talcum? Most men know that as an after shave Talcum Powder is a delightful treat, especially when the Three Flowers Talcum for this powder does not throw off a "loud" odor. Its faint, pleasing perfume is but a suggestion, a touch of fragrance. Certainly men may use Three Flowers Talcum, and need not fear criticism by doing so. Well groomed men know that Three Flowers is the ideal talcum to use. oct3.11

Vagrant a Problem to Police

A 23 year old girl, named Milley, was brought to the police station last night by the Rev. Mr. Moore, for shelter, pending some arrangement which would provide her with a home. This is the girl reported as sleeping in the open in the vicinity of Cornhill Ave. She is somewhat weak-minded and delicate. Several parties who have interested themselves in the matter have suggested that the unfortunate girl be sent to the Poor Asylum, but as the place is crowded she cannot be admitted there. By request she was brought before the magistrate this morning and the police are perplexed. The only thing they can do is release her or have her sent to the penitentiary. There are seven or eight unfortunate of this class in the city.

The Twillingate Hospital

Editor Evening Telegram.
 Dear Sir.—It seems to me rather extraordinary that, in the various articles on the subject of the Twillingate Hospital which have appeared in the local press from time to time, no reference is ever made to the assistance rendered by Dr. Grenfell. It was Dr. Grenfell that the people of Twillingate turned to when the idea of the Hospital was first mooted. At the request of the local Committee he must have paid at least a dozen visits to Twillingate. It was he who selected the site, and I think I am right in stating that it was through him that Dr. Parsons, the energetic and most capable superintendent, was secured. It was through Dr. Grenfell and his friends in the United States that the sum of $50,000 was donated by the Commonwealth Fund of America towards the erection of the building. This amount was in two subscriptions of $25,000 each, the first of which was originally given for the proposed new Hospital at St. Anthony, but as Dr. Grenfell was not then ready to proceed with that building he very generously had the money diverted to Twillingate. In other words, Dr. Grenfell raised more than half the money required for Twillingate but no mention is ever made of that fact. The Twillingate Hospital is not one of the Grenfell chain of hospitals, and I am not writing this to in any way disparage the excellent work accomplished by Dr. Parsons. But I do think that when an article appears such as that in Friday's Telegram—an article by the way in which I am in thorough sympathy—some acknowledgment might be made of the part played by Dr. Grenfell, without whose aid the Twillingate Memorial Hospital would in all probability never have been erected.

Yours faithfully,

R. WATSON.

Chairman Grenfell Ass'n. of Nfld. and Vice-Chairman International Grenfell Association.
 Oct. 2, 1925.

The purpose of yesterday's article was not so much to identify any person in particular who had taken a prominent part in the establishment or support of the Hospital as to show what the people themselves had accomplished. So far as Dr. Grenfell's work is concerned, we are only too glad at all times to give him full credit for the great services he has rendered in this and in other directions.—Ed.

The Newfoundland Hotel

A noble building soon shall raise its stately spire on high, In ancient days gone by; Within whose ramparts, covert, ditch And palisade we know, Bold Englishmen assembled To defend it 'gainst the foe.

Some centuries have passed since then; Now the dove of peace we view, With Terra Nova prosperous And her sons all loyal and true. With the wheels of progress moving And right rapidly as well, Rise, over old Fort William, The new Newfoundland Hotel.

Two there that first progressive Unfettered was set free, By brave Whiteway, the father Of the railway policy. There blew the engines whistle As our history does show. When first we had a railway With Fort William the depot.

The men who undertook to build this grand hotel today, May fortune shed its brightest rays On one and all I pray. Blandford, Stanford and the rest Deserve our praise right well, And may many tourists come To The Newfoundland Hotel.

MAGIC TOUCH OF INDUSTRY.
 By L. HAYDEN GUEST, M.C., M.P., One of the delegation of M.P.'s Touring Newfoundland and Canada. ST. JOHN'S, Nfld.—One of the great human problems of Newfoundland is the pull and attraction of the United States. The birthrate is high and the emigration rate to the United States is also high.
 The attraction of cities, the sparkle and shine of an immense spending prosperity in the United States, the white shining light of New York like a tremendous lighthouse beam shining out all over the New World, these things take many of Newfoundland's young men and women away from the woods and rivers and townships of their native land. Many return. For Newfoundland is a homey place to those of British race; its grey rocks and soft skies, its green woods and the short close turf by the sides of roads and tracks, its solid, simple house, and its soft speech make a background familiar to our race for many generations.
 But many do not return. Fishing, lumbering, mining—these three activities of the island are not a broad enough basis for a much expanded life.

Birth of a Town.
 To have seen the country as it is now is to realize how tremendous was the idea of The Daily Mail in starting the paper industry here about 20 years ago at Grand Falls. Only a great imaginative effort would have been capable of beginning a big scale industry in the midst of what was then almost a wilderness.
 Now around the paper mills the town of Grand Falls has arisen, there are well-built, convenient, electrically lighted houses, public halls, banks, shops, churches, recreation grounds, and a happy contented population rapidly increasing in numbers (hundreds of babies are born every year), and even creating on a small scale a problem of employment, for the paper mills provide no openings for girls (except for a few clerks and stenographers), and not all the boys can be absorbed.
 More significant still perhaps is the starting of a new paper mill at Corner Brook on the Humber River on the west coast of the island by a new and independent company.
 And here out of the wilderness again has been built up in two years a completely up-to-date paper plant capable of producing 400 tons of news print a day.—Daily Mail.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

October 2nd.—Called this morning at 5 o'clock, and up and to dress in haste being that the house is cold and the morning like unto late November weather and indeed, the season said to be a month advanced. So to breakfast off some hot tea and toast with bacon, all of us in high good humour and hoping for much sport. Anon, taking the motor coach up the road, did leave it by the wayside and start our tramp across the barrens, having 2 dogs with us, which being Peppy's, he do swear by, yet do seem to me slow enough to swear at. But Lord, to recount all the happenings of this day is beyond me, save that a few incidents do remain in my memory, among them how poor Peppy did nigh shoot the tail off 1 dog, and Blabbs comes close to shooting the head off Peppy. Indeed, such fools with a gun I did never before see, and for my part will never go with them again, being that I would have had a good 12 brace were it not for them, and instead needs must be satisfied with 6. But as for the dogs, I did never before see their like, being more used to hunt chicken in a run than to rise ptarmigan, as I did tell Peppy in no uncertain language. Being returned to the house at last, mighty tired, do have among us but 6 brace of birds, 3 of which are mine, and Blabbs gets none at all. So to sit down to a hearty meal of corned beef and cabbage, which I did much enjoy, and then by motor coach, to the city, where we did arrive at midnight. Find my wife is abroad playing at Bridge, which madens we that knowing I was on my way home, she did not go ahead, and has with her too food awaiting me, and our cookie mayd gone to bed. So rummaging about for something to eat, do trip over the cat and fall across a chair, which bruises my shin so that I may hardly walk. So in high ill humour to bed, being sore in need of rest.

In the Magistrate's Court

MINISTER OF FINANCE VS. SIR R.D. SQUIRES.
 In the case of the Minister of Finance vs. Sir Richard Squires, the further hearing has been adjourned until Nov. 3rd next. In the meantime Howley, K.C. will appeal to the Supreme Court on the matter of the Judge's jurisdiction. On Wednesday last his Honor Judge Morris fined the defendant $1000 for not making a proper return of his income for the year preceding Dec. 31st, 1921, as required by Section 7 of the War Tax Act of 1918. Mr. Howley asked for an adjournment of the hearing of six other like charges until to-day and intimated that he would ask the Judge to state a case. When the hearing began this forenoon, Mr. Howley stated his intention to apply to the Supreme Court on Tuesday next on the question of the Judge's jurisdiction, and he asked that, as the charge of Sir Richard failing to make his income tax for 1919 had partly been gone into that it might be concluded.

Mr. Emerson for the Minister of Finance, pointed out that as all the cases were identical and the question of jurisdiction may apply that all the cases be adjourned. He asked that as a fine had been imposed it should be paid or security for payment given.

Mr. Howley absolutely refused to pay the fine or give security and pointed out the embarrassing position which would arise if the conviction was quashed.

His Honor—"Yes, if it is quashed."
 Mr. Emerson—"This man has been convicted and fined and the fine should be paid."
 Mr. Howley—"Go ahead and collect it."

Mr. Emerson—"So I will."
 After a little further cross-firing, Mr. Howley submitted that as the law provides seven days within which to ask for a statement of case he would ask for an adjournment until the period expires.

Mr. Emerson submitted that there was no adjournment of the case under discussion, it had concluded and the only question was would they proceed with the other charges. His opinion was that it was not advisable to continue.

Mr. Howley—"I am prepared to proceed."

Mr. Emerson—"I am not."

His Honor—"I do not intend to proceed when my jurisdiction is attacked."

Mr. Howley—"I have a greater regard for your Honor's integrity than for your jurisdiction."

It was decided to adjourn the matter until Nov. 3rd next, pending the decision of the Supreme Court.
