

CALGARY PEOPLE WILL MAKE SURE OF TECHNICAL EDUCATION GRANT

Representations in Favor of University of Calgary Have Already Been Made to Ottawa to Found Industrial School Here

STRONG efforts are already being made by Calgary people to make sure that the annual grant of $150,000 for technical education for the province of Alberta comes to the University of Calgary. It is understood that representations have already been made to Ottawa on the subject, and that attention has been promised by those who will bring about the making of the grant for the work.

Dr. Blow, chairman of the governors of the university, said last evening that the university would need some such grant to carry out its work with success, and he felt sure that it would be forthcoming in time. It only remained for the people of Calgary to show by their loyalty to the university that they meant to make it a success. If the people themselves could not see fit to support their own university they could hardly expect that any outside body would do it for them.

School of Science Here

As to the prospects of the university, Dr. Blow was of the opinion that an arts school could be easily supported by the people of Calgary. A law school was only a matter of time, and would most certainly be founded soon. The government grant would make possible a technical school, and in conjunction with it a school of science could be run. Domestic science was already being asked for, and it was evident that it would have to be provided at an early date.

Calgary should be, according to Dr. Blow, the school for science and technical training for the province of Alberta. Edmonton could well enough take the professions, and Calgary would have to continue its arts school, and could do that easily enough by itself. But the science school was far more expensive and needed far greater financial support, and the people would have to come forward eagerly and lend a hand if the university was to be the success that most wished it to be.

Room for Technical Training

As to the technical side of the work, Calgary afforded such excellent facilities for the work that its claims would not be overlooked by the federal government, and it was sure to get the big grant for the work when the time came round. With the big railway engineering shops, the manufacturing and the other industries, Calgary was the most appropriate place for a technical school in Alberta. Near to the mining centres and the other industries, a great school could be made here which would be certainly in the interests of all concerned.

Exactly what extensions in the work of the university will be made next winter is not yet decided. The governors have not yet taken up the matter fully. It is just possible that a law school may be set aside, and domestic science may be taken up to meet the wants of the large numbers who have professed themselves as anxious for such training, while some science classes may be initiated. All depends on the financial aid given by the people of Calgary.

WARMTH VISITED THE WEST, WHILE COLD STORMED EAST

Calgarians Yesterday Sweltered Under the Blaze of a Fierce June Sun While Montrealers and New Yorkers Shivered in Snow Blizzard

THUNDER PREDICTED WITH HEAT TODAY

Rain Is Much Needed in the West for the Growth of the Crops and the Continued Heat and Sunshine Is Not the Thing Most Desired

"Fine and decidedly warm" is the official report of the weather in Alberta yesterday. The people of Calgary will appreciate the word "decidedly" far more than one conceded several pounds to the weatherman during the hot days of the week.

It is with a slight grudge that one reads of the cold, the snow in Montreal, the recent June ever experienced in New England, the bitter blizzards in the Ohio Valley, and what would not many a westerner have given for some of that yesterday?

Varieties of Weather.

The present experience of the west and the contrary complaints of the east do but give another example of the truth of the old adage that one half of the world does not know how the other half lives. It is furthermore a proof that there is one who can and will blow both hot and cold at the same time, though, to the sorrow of most people, not in the same place at the same time.

The weather forecast for Alberta for today promises no relief from the heat. True, it will be unsettled weather, but the unsettledness is that of the thunderstorm which will bring with it a doubled heat and rain which will bring the yet more troublesome provision of carrying a sunbath.

Alberta and Saskatchewan certainly did all in their power yesterday to earn the name of sunny yesterday. Their lowest record in the way of heat was above 80, and they certainly reached as high as 80. East and west there was nothing to march, and with all the west crying for rain, the sunshine is not the thing to be most desired at this time.

BOURASSA WILL TALK MUCH IN EDMONTON

Edmonton, June 9.—Henri Bourassa, the famous Quebec Nationalist leader and editor of "Le Devoir" of Montreal, who arrived in the city tonight to take part in the French Language society convention, will be the guest of the Canadian club at a luncheon to be given in the Corona Hotel on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Bourassa has been chosen as the subject of his address. The "Racial Problem" in Canada. Recognizing that the luncheon will not give an opportunity to all members of the general public who may desire to hear the Nationalist leader, a public meeting has been arranged for Friday evening in the Empire auditorium when Mr. Bourassa will speak on "The Nationalist Movement."

CHINAMAN HAS TERRIBLE DEATH IN LUMBER MILL

Vancouver, June 8.—Caught in the rapidly revolving shap of a planer at the East Portage company's lumber mill, Wong Tung, a Chinaman, today received such injuries that he died a few moments after reaching the hospital. His clothing caught in the shap, and he was whirled around with terrific speed until the machinery was stopped.

CLEARWATER CASE IS UP BEFORE SUPREME COURT

to Mr. Ford, but when he came to the name of Mr. Justice Beetz, Mr. Scott and Mr. Justice Walsh suggested in the same breath that Clarke represented Joseph A. Clarke himself.

Five Disputed Ballots

Mr. Ford then explained that this was a case in which a number of ballots were disputed, as they were cast by people whose names were not on the lists. There were five such votes in all, and at the court under Judge Beetz one was allowed on the evidence offered. The evidence for the others was thought to be similar to the one which was allowed without evidence being taken. At the same time, the solicitor for McKinnon withdrew a request for a court after making a protest, and no evidence was then taken, as there was no opposition to counting the ballots. It was felt that the votes should be allowed where no one appeared to gain say them. Mr. Ford stated, however, that that point was not of much consequence.

Saving the Deposit

There were two other ballots dealt with. The objection was withdrawn in these, as it was understood that they would when counted for Mr. Clarke for whom they were cast, be the means of saving his deposit. Mr. Eager explained the position of these votes a length.

Court No Jurisdiction

Mr. Ford then resumed, and said that the constitution of the judgment Judge Beetz was wrong. It was mis taken as to the duties of a returning officer. The legislature allowed courts no more power than was given in the statute. There were adequate remedies for any wrong that was claimed to have been done. "The court had no power to order the returning officer to do his duty," said the chief justice.

"It had no authority whatever," said Mr. Ford.

This, he continued, was a principle of parliamentary and legislative elections. The parliament had not given up any powers further than those confined in the statute. The statute provided for all the duties of the court, and the resort for this was not hard to seek. The court then adjourned for the day, and the case will be continued this morning.

THE HEART DEPARTMENT

By Laura Jean Libbey.

His Father Is a Cripple

"Dear Miss Libbey: I have been going with a young man that is a farmer for almost six years. We have been engaged for a long time. He has always been nice to me and we have got along well together. But his father is a cripple and he hasn't any brothers. I should think that it was best for him to stay at home and see after him, for neither of us ever wanted to live with them. I also have a friend that is a promising young physician. We have always been the best of friends ever since I can remember. The governor went to school he wrote to me and we have corresponded ever since, and during his vacations he always called on me once, but only acted as an old friend. He had been keeping company with a young lady for a long time and they, too, were engaged. Last fall he asked to call again and I consented, and he came and asked me to go to a pie supper with him and another boy and girl. We decided that it would not cause either of us any trouble and we went. His sweetheart became very angry and my beau said that he thought I should not have gone unless I had told him about it.

I am 22. The doctor is 30 and the other young man is 25. Last winter this doctor told this girl that they would have to quit; that he could wait on me, but he never told me then, and about the same time I told my beau that I honestly liked this man, and he told me that he loved me better than anyone on earth, but he never could be happy if he thought that I cared for some one else. We decided that the best thing we could do was to quit each other for a while and me go with the doctor and he was to go with a respectable young lady.

When I commenced keeping company with him I found that he was very much in love with me and that was the reason that he and his girl had quit, and that he had loved me for a long time, but never could tell me for fear that he might cause trouble between us. We had only been going together a month, but when I would go with him and see this other young man I would feel sad. Was it because I had kept company with him so long, or did I just love him so? When we had an opportunity we had a talk and he asked to call. When he came he said that I would either have to give him or the other young man up, and I did not want to give him up forever; and he said that we had gone together long enough, or as long as he felt that he could wait on me, but that he loved me as he never expected to love anyone else.

I told him that I would marry him in June and he is making all preparations and fixing everything that he thinks will make me happy. I had a date with this doctor, and when he called and I had to tell him that we could not go with each other any longer. It made me feel so sad, and his whole life seemed crushed out, and he says that he loves me better than any one in the world. I am not quite so happy with him as I am with the other young man, but is this because I have gone with the other one so much longer? Do you think that I could ever love this doctor and never think or be unhappy when I see this other man? We are to live one and one-half miles from the town where this doctor is located and he is certainly a promising young man. I like town and society, but what am I to do, for I know that they both love me, and both of them want me? Which one do you think that I should marry? Yesterday my beau said that he could tell that I was not as happy as I should be and that he would release me any time that I was sorry, but he would never make up again if we quit again. He says he wants me to be happy if he can't, for I deserve it. Thanking you in advance for your much appreciated advice.

"RUTH."

The thing for you to do, Ruth, is to put the doctor out of your mind and thrive, since you have given your promise to marry the other man, if you play the part of a trifler you will wanting you before long. The man that you are happier with is the one whom you should marry.

The average man's idea of good wages is when he gets enough to pay his bills and have two dollars in his pocket the night before pay day.
