Woman, Many Times Married, Contends That She Is the Legal Wife of Celebrated "Portuguese Joe"; Indians Tell of Tribal Customs

Stanley Webster's court Kempitka Sysic, a San Poil squaw, who claims to be the legal widow of Portuguese
Joe, declared that she was married but once, although others who followed told of her tribal matrimonial ventures including marriages to "Charlie," (Phot Skoleskin and others). Attornew for the estate introduced records showing that Susanne had attempted to get possession of the estate of Bob Twezelkin, one of her alleged husbands, in Okanogan county. Priest Gets Boxing License.

New York, June 26.—The Rev.
Father M. P. Heffernan, rector of the Catholic church of Sayville, L.I., was granted an amateur license by the state boxing commission yesterday to conduct the Sayville A.C. and hold boxing matches under its auspices. Father Hefferman will open the club to young men of all religious denominations, and the enterprise has the support, it is said, of clergymen of the other denominations in the town.

MINERVA COVERDALE, THE COLAROSSI,

Charming and bewitching Minerva Coverdale, who has only recently graduated out of her teens, will appear here with Raymond Hitchcock in the musical play "The Red Widow," which will be the attraction at the Sherman Grand for the first three days of the Fair, with two special matinees Tuesday and Wednesday. She will appear as Yvette, the music-hall dancer. When dancing, Minerva is likened to a sunbeam sprite as she responds to the swaying metrical melody of the music. She has an endowment of beauty, and lithesomeness exceptional in dancers, whose muscular development almost invariably distorts the lines of the figure. Her escape to this fate is to be vredited to her instinct of rythm and natural grace, which makes the exhausting drill all dancers must undergo practically effortless for her.

Nasturtium Freaks.

From some standpoints the most astonishing thing on view was a family group of a score of nasturtium plants reared by the John Innes Horticultural reared by the John Innes Horticultural institution.

The father of the family was a tall, thin nasturtium with double yellow-striped blossoms and pure green foliage; the mother a short, bushy nasturtium with single red-brown blossoms and variegated foliage. This couple had as offspring a nasturtium entirely different from either, but indistinguishable at first glance from the common nasturtium to be found in almost any London back garden. Examination showed, however, that it possessed both sex organs, and could, therefore, be self-fertilised. The results of this self-fertilisation were truly amazing.
