Two Bits of News from Edison.

[From the Hazelton Sentinel.]

Thomas Alva Edison registered at the Central Hotel last night. The great inventor is very hard of hearing, very hard, indeed, and it isn't very easy to talk to him, unless you do not care to annoy the boarders. His manners are sharp and abrupt. He has a look in his eye for all the world like John Wanamaker, minus the Sunday school feature, of course.

"How did you come to be so deaf?" asked the reporter.
