BARKWELL'S BRONCHIAL BALSAM.

Dear Sir, --- I wish to testify of the merits of that grand preparation as Barkwell's Vegetable Healing Bronchial Balsam. I was told by a neighbor what a grand Balsam it was. My little girl was very ill with bronchitis, and a very few doses restored her and I believe saved her life. I feel it my duty to let others know that they also can be cured of this terrible affection. MRS. MARGARET LOWTHER,

The Young Liberal Minstrels Start.

The Young Liberal Minstrels left on the 7:30 train this morning for Toronto, about 150 people in all getting on board. The "boys" iairly woke up the station with thoir jokes and chaff, and it was feared they would have none left for Toronto at night. The car was a new one, built in the G. T. R. car works at Montreal, and everybody of the troupe felt pleased with the special accommodation provided them by the railway company. The car, which was a "special," will, however, in all probability be relegated to ordinary passenger traffic.

A Lobo Wedding.

A very pleasant gathering assembled Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Murch, of Lobo village, the occasion being the marriage of their daughter Nellie to the Rev. J. E. Holmes, of Melrose circuit. Some 70 guests were present, including several relatives and friends from London, St. Thomas, Ingersoll, etc. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Holmes, of Bothwell, father of the groom, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Morgan, of Sarnia. An elegant display of presents to the value of $200 showed the marked esteem in which the young couple are held. After the ceremony the company sat down to a most bountiful repast, and subsequently the bride and groom took their departure amidst a shower of good wishes from all present.

A Coming Attraction.

Speaking of Lilly Clay's Colossal Gaiety Company, which will appear at the Opera House here to-morrow, the Pittsburgh Dispatch says: "The company made a successful and satisfactory entree before the Pittsburg patrons of vaudeville performances, at Harry Williams' Academy last night. At the Congregational Church.

The pulpit of the Congregational Church was occupied yesterday morning and evening by Rev. J. Philp. Mr. Philp is well known to London church-goers, having been at one time pastor of the Queen's Avenue Church. In the evening the reverend gentleman took for his text, Proverbs, xx., 29: "The glory of young men is their strength." He preached a very stirring sermon, setting out what the church must expect from the young people of the present day and the influence they would wield in a few years more. He gave as the motto of every young person the following words, "I may, I ought, I can, I will," and if these were followed everything would be well. The new organ was heard for the first time, and created a very favorable impression by the sweetness of its tones. It was presided over by Mr. Charles Wheeler. A spirited song service was given by the choir, which has been augmented in number.

An Evening of Redned Fun.

Mr. J. B. Polk and his excellent company repeated their performance of the bewitching comedy of "The Silent Partner" at the Grand Opera House on Saturday evening, and the audience again laughed itself tired at the many ludierous positions and humorous misunderstandings which are so freely and inseperably woven into the plot of the play. The show is one which all unite in saying is quite equal to the ever-popular "Mixed Pickles." Miss Helen A. Soule, in the role of Mabel Van Cott, divided the honors of the evening with Mr. Polk. The character is one for for which Miss Soule appears to be specially adapted, and her presentation of the confiding and loving girl who invariably refused to believe anything which reflected on the character of her lover, was one of the most refreshing pieces of artistic skill that has been seen behind the footlights here for some time. To prove beyond a doubt that the play is a success it is only necessary to say that it gives America's leading comedian abundance of opportunties to display his unrivaled ability to make the audience laugh without loosing himself in a maze of improbabilities.
