Hon. Mr. Fielding's speech was regarding the will be in the who will also be of the Minister of Finance was forced to desist by the House rising for dinner the Ministerialists broke into a tumult of applause. Mr. Fielding's logic was unally werable, and the financial managers, I' hope to show the House that the money would meet every financial responsibility which the Government of Canda have assumed under this contract. How is this to be brought about? We have to consider not the mere multiplication of interest for seven years. What we have to consider is what use we could make of this $13,000,000. of applause. Mr. Fielding's logic was unanswerable, and the financial details the capital account of the eastern section at the time of the completion. of the agreement were explained in a luminous manner. His speech was lofty and elevated in style and pervaded by a strong sentiment of confidence in the future of Constant and the time of the completion, this annual interest is $1,638,290, and we will be out of pocket that amount for seven years. Now, if you apply to any actuary of repute in the Dominion fidence in the future of Canada. He was most effective when he pointed out that if, instead of reducing the public debt, as the Government would do this year, the surplus of $13,725,705 was handed over to a trust or insurance company accustomed to deal with any unities and the seven years' interest as it shall accrue, he will tell you that for the sum of $8,553,502 you can provide for those seven years' of interest.
