

London Will Be Honored Tomorrow With a Visit By the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia

ONLY GOOD WEATHER NEEDED TO PROPERLY RECEIVE THE DUKE

All Arrangements Have Been Completed for the Reception of the Royal Party, Who Will Arrive Here About 11 o'Clock at the C. P. R. Depot.

Everything is in readiness for the reception to their royal highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia tomorrow. All that remains now is good weather, and then the function will be an undoubted success. The reception committee had a brief meeting at noon today, when the finishing touches were put on.

Col. Macdonnell, of the military headquarters, had a conference with the committee and made arrangements for the military end of the affair. A garrison parade has been ordered by Col. Hodgins, D. O. C., and all the regiments represented in this district will be on hand, including the men at Wolsley Barracks.

Pte. Pinel Will Be There.
Orders have also been issued for the South African veterans to parade to the park at 2:30 o'clock to witness the unveiling, Dr. A. V. Becher, the president of the local organization, has given orders for the parade, and it is expected that every veteran of this war will be on hand. All will wear their South African medals.

Arrangements have been completed to bring Pte. Archie Pinel to the ceremonies, and he will be a conspicuous figure at the function.

His Duke, as announced previously, will arrive in London shortly after 11 o'clock over the Grand Trunk. Owing to the fact that a dozen passenger trains arrive at the same time, it was found impossible to have any ceremonies at the station. After consulting with the railway officials it was decided to transfer the royal train to the C. P. R. station. The latter company are handling the train on its return trip, and it was thought advisable to have the reception to the royal party held at the C. P. R. As a result the conference decided that the latter was the better arrangement, and it was decided upon. The Grand Trunk will transfer the royal train over the inter-switching line to the C. P. R. The latter company have a train arriving about this hour, but it will be held in the yards until the reception is over.

Mayor Will Meet the Duke.
When the Governor-General arrives, Col. Lowther, his military secretary, will alight, and will then escort Mayor Graham to the royal car, where he will be introduced to their highnesses. The whole party will then alight, and his worship will introduce them to the aldermen and their wives. Little Marion Coles, daughter of Ald. W. G. Coles, and Honore Cronyn, daughter of Major Hume Cronyn, will present the Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia with handsome bouquets of flowers.

NO REFERENCE TO THE QUEEN ON THE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT

Artist Hill Says That It Was a Mistake to Omit the Medallion.

There will be no medallion of the late Queen Victoria on the soldiers' monument to be unveiled in Victoria Park tomorrow, no any other reference to England's greatest queen. This is a mistake, Mr. George W. Hill, the sculptor, considers, but the omission is due to the trouble that arose some time ago regarding the monument.

Mr. Hill is in the city, superintending the erection of the monument, and will be present at the unveiling ceremonies tomorrow. The statue is a very handsome piece of work. It is the first real monument erected in a public park in the city. It is rumored that others will follow soon.

"I think it was a mistake that some reference was not made to Queen Victoria on the monument," said Mr. Hill to The Advertiser. "The first sketch provided for a medallion of Her Majesty, but some objection was made to it because the Queen did not occupy the top position. Personally I think it was quite the proper thing. It is done elsewhere without the slightest suggestion of disloyalty. For my own interesting figure had the medallion been allowed to remain. However, the matter was compromised, and the monument is as it stands now. I think it quite satisfactory as it is, but it could have been made much better. I hope everybody will like it."

CAPTAIN AND TRADE BOARD BLAMED FOR TITANIC WRECK

Senator Smith Issues Statement in Which Commander of Lost Liner Is Held Responsible For Disaster and Californian's Captain Censured For Not Going to Rescue.

[Canadian Press.]
Washington, D. C., May 28. — Blame for the Titanic disaster is chargeable directly to the failure of the dead Capt. Smith to heed repeated warnings of icebergs ahead, but responsibility for unnecessary loss of life must be shared by Capt. Lord, of the steamship Californian, through his disregard of distress signals.

This is the finding of the Senate committee, which investigated the sinking of the Titanic, as prepared in a comprehensive speech delivered by William Alden Smith, of Michigan, chairman of the committee.

Sensor Smith declared that responsibility also rests upon the British Board of Trade, "to whose laxity of regulation and hasty inspection the world is largely indebted for the awful calamity." In denouncing Capt. Lord, of the Californian, the senator said the Titanic's distress signals were plainly

The guard of honor will then be inspected by the duke, and on the completion of this the mayor and council will precede the royal party to the Normal School.

The Official Welcome.
On their arrival there Mayor Graham will read the official address of welcome. The National Council of Women will then have charge of the party, the duchess and Princess Patricia taking part in the convention. At 12:30 o'clock, the duke, accompanied by the council, will take a drive about the city, paying particular attention to the factory sites and workmen's homes.

The duke will arrive at the Tecumseh House at 1 o'clock, or shortly afterwards, and a reception will be held in the parlors upstairs, where he will be introduced to the guests at the luncheon.

In the meantime, the Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia will be entertained to luncheon at the Normal School. Mrs. C. M. R. Graham, wife of the mayor, will preside at the table. Those seated with her will be the following: On her right, the Duchess of Connaught, Mrs. Senator Coffey, Miss Pelly, lady-in-waiting, Mrs. W. E. Hodgins, Mrs. W. Long, Mrs. H. A. Boomer, Mrs. Plimpre, Miss Derich. On her left will be: Princess Patricia, Mrs. Adam Beck, Mrs. F. H. Torrington, Lady Gibson, Lady Gibbons, Lady Taylor, Mrs. W. J. Gibbons, and Mrs. George Watt. Five only are London ladies. (Continued on Page Eleven.)

ADVERTISER'S STORY OF WHEN THE DUKE VISITED LONDON AS PRINCE ARTHUR IN 1869

His Royal Highness' Doings On September 22 of That Year When He Opened the 24th Annual Provincial Fair in This City—An Interesting Story.

On Sept. 22 his royal highness the Duke of Connaught, then known as Prince Arthur, paid a visit to London and opened the 24th Annual Provincial Fair, which was held on the old grounds near the present C. P. R. depot, and which were abandoned in 1887. His following story is from The Advertiser of Sept. 22, 1869, and the two following days:

The Great Western station and the approaches to it were thronged with spectators as early as half-past three Tuesday afternoon, in expectation of the arrival of His Royal Highness Prince Arthur, who was announced to arrive in the city between half-past four and five o'clock. About 4:30 the guard of honor of the London Light Infantry, headed by their fine band, arrived on the station platform, and formed up in the inclosed space in front of the waiting-room door, reserved for the reception of His Highness. Some difficulty was experienced in driving the crowd outside the barrier; but after some vigorous maneuvering on the part of the Volunteers, this was in a great measure effected. Among those who were permitted to remain within the reserved space were His Excellency Sir John Young, Governor-General; Sir John A. Macdonald, Col. McNeill and Capt. Turville, secretaries to His Excellency, Colonel Bernard, A. D. C., Dean Hellmuth, Hon. Mr. Carling, Col. Askut, Mayor Graydon and the aldermen of the city, the president and members of the Agricultural Council, Col. Taylor, D. A. G.; Lt.-Col. Shanly, commandant; Lt.-Col. Lewis and officers of the Seventh Light Infantry; Capt. Starr, and other staff officers. The guard of honor from the Seventh, under command of Capt. Walker, with Lieut. Bennet and Ensign Corrigan, the former bearing the Queen's color, was formed in open order to the west of the entrance to the waiting-room, facing the railway, with the band in rear of the centre. Rarely has a subscription taken in this city for any cause had the ready response evident in the case of Pte. "Archie" Pinel. At press time today the amount had almost reached the $200 mark, and it seems likely that the money will come faster later in the day. In the neighborhood of $150 was received during yesterday afternoon, last night and this morning, and a number of factories and offices have announced that they have collected amounts which will be turned in during the week.

Citizens of all stations called upon Mr. Ernest Ruse this morning and entered an amount opposite their name. To See Statue Unveiled.

Yesterday Dr. H. A. Kingsmill paid a visit to the home of Pte. Pinel, and after making an examination came to the conclusion that with the exercise of extreme care it would be possible to have the soldier removed from his home and conveyed to Victoria Park in an ambulance in order that he might witness the unveiling of the monument.

NATIONAL COUNCIL ARE IN FAVOR OF PLAY CENSORSHIP IN CANADA

Convention Discusses Means of Combatting the Spread of Pernicious Literature and Helping to Keep Clean the Stage and Moving Pictures.

THIS EVENING'S PROGRAMME.
Chairman, Bishop Fallon.
Subject, "Patriotism as Expressed in Art in the Development of Resources and in Ideals."
Address, Mrs. Dignan, Toronto.
Address, Mrs. Parsons, Forest.
Address, Mrs. Plimpre.

Whether plays to be presented before Canadian audiences should first be submitted to a board of censors composed of both men and women was thoroughly discussed at the sessions of the National Council of Women this morning, after the reading of the report of the committee on objectionable printed matter by Mrs. McNaughton, of Montreal. This report had been prepared by Mrs. Liddle, of Montreal, convener of the committee, and showed that letters had been sent to the various National Councils in Canada asking for information regarding what steps were being taken to suppress pernicious literature by the councils or other organizations, and if any bylaws regarding the distribution of indecent postcards, printed matter, posters, etc., existed. Reports had been received from the majority of the councils showing their activities along this line.

Play Censor.
In regard to appointing a board of censors for theatres, the condition of several theatres in Toronto and other cities were mentioned and the feeling of the meeting was that such should be supervised by a number of men and women specially appointed. It was hoped that with the formation of a branch of the vigilance committee, such would be possible. In one city a committee of twelve ladies supervised the moving-picture films which were shown in that place, and also kept watch of the sale of picture postcards and harmful literature, and endeavored to promote the circulation of good reading matter.

Mothers' Clubs Helped.
The W. C. T. U. and Mothers' Clubs are aiding in this work in many places. In Montreal, where there are 55 moving picture theatres, the National Council of Women supervise the pictures, and a great improvement has since been shown. In regard to the Ontario Board of Censors, it was stated that two of the men on this board are owners of moving-picture theatres, and having a commercial interest, are scarcely considered fair judges. In regard to pernicious literature, the postoffice authorities are doing all they can to aid in its suppression, but unfortunately there is no authority to prevent its coming into Canada by express parcels and being distributed. 191 VICTORIAN NURSES NOW AT WORK IN THE DOMINION

Miss M. A. Mackenzie, a Delegate From the Order to the Council of Women Convention, Says It Requires More Than Mere Technical Education to Fit a Girl For a Nurse.

"It takes more than technical training to fit a girl for success in district nursing," said Miss M. A. Mackenzie, of Ottawa, this morning. Miss Mackenzie is prominent in the Victorian Order of Nurses in Canada, and a firm believer in the importance of tact, sympathy and human understanding to the science of nursing. She is attending the National Council of Women as the representative of her order, and is recognized as an authority on subjects pertaining to nursing and the care of public health. This morning Miss Mackenzie told The Advertiser something about the scope of the Victorian Order's work, what it expects of its novitiates, and what plans it is making for the welfare of Canadians. "There are now 191 Victorian nurses in Canada," said Miss Mackenzie, "and the numbers are increasing all the time. If our present plans are carried out we will need many more, for we propose to extend our field of usefulness in the west, so that the rural districts will be able to enjoy advantages now only possible in the cities."

A Big Field.
The Victorian Order includes in its work district nursing school nursing, and the conduct of cottage hospitals, which in some cases, notably in the west, have eventually grown into large (Continued on Page Eleven.)
