THOMAS MARTINDALE WRITES FROM NORTH

Will Hunt in Alaska, 400 Miles From the Interior-Back by November 15th.

Mr. Thomas Martindale, the well-known Philadelphia merchant, who is a former Londoner, writes of his trip to Alaska, where he will hunt with a party of Americans:

We are about to start in a counter. We are about to start in a couple of hours by beat for Skagway, and will reach White Horse Pass on Thursday next, where we will go into the interior a distance of 400 miles, either on foot or horseback, to our hunting grounds. We hope adn expect to get back by Nov. 15. This will be new ground for me, and as we expect to get mountain sheep, grizzly bear, caribou, moose and mountain grat, we should have plenty of excitement. One thing sure we will have plenty of real hard work, as the game is in the high mountain ranges, which are capped with ice and snow. and that means climbing up and slid-ing down. The crops in the Saskatche-wan, Manitoba and Alberta Provinces are looking better than they did three years ago when I passed over the same sections, and fram appearances they will surpass all previous records as to yield. The harvest has already started in some sections, and every-thing is humming. The M. P. for this district, Hon. H. H. Stevens, was good enough to take my companion, Dr. Morris J.
