Heroic Girl Rescues Man From Snake

Pries It Loose From Unconsious Attendant and Empties Vial of Smelling Salts Into Its Mouth Until Its Pressure Relaxes.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

GUELPH. June 10.-An act of conspicuous heroism was performed yesterday at the exhibition park by one of the lady performers of the Washburn carnival, and an exciting occurrence was shorn of fatal termination by the cool headedness and bravery of the young woman in question.

A man named Harry Thomas employed as assistant in the snake exhibit. entered the "pit" or enclosure, occupied by "Edward the Great," a gigantic South American python, which recently arrived, and which has not yet become accustomed to his surroundings.

'Edward' weighs over 800 pounds, and measures 34 inches in circumference at his thickest point, and this added to the naturally intractable disposition of a serpent fresh from his native wilds, makes the big snake a dangerous opponent if not carefully approached.

Thomas, who is an octoroon, was engaged in sweeping out the snake den, when without the slightest warning he found himself enveloped in the great serpent's clammy coils.

BECAME UNCONSCIOUS.

Thomas was able to give one shout for assistance before the constricting ordy tightened about his throat, and he lapsed into unconsciousness, wrapped from neck to ankles in the scaly monster's ever tightening folds.

Marguerite Still, eashier of the show, was in the ticket booth outside, and was the only one who heard the choking scream of the unfortunate Thomas. With rare presence of mind she dashed into the snake enclosure, where Thomas lay inert in the coils of the great serpent, and seizing a small iron bar, partially pried the tropical destroyer from his victim, then hurriedly taking from her reticule vial of smelling salts, she poured the entire contents into the open, hissing mouth of the snake.

Choking under the powerful fumes the huge snake relaxed his pressure, and several employees rallying to Miss Still's call for help, succeeded in freeing Thomas from the coils, which in a moment more would have crushed out his life.

During the afternoon the aducation committee submitted a recommendation that in view of the fact that sufficient attention was not being paid to social problems, and that the application of Christianity in dealing with conditions in the cities was desirable, a professor be apopinted to visit the various Presbyterian colleges in rotation to give lec tures on this subject.

Rev. Dr. Pringle objected to this. He declared that he had "had enough of hese peripatetic, so-called professors.' In any case, a matter of that kind, involving considerable expense, should be referred to the presbyteries before any action was taken.

It was decided to refer the matter to the presbyteries, and also to the senates of the colleges.

The attendance of commissioners at the assembly, according to figures compiled today, was 462.

The statement expresses satisfaction at the result of the vote, and points out that the resolution submitted by the union committee, and adopted, did not express any opinion as to the ultimate outcome. It declares the resolution to be more moderate than that adopted at the last meeting of the assembly, drawing the conclusion that the real strength of the non-union party is much greater than the vote in the assembly would indicate prima facie. One paragraph in the statement read: "There is now no possible doubt that the Presbyterian Church in Canada will continue. Our organization to that end is being out the Dominion and is meeting with hearty support."

The demonstration was organized with all the well known cleverness of the Suffragettes for dramatic effect. A crowd of 10,000 persons gathered at so clock at the junction of Commercial road and High street, Whitechapel, where two processions, one from Bow and the other from Poplar, were to join about the same hour. Suddenly, from an upper window of the house in Bow, where Miss Pankhurst resided, appeared the surpliced figure of the Rev. Mr. Wills, with Sylvia by his side, looking ill and careworn. The clergyman addressed the waiting crowd, adjured the people to keep order, and offered a prayer, invoking divine protection for the militant leader

Miss Pankhurst also addressed the crowd, to the effect that it might be the last time she would have such a privilege. London's Social World Gives a Historical Pageant-Canada's Costume Gold and White.

[Canadian Press.]

LONDON, June 10 .- The ball and pageant in Albert Hall tonight commemorating the centenary of Anglo-American peace, provided the most brilliant spectacle seen here for a long time. Many of the notable people of the London social world were present, together with a large number of American and colonial visitors.

There was a marvelous display of historical costumes, and the music had been especially written or adapted for the fete.

Mrs. Williams had charge of the costuming of the Indians, and when the representatives of the various tribes led off in the great procession had been made to attain historical and artistic accuracy in their highly-decorative dress. *
The Virginian settlers wore Eliza-

The Dutch of New York State followed in their quaint garb, and the Louisiana French followed with powdered hair and panniers and color scheme embracing the different shades of heliotrope. The group representing the signatories of the Treaty of Ghent appeared in the sober small clothes of the Georgian period.
