

Plans of West Coast Association, Covering Washington, Oregon and British Columbia, Made Public.

SEATTLE, May 16 .- Details of the plan of organization of the new lun ssociation, to be known as the West Coast Lumber Manufacturers' associa tion, which will embrace lumber manu acturers in Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, and which even may include the entire territory west of the Rockies, were made public today at the neeting of the Pacific Coast Lumber Manufacturers' association. The cen tral office of the new organization will be at Centralia, Washington. The board of trustees will be con posed of two representatives from each of the following districts: Williamette Valley, Columbia Valley, Gray's Harbor, Willapa Bay, Southwestern Washington, Seattle and Tacoma, Everett, and Bellingham and British Columhia

It is the intention of the lumbermen maintain the three large associations now in existence-the Pacific Coast Lumber Manufacturers' association, the Oregon and Washington Lumber Manufacturers' association, and the Southwestern Washington association-as it is believed that there will be plenty of work for them to do outside of the jurisdiction of the new organization. Lumber manufacturers of Oregon and Washington have united in a movement looking to the curtailment of the output of their mills to the extent of approximately 600,000,000 feet a year. The plan, which has been worked out at a series of meetings held during the last three weeks, contemplates the suspension of operations every Saturday on the part of mills catering to the retail trade. Cargo shipping mills will curtail four days a month, although the exigences of water transportation may often prevent them from shutting down on Saturdays.

It is asserted that the movement now being fostered by the millmen is the most extensive curtailment project ever undertaken on the Pacific coast. The manufacturers believe that by this method they will be able to steady the lumber market. The plan District Judge Carpenter's decision of calls for a curtailment of output until noracal market conditions are restored.
