ORIGIN OF THE PEACH
(By Peter McArthur)

It is sometimes a mistake to consult the Encyclopedia before writing an article. The information in the work is much more picturesque than the facts. Facts have a tendency to make one prosy and commonplace.

I am moved, to make these observations because for some time past I had heard or read somewhere about the origin of this most delicious fruit. According to the best of my information and belief up to fifteen minutes ago the peach originated in Spain after the Moorish invasion. The African conquerors brought with them bitter almonds, with which to poison their arrows and planted the pits in the newly conquered country so that they might have an unfailing supply of this method of spreading mortal Kultur. As they had no Hague Tribunal in those days there were no international agreements against using poisoned weapons—and it probably wouldn't have mattered much if there had been.

According to the pretty tale I remembered, the bitter almond developed in the sub-tropical climate of Spain and lost its acrid character, ceased to be poisonous and became a peach. With this as a text I had proposed to state that the peach is the one really good thing in the world has ever derived from war, but alas, I needed a few more facts and I consulted the Encyclopedia where I found no mention of my pretty Spanish tale. I found both Greek and Latin references to whether the fruit had been first developed to perfection in Persia or in China. The only reference to the bitter almond was a note to the effect that Darwin regarded the peach as a relation of the almond. It seemed, in China they not only raise peaches of excellent quality but also of unusual shape. They have a flat peach in which the ends of the pit are merely covered by the skin while the sides have a thick layer of fruit pulp. They also have another kind which is long and crooked and as nearly as I could learn from the dictionary all kinds of peaches are good eating. It is necessary to agree that even the Encyclopedia gives Canada the credit for raising the best peaches of all, and now they are at their best.

THE PREACHER'S FRUIT
(By Peter McArthur)

Once upon a time—you see I know how to begin a story in the right way—a barefoot boy danced by the roadside and shouted gleefully. It was in Canada, back in the nineteenth century, in the pioneer days. The little boy was healthy and freckled and what he lacked in clothes he made up in the kind of boy who would have inside of clothes. And he was very, very happy. In fact he was so happy that a passing friend stopped to ask him the cause of it all.

"Hurrah!" shouted he of the freckles.

"Why so happy?" asked the friend. "The preacher is coming to dinner!"

"I didn't know you were so fond of him."

"I ain't, but whenever the preacher comes to dinner, we always have peach preserves."

It really is not much of a story and I am giving it on account of its archaic-sounding interest and not because it is so very funny. It dates back to the days when people merely knew that peaches are the best of fruits and had not discovered that Canada is the best place to raise the very best of them. The woman who was fortunate enough to get some from a sheltered orchard or from a lone tree that was so fortunately situated that it escaped the frost put up a few to have for such special occasions as the visit of the preacher. In those days the minister was a much more welcome visitor on the farm than the agent of get-rich-quick concerns and mining promoters and there is a moral to that if I only had time to work it out. Because peaches were saved for such special occasions, a tradition has grown up about them in many parts of the country. Some housewives, otherwise very bright, and a credit to the Farmer's Institutes to which they belong, consider it an extravagance to preserve peaches unless they get them at sacrifice prices. Yet these same women will pay ten to fifteen cents a quart for currants and berries that need far more sugar to do them up than the already sweet peaches. As peaches usually come in eleven-quart baskets you will find if you divide the price by eleven that peaches cost less per quart than any other fruit. But because they were once so great a luxury housewives are slow to realize that they should have more of them than of any kind of fruit, for they are both the cheapest and the best. There is no reason why every farmer's wife in the districts where peaches cannot be grown should not buy them as freely as they do other fruits and have them not only when the preacher comes to dinner but when the boys and girls come home from the city and at all other times when they want to have something luxurious on the table.

Also it should be remembered that for eating from the hand the peach is the best fruit of all, but you should use for this purpose only the peach you buy in the full light of day. Once upon a time, or perhaps I should say "Once upon another time," a newly arrived Irishman went out with a friend to steal peaches. It was dark and Pat had been told to go along the branches. "Molke!" His friend answered "Phwat!" "Haw peaches got legs?" "Naw," which began the slaughter of a sturdy bush.

The art of sublimine warfare began in February, 1884, when the United States slop housewife who, in a "sublimine" craft, by means of a ton of salt in the end of a can, projecting from it.

GIVE 'SYRUP OF FIGS' TO CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little stomach, liver and bowels.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Ask your druggist for a 3-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

MANY CHANGES IN INTERCOLONIAL OFFICES

New Station Not Large Enough to House All—Some in Supt's Residence

Since the taking over of the Canada Eastern and the International railways it has been found necessary to rearrange the offices formerly housed at Moncton. With this in view the new depot here was built with spacious offices on the second floor.

Now after five years these have proved entirely inadequate and new offices have had to be provided for some departments. With this in view the former residence of the late Supt. E. Price is being overhauled and will be made to house several departments among these being the Trackmasters and Mr. Savages.

This change will relieve the congestion to some extent.

DANCING CLASS

Don't forget the Dancing Class in Dimock's Tea Rooms every Friday night. All who would like to see an instructor engaged for this class should call or phone to S. W. Dimock.

FORMER BATHURST PRINCIPAL MARRIED

Bathurst people will be much interested to hear that Mr. Arthur E. Floyd who was a very successful Principal of the Grammar School here several years ago, was married at Winnipeg on New Year's Day.

The bride was Miss Greta M. Robinson formerly of this Province, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm. Hay, pastor of the Nassau St. Baptist Church, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Aikens of Fort Rouge, Winnipeg. Mr. Floyd is now the principal of the Gladstone School in that city.

Scott, Mrs. Priest, and the Misses Stewart, Duncan and Haddow.

Also 12 feather pillows by Mrs. Baldwin.

12 feather pillows by Miss Duncan.

2 feather pillows by Mrs. Connacher.

1 feather pillow by Mrs. Scott.

2 feather pillows by Mrs. Jas. Stewart.

2 feather pillows by Miss Simon.

6 pillow cases by Mrs. Hadley.

9 pillow cases by Mission Band of St. John's Presbyterian Church.

4 pillow cases by Mrs. Mott.

2 pillow cases by Mrs. Scott.

SUCCESSFUL WHIST PARTY

The Whist party held by the Catholic Ladies' Aid Society on Monday evening was very successful, fifty tables of whist being played. A very eloquent speech along patriotic lines was delivered by His Worship Mayor Andrew and a very touching address to the soldiers by the Rev. Father Hart of Chatham, after which prizes were distributed and lunch served.

"POOR PUNY LITTLE CHILD!"

Is that what neighbors think of your child? Do you ever overheat them? wonder what she feeds the poor little thing? Listen, Mothers, that heartache and despair isn't necessary. When you've built up that child of yours into the rosiest-checked, roundest, hardest little tyke in the neighborhood you'll look back to those trying days as a nightmare.

How to do it? Easy! Regulate the diet, have lots of pure air in the bedroom. Keep him outdoors—and feed his poor starved little nerves and under-nourished tissues with Zee-lic—the Little Child's Food.

Pony, ill-nourished children will absorb Zee-lic and thrive on it. It's a plant that has been starved for water responds to rain and sunshine.

It will benefit the child the same as the seed, for you know—and with Zee-lic.

Start giving Zee-lic today—follow the directions, and in two weeks you'll see a most real progress toward better health, return the unused portion of the bottle of Zee-lic and we will adjust your money without question.

Everywhere in Canada at the same price. One Dollar per 30-day supply. Bottles compounded from food and tonic essences by The Zee-lic Company, Montreal.
