The failure of George Engeman and his followers to establish yieter racing at Washington shows plainsy that the public iis opposed to racing out of season. The racing question in New Jersey is likely to be one of the first measures considered by the incoming legislature. The racing question in this state is not likely to come up nutil the session is nearly at its close. A leading owner and breeder said to-day: "If racing were properly conducted there would be no need for legislation, but it is far better that racing should be wiped out rather than be looked upon as a medium for corruption and fraud."—N.
