"All is Well That Ends Well"

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because a disordered stoward does not permit the food to be assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see those symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not head work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip—bronchitis—consumption. Fortify the body now with

HATCHET PARTY FOR THE 22D Quaint Old Fashioned Costumes of

Colonial Days,

This hatchet party was given by an organization that stands for temperance, but the scheme could be adopted for the 22d. The invitations were issued on hatchet shaped cards and the envelopes fastened with a patriotic costumes, consisting of flowered chintz overdresses, with skirts of a plain colored satine, perhaps quilted. The waists will open over a white kerchief, with elbow sleeves. Round caps, with frills of lace, surrounded by a band of ribbon, complete these very becoming dresses:

"Ye young women of the Y. W. C. A. extend ye invitation to meet ye Hatchet family of ye anciente tyme at ye home of Miss Mary Brown on ye evening of February ye 22d of ye year of our Lord 1912 at 8 of ye clock."

Johanna Adams Hatchet, Tomazine Jefferson Hatchet, Jamesina Madison Hatchet, Jemima Monroe Hatchet, J. Quinciana Hatchet, Wilhelmina Henrietta Hatchet, Johnetta Tyler Hatchet, Marty Van Buren Hatchet, Jinny Keturah Polk Hatchet, Zacherina Taylor Hatchet and Millerella Fillmore Hatchet.

FOR THE DINNER TABLE.

Charming and Simple Designs For 1913 Centerpieces.

Since the centerpiece never entirely goes out new designs always appeal to the woman who embroiders. A novel one that can be developed entirely in white or in natural colors and in various stitches has a wreath design of heads of wheat in full bloom, interfaced with a graceful ribbon effect.

The edge of this centerpiece is especially new, as the scallop is drawn in overlapping lines that give the effect of a box plaited edge, with every other group resembling an inverted box plait. An easy treatment for this pattern is to outline and darn the ribbon work, make the wheat heads solid embroidery and do the foliage in combination satin stitch and seeding. The edge is buttonholed.

Another more elegant is a design with a simple grouped scallop kept quite shallow and buttonholed in white mercerized cotton and a circle formed of three conventionalized flowerpots holding trees, alternating with conventionalized baskets of flowers, the groups connected by two detached straight lines with three embroidered dots between. This is somewhat on Biedermaier lines, but is developed stylishly in white.

A handsome centerpiece for color work has azaleas and foliage worked into wreath effect and shaded like the natural flowers. The edges are slightly padded with chain stitch, all turnovers more heavily padded, and the surface is covered in Kensington stitch. The leaves may be outlined and half of one side seeded if solid embroidery seems too much work. The shading can be done from colored designs if the natural blossoms cannot be obtained.

Wholesome Peanut Brittle, Shell and remove the brown skins from a quart of roasted peanuts. Roll the nuts until they are thoroughly broken; sift, saving the finer parts to for rolling as you use flour with the cookies. Put a pound of sugar into a clean saucepan. Stand it over a brisk fire, stir and shake until the sugar is theroughly melted. You must not add water or any other material. When it has melted and looks like golden sirup take it from the fire and stir in quickly as many rolled peanuts as the sugar will hold. Cover the board with the fine peanuts, turn out the hot mixture sprinkle over more peanuts and roll into a very thin sheet. This must be done quickly or the mixture will hard-With a long knife mark the brittle into squares, wait a moment until it cools, then loosen it from the board, break it into squares and put it away. The rough, unsightly pieces may be put aside to use at once.

Ireland To-day

Perhaps the most striking evidence of the change in the relationship of Ireland to the other divisions of the United Kingdom has been provided by the special Irish number of The London Times, published on St. Patrick's Day. While it is, of course, impossible to endow a newspaper with a seperate individuality, apart from the person or persons who control its policy for the time being, the attitude of the great London daily is a significant sign of the times. This special Irish supplement is wholly sympathetic in its tone, and is pervaded by a sentiment that can only be regarded as the presage of a new era in the history of the United Kingdom.

That a change has come over the whole condition of Ireland is undoubted, and has nowhere been better revealed than in the marked decrease in the volume of emigration. With the reassertion of the national spirit has come a marked improvement in agriculture and industry, which is not wholly attributable to the improved political outlook. Behind the demand for a greater measure of Home Rule there has been a real awakening to the necessity for internal development. Towards that end both public and private measures and organizations have contributed.

Within the opening years of the twentieth century many instrumentalities have been established for the encouragement of Irish agriculture and manufactures. What has been already done, The Times says, ounts truly to an almost incredible revolution; nor is the work entirely finished." While agriculture and its various subsidiaries, such as horse, cattle and pig raising, have been highly profitable, the expansion in manufactures has been still more encouraging. This material advancement has been accompanied by a remarkable resurrection of the literary and artistic spirit of Ireland. In Wales a similar recrudescence of national sentiment is observable, and the resultant social and intellectual revival may well furnish the inspiration that will add a new page in the great volume of human history.

Jealousy is the offspring of distrust. The more birthdays a woman has the less they count.

Treat people kindly and you will find them easier to work.

Many a man has married in haste and paid alimony at leisure. Honesty never looks better to a man than when it comes home to roost. A sentimental girl is lost at a wedding without a dainty handkerchief.

Everything comes to him who waits. He'll even get the earth when he dies.

So effective is their action that many cures can certainly be traced to their use where other pills have proved ineffective. ineffective.

There is such a thing as becoming so wise to all con games that you will pass up a real gold brick.

With woman suffrage becoming general, candidates will need to devise a new line of campaign "bunk."
