

The Markets.

Barley.

There is still very little doing in barley, and prices remain unchanged through the decrease in the malt duties is expected to give an upward tendency to the better grades. The stock of Canada barley in store at Oswego on Tuesday was only 20,000 bushels.

Hops.

The hop market is remarkably slow, though there is no change in prices. Brewers are now at work upon their reserve stocks, and a more active demand may be anticipated in the near future. This will probably lead to a slight advance, in prices of certain grades.
