JO GAKKO, KOFU, June 29th, 1891.

You have heard nothing from Kofu school since our closing entertainment on April 3rd. It was held in the same building as last year, and we were encouraged by a much larger attendance of ladies than before. The day was fine; the girls carried out their parts well, and altogether it was by far the most successful entertainment we have yet had.

School closed with twenty-three students, of whom one withdrew during the holidays, and another shortly after
