

here of political interest. The situation on the bluffs of the Ottawa River is commanding, and gives fine opportunity for architectural display. The group of Government Buildings is surpassingly fine. The Parliament House and the Departmental buildings on three sides of a square, are exceedingly effective in colour and the perfection of Gothic details especially in the noble towers. There are few groups of buildings anywhere so pleasing to the eye or that appeal more strongly to one's sense of dignity and beauty."

LANGEVIN BLOCK.