WEEMS. God's Revenge against Gambling. Exemplified in the Miserable Lives and Untimely Deaths of a number of Persons of both sexes, who had sacrificed their Health, Wealth, and Honor at Gaming Tables. With curious anecdotes of the following Unfortunate Gamblers:—I. Miss Fanny Braddock, sister of General Braddock, who, from Gambling, hung herself. II. Drisdan Harwood, Esq. Maryland, who, from Gambling, drowned himself. III. Jack Gilmore, Esq. Virginia, who, from Gambling, shot himself. IV. T. Alston, Esq. (N. C.) who, from Gambling, was shot by Capt. Johnson. V. Maria Antoinette, Queen of France, who, for Gambling, was brought to the Guillotine. VI. Other awful cases of young Gamblers, and their untimely ends. . . . By M. L. Weems, formerly Rector of Mount Vernon Parish. (Second Edition.) Philadelphia: Printed for the Author. 1812. [Colophon:] Printed by Lydia R. Bailey, No. 10, North Alley. 8vo, pp. 51. Frontispiece. AAS., B., C., H., WLC. 102473

Skeel no. 189. For other editions, see nos. 190-193, the latest, Philadelphia, 1822. See also, above, Anecdotes of Gamblers.

Skeel no. 188 suggests the probability of an edition in 1810, quoting advertisements in the "Louisville Gazette," May 4, 1810, and the "Georgia Argus," Jan. 16, 1811, also a letter from Weems to Carey, March 12, 1810.

WEEMS. God's Revenge against Murder; or, The Drown'd Wife of Stephens's Creek. A Tragedy, as lately performed, with unbounded applause, (of the devil and his court) by Ned Findley, Esquire, one of the grand company of tragedians in the service of the Black Prince, who was so highly gratified with Mr. Findley's performance, that he instantly provided him Rooms in one of his own Palaces; created him a Knight of the most ignoble order of the Halte; clapped bracelets on his wrists, and an ornament round his neck; and in a few days promoted him to the ridge pole of the gallows, at Edgefield Court-House, South Carolina. By M. L. Weems, of Lodge No. 50, Dumfries. Second Edition Enlarged
