The New Raincoats.

RAINCOAT is a never-can-tell-when-you'll-need-it garment: if it's always ready you're safe. You'll need one during the coming season particularly, and if you want best value you'll come here for it.

We buy real, honest cravenette cloths and make them up in our own workrooms; because at any price you decide on we can sell you a far better garment of our own make than is procurable elsewhere.

Our fall showing is ready—hundreds of brand new stylish raincoats to select from.

For $8.00-Oxford gray cravenette; tailored in several of the new fall styles; sizes 34 to 44. This is a first-rate garment and should prove a great seller.

For $10.00 - Oxford gray and olive, with colored over-plaids; square pockets - self collar - vent at back; shoulders lined with Italian cloth. This is a winner-we've made it a study-we're bettering it each year. Very dressy.

For $16.50 - Priestley's cravenette cloths in olive and dark and steel gray shades. Sleeves and shoulders lined with satin; vent at back. Very high. class garment, in newest cut.

"I do not think there is so much of that since the western provinces opened up. Perhaps one of the reasons was the enchantment which distance lends to the view. I noticet when in the Northwest years ago people were still going farther and farther away. In Winnipeg they wanted to go to Brandon, in Brandon to Regina, and in Regina to Edmonton."

"Yet my impression of Toronto," I said, "is that it is a city that asks you a whole lot for small pay."

"Thet is character." The company had four months in which to prepare for the change, but with an indifference of popular rights which is said to be a peculiar characteristic of the management of the road, it defied the law until a Toronto World reporter, as a test case, refused to pay more than two cents a mile, was ejected from a car, and brought action for damages. Then, and not till then, did the company come down.

Laws of Marriage.

In Virginia a man cannot legally marry his deceased's wife sister. The law is an inheritance of the common law of England, and has never been repealed.

Whites and Indians are forbidden to marry in some states, as are also whites and Chinese in some of the Pacific coast states, yet many white men and women have married Indians.
