Harry Lauder Coming.

The much-heralded engagement of Sir Harry Lauder, the internationally-famous singing comedian, opens at the Royal Alexandra the coming Monday hight, Feb. 2. As already announced, there will be five matinees, beginning Tuesday.

Harry Lauder's experiences are embodied in his work. His songs retain all their old element of bubbling and irresistible merriment, but a deeper, richer note has found its way into his rhyming lines and alluring melodies.

nations was held in the Sorbonne, presided over by President Poincare. Paul Deschanel, the president Poincare. Paul Deschanel, the president Poincare. Paul Deschanel, the president Poincare. Pour Premier Ribot and Andre Hennorat, minister of public instruction, occupied places of honor.

Recounting the development of the idea carried out by the league. M. Bourgeois, who was the French member of the commission which drafted the league of nations covenant, said:

"President Wilson, by his messages and his personal efforts, offered the means of realizing this ideal in a great international convention. Whatever defects there may be in 15, the pact of April 28, 1919, has sealed between the free peoples a solemn agreement for the union of all for the safety and independence of ail."

M. Bourgeois, in his address, made a reference to the first meeting of the league on January 26, where, he said, there were found missing only the representatives of the United States of America, "for the adherence of which in the near future we are all waiting and hoping."

M. Thomas pointed to the inter

"Take It From Me."

Modernity is the dominant note of "Take it from Me," which returns to the Royal Alexandra for the week of rep. 9, with matmees on Wegnesday and Saturday. It ephomizes the latest lads in music, dancing, costuming and humor, and, in explaining its success, stress is laid upon the variety it offers in the way of entertainment, and the nght-hearted fun and dieverness which characterizes its performance. Leading the newer faces that will be seen with "Take it From Me" is the Garamer Trio, the dancing stars, while among the old faces, Free Hittebrand, the dancing, elongated comedian; Douglas Leavitt, Ruth Lockwood, Alice Hins are the outlanding favorities. You Harnest the Ruth Lockwood, Alice Hins are the outstanding favorites. Zoe Barnett, the well-known prima-donna, will renew acquaintances as the movie "vamp." Then there is James Dyrenforth, possessor of quite a femarkable tenor voice, and Flo Morrison, besides several others, including the celebrated "Kiss Me" chorus, that has really proven a revelation in the musical comedy world.

Vaudeville's foremost singing act, Mme. Doree's Operatic Celebrites will be the big feature of next weeks at tractions at Loew's Yonge Street The are and winner darden. The reperteire of this famous act will embrace selections from actable grand operas. During the engagement Mme. Doree will try out several Toronto amateur singers aspiring for a grand-opera career. Several of the best of these will sing during the week, the names to be announced in due time in, the newspapers. There will be five additional acts, and a feature photoplay. "What Every Woman Learns," leaturing Enid Bennett. The second big attraction will be the quaint comedienne, Laurie Ordway, in a series of recitations, assisted at the plano by Irong Pisher. She abows us the modern fifewoman, the bride and after the wedding, and each number is a laugh from start to finish. Another will be Fashions de Vogue, presented by Apphonse D. Berg, the French Jashion artist, who designs the latest cortumes in less than two minutes with just the raw material and a few plans. Others will be Allman and Nevins, in narmorly, songs and a few real smile makers; Mason and Bailey, the colored comedians, with one squata each and another, and Brown's Dogs, wonce tully trained camines.

Mary Pickford in her latest and greatest bicture, "Pollyanua," will, scatter sunshine and happiness all next week at the Strang Theatie. There never was a story bust like "Pollyanna," the wenderful story of the little gri whose gospel is to be always glad and to spread stadness everywhere. And as adorable, lovable Pollyanna, who brightens the lives of Aunt Polly and a host of all kinds of people, the magic of Mary Pickford's genius plays upon the heartstrings of humanity as never before. It goes without saying that this magic production will attract enormous crowes to the Strand all next week. And all who see it will be the better and the happier for many a long day afterwards. It will linger in the memory and cheer thousands of hearts long after other pictures are forgotten. The cast of characters is delightful, and the settings are fully in accordance with the radiant beauty of the story.

FEBRUARY IN ALGONQUIN PARK

Many guests are enjoying the pleasures of winter sports in that charm-ing territory, Algonquin Park. The region provides a holiday ground that is in accord with the ideas of medical science. Two thousand feet above the sea it has invigorating climatic mercury for three months of the year from 10 or 15 above to 20 or 30 below is as regular as the swing of a penthe man with a sweater never suffers discomfort. Days spent in snowshoe tramps, thru primitive forests where every leaf and bough bears its weight of glistening crystals, in the breath-less flight of the toboggan or skd, and in the ring of steel against the cy covering of some lake, together with evenings spent in social converse in the cosy warmth of an old-fashioned log fire—these slip away unnoticed: but those who have once experienced them return to their avocation renewed energies. with hardened muscles and a grateful memory of the Park.
