QUESTIONS POSSIBILITY OF RENEWAL OF DISARMAMENT AGREEMENT IN 1931

British Naval Policy is the Subject of Criticism in Commons.

(By CHARLES M. McCANN.)
(United News Staff Correspondent.)
London, August 1.—It would be a bold man who would prophesy that the Washington disarmament agreement will be extended or even renewed in 1931, L. M. S. Amery, former First Lord of the Admiralty in the late Conservative Government, told the House of Commons during debate on the British Naval Appropriations Bill. Liberals and Conservatives joined in criticism of the Government's naval policy, although they attacked from different angles.

Commander Kenworthy assailed the Macdonald Government for initiating competition in naval armaments. Sir Godfrey Collins said the U. S. welcomed such building challenges. "The first act of the government," Sir Godfrey said, "was to lay down five cruisers." The United States accepted the challenge.

Conservative critics of the Government insisted that the time had come for bolstering Britain's navy. At the present rate of construction, Amery declared, few years would find Britain with but 20 effective cruisers for the protection of her commerce.

Commander Carlyn Bellars, regarded as the outstanding naval authority in Parliament, denied that the naval aspirations of Britain and the U. S. clashed, nor was there any direct rivalry between the sea policies of the two countries.

Policy of the U. S. "America," said Bellars, "is most desirous of protecting her interests and commerce against a possible war with Japan." The whole U. S. naval program is centred in the Pacific, Bellars assured the house. He said the U. S. was withdrawing its Atlantic fleet, thus demonstrating that there was rivalry with Britain. Like the U. S., Britain looked toward Japan, Bellars intimated, adding that unless further disarmament agreements were reached in another conference, Britain would be forced to meet the challenge which existed in Japan and begin to build destroyers and submarines in space with eastern empire.

NOT A CASE FOR COURT

Four juveniles appeared before Magistrate Henderson in the police court this morning on a charge of assaulting another. It was brought out that it was merely a case of the boys having a disagreement and a few blows had been struck. As they were all very young, Magistrate Henderson said that the case was dismissed and that it should never have been brought into court. He said the trouble seemed to originate from some disagreement which arose some time ago between the parents.

JUST NINETY YEARS AGO

This is Friday, August 1, 1924. A lady who was reading "John Halifax, Gentleman," yesterday afternoon came across a chapter in which reference was made to a great historic event, and she directed the attention of The Times-Star thereto. The reference was to Friday, August 1, 1834, the date on which Britain emancipated the slaves in all her colonies. It cost twenty millions of pounds, but the money sacrifice was regarded as nothing compared with a clear conscience and the gain to civilization.

BRITISH ELECTION BELIEVED CERTAIN

By H. N. MOORE.
(United Press.)

London, Aug. 1.—Hon. J. H. Thomas Colonial Secretary, is expected to make a statement to the House of Commons today which is regarded will lead inevitably to a general election.

The Government fully realizes the essential necessity for immediately legislating to settle the Irish Boundary question, fearing the establishment of a Republic and probably civil war in Ireland unless Great Britain makes possibly a sacrificial effort to satisfy the Free States' demand to carry out the treaty provisions.

Dissection Expected

It is expected that legislation will be immediately introduced that will arouse the hostility of the Liberals and Lords in the House of Commons and will undoubtedly throw out any measure for bringing on a general election.

Ulster's uncompromising attitude has aroused the hostility of the Liberals and Lords in the House of Commons and will undoubtedly throw out any measure for bringing on a general election.

Cosgrave and Craig

London, Aug. 1.—(By Canadian Press Cable.)—The House of Commons upon reassembling this morning at once took up the Irish question. Colonial secretary Thomas said the Government proposed immediately to introduce legislation giving effect to the Anglo-Irish treaty and to press for passage of that legislation through Parliament regardless of the consequences to the Government.

He announced that he had invited William J. Cosgrave, head of the southern Irish Government, and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, to come to London to confer with him. The proposed legislation would not be introduced until he had met Mr. Cosgrave and Sir James, but a bill dealing with the Treaty would be introduced if they failed to agree before the adjournment of Parliament.

CEREMONY AT ST. PETER'S TODAY

In St. Peter's church this morning a solemn investiture ceremony took place at which 12 students and one lay brother took the habit and entered their first novitiate for the Redemptorist Congregation. The ceremony started at 9:30 o'clock and was attended by a large congregation, which included a delegation of the young men, who came here from all parts of Canada. Rev. Arthur Coughlan, C. S. R., provincial of Redemptorist Congregation in Canada, conducted the ceremony and was assisted by Rev. James Cloran, C. S. R., rector of St. Peter's church, and Rev. F. Mullins, C. S. R. The students voluntarily consecrated themselves to the religious life, after which they received the various parts of their habit.

An eloquent and appropriate sermon was delivered by Rev. P. C. O'Hare, C. S. R., who spoke on the solemnity of the occasion. He pointed out the great dignity of the religious vocation, emphasizing that the many dangers of the world today rendered salvation difficult, and said that religious orders and congregations were the world's brightest hope. He said the need of the church in the world was never greater. He spoke of the troubles of the world that he had experienced, but said that the church carried on doing the work of God.

THERE WAS STIR IN FAIRVILLE COURT

Loch Lomond Road Speed Case was the Cause of Dispute.

The proceedings in the Fairville court were livened up this morning when a tilt occurred between a lawyer and Magistrate Allingham in connection with a case of speeding which had been brought the court earlier in the morning.

The charge was brought against Wiggins by Constable Robert Crawford for alleged speeding in the Loch Lomond road on Sunday evening, July 27, and the defendant pleaded not guilty.

Constable Crawford testified that the defendant had driven past a church at a rate of nearly thirty miles an hour. In answer to a question Constable Crawford declared that he was able to judge the driver's speed by his five years' experience in such work. He said he used no other method in this case to estimate the speed.

The defendant then declared that his only witnesses were two people who lived in Cahala. He said he had lined up before in the court and once in the county. He said that he had not paid the fine in the latter case.

Magistrate Allingham then fined Wiggins $20 and costs. He said he had no money and did not think he could secure any for his fine. In coming to the court he intended to commit him to jail unless he could pay the fine. He said he would be glad to see the defendant in jail.

Later the defendant's brother arrived accompanied by Sydney Hinton, a lawyer. The latter requested the magistrate to reopen the case but this was refused. Mr. Hinton then demanded to see the information but the court also refused this as the magistrate ruled that it had already been read over to the defendant.

The lawyer asked several more questions of the magistrate and again wished the case re-opened. The discussion waxed warm for a few minutes.

Cecil Wiggins was released about 2 o'clock this afternoon when a deposit of $20 and costs were left with Magistrate Allingham. The deposit was made pending a review of the case which is being requested by Mr. Hinton before the County Court. J. W. Foley was fined $5 on charge of speeding on the Loch Lomond road. Several more cases were due.

NEW SHAFT BOOSTS COAL PRODUCTION

Glace Bay, N. S., Aug. 1.—Although during the month most of the colliers of the Dominion Coal Company worked a little better than half time, the total output for July is the highest since April. The output for the month was 259,225 tons as against 235,716 tons during the preceding month. One of the big factors in the increase is the fact that No. 13 colliery, a newest mine of the company produced its first full month's output.

TAKE UP OTHER LINES OF WORK

Memorial Workshops Find Toys Unprofitable—Takes Grit to Carry On.

Toy making has not proved profitable at the Red Cross Memorial Workshops and the disabled soldiers employed at the shops are now turning their attention to other lines of work. Last season they made 15,000 onion crates for the West Indies trade and lately they have been employed in repairing furniture, making some of the more simple carpentry pieces for which a sale could be found and doing carpentry work for citizens. They have been engaged to repair the kneeling stools and pews in Trinity church and have done considerable work in remodeling offices and painting houses.

There are now 18 men at work in the shops; 10 have been re-admitted to hospital. As each of the men employed at the workshops has from 20 per cent. to 75 per cent. disability it takes some grit to stand up to their work day in and day out and it happens that those who are most efficient may have to lay off for a time. The largest number that the pay roll has had at one time has been 40. The present average loss per man per month is $30 but this loss is due to the fact that many toys were made and must now be sold at less than cost. The work being done at present will about carry the charges although reduction in the number of the shops reduces output without reducing overhead and means a higher deficit than when there are more men on the pay roll.

Some of the articles made at the shops which are now most in demand are lawn sweeper, a combination screen and storm door which has glass and screen interchangeable in the upper portion, kitchen tables with or without enamel tops, dressing baskets, hat and coat racks and reed serving trays. The furniture mending work has been a specialty of the shops and some very ingenious pieces of renovation have been sent out to greatly pleased owners.

DEFENCE SCORES FIRST VICTORY IN CHICAGO TRIAL

Judge Overrules Objection to Hearing of Testimony From Alienists.

(By Canadian Press.)
Chicago, Aug. 1.—Judge John R. Caverly overruled objections by the State to alienist testimony offered in mitigation as to punishment by the attorneys for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb.

The result, which came after more than two court days of argument, was a decided victory for the defence, as it established the right to give testimony on mental disease short of legal insanity "not as a defence but in mitigation of punishment."

"It is the court's duty to hear this evidence," said Judge Caverly. "It is not his duty to reject it before he had an opportunity to hear it. The objection by the State is overruled."

The decision was momentous in legal annals of this State, as no exactly similar situation could be found by attorneys for either side in Illinois records. The field opened by today's finding was more extensive than in cases which bordered it.
