Press Comment on the War

(Toronto World). This is a war of ideals, and it is this that makes the strength of Belgium as the strength of ten, until we Britons feel that we could not destroy our own men to do better.

(Montreal Gazette). What is significant is that with the apparent advantage of the Germans, as far as means of gathering moving troops is concerned, there has been reported no effective invasion of French soil.

(London Post). It is for England a question of life or death, because a German victory on the continent would leave England, according to the completeness of the victory, in a position where she would have to fight Germany single-handed.

(Maritime Baptist). Rev. J. B. Ganong of North Sydney, is spending his vacation among old home scenes in Kings county, N. B.

(New York World). Anybody who knew Great Britain could have told the Kaiser that the minute the engine was threatened, political differences at home would end.

(Toronto Mail and Empire). As a dominion of the Empire, Canada is a party to this war, and will soon have an expeditionary force serving in it with the British troops.

(Ottawa Journal). The action of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in announcing that employees of the C. P. R. who may go into military service will have their jobs kept open for them, and will receive full pay for at least six months, and probably longer, is a most patriotic and generous one.

(New York Times). As we understand the theory of the Holy War the Kaiser had a Divine mission to rescue England, France and Belgium from the impending menace of Slav domination.
