THE CALIGRAPH

Typewriter "Stands at the head"

Possessing the most important points desirable in a writing machine, viz: rapidity and ease of operation, goodness of work and durability.

Characteristics of the Caligraph.

Most durable machine—A separate key for each character—No shift in writing caps, &c.—Level key-board and no "stairs"—Least depression of keys—Easy touch—Not cumbersome carriage—Patent hollow type-bars—Least complicated machine—Most rapid—Neatest writer—By far the best manifold.

Men who ought to know.

The Managers of the Toronto Industrial, Provincial and Dominion Exhibitions, who have seen the rival machines in competition for many years have each purchased Caligraphs.

Public Contest.

At the Canadian Shorthand Society's Contest the Caligraph did the most rapid writing on record, while its manifold was 100 per cent. better than that done by the rival machine under similar circumstances. Recently at the Walworth Institute, Brooklyn, Mr. T. W. Osborn of Rochester, (who holds the championship for fast type-writing), wrote 142 words per minute for five minutes, and in a single minute test 179 words, and in a half-minute test 99 words. Mr. Geo. A. McBride of Ottawa wrote 129 words in a single minute blindfolded, and 120 words per minute in a two minute test. Both used Caligraphs. This exceeds anything ever yet accomplished with writing machines.

Every person who writes, little or much, likes a good pen to work with. These pens have been manufactured in England under my careful direction by the best pen maker in the world. They are uniform and smooth pointed, fine and flexible. If you were to use one pen or twenty gross you would find no difference in the points. These pens are not equalled for learning to write in Schools, Colleges, or at home. They are in use in many business offices.

They are put up in quarter gross boxes similar to that in the engraving above. One box, 30 c.; four boxes, $1; sent by mail post paid. Address, C. A. FLEMING, Northern Business College, Owen Sound.

EXCELSIOR OBLIQUE PENHOLDER.

The Latest, Best and Most Satisfactory.

The students of the College use it almost exclusively. The teachers use no other.

Advantages:

- 1st The point of the pen comes down on the paper evenly without having to twist the wrist into an uneasy position.
- 2nd. The pen runs much easier and smoother and is not liable to "kick and spatter" the paper.
- 3rd. Pens will last much longer because they are worn equally on the points.
- 4th. The writer can see what he is doing.
- 5th. It produces much smoother lines and shades.
