Farmers in the Wheat Growing Districts of England Holding on to their Stocks.

Interview With Head of a Firm Which Does Business with East Anglia.

Price of Wheat will Not be Felt There for Some Months Yet.

New York, Oct. 29.—A dispatch to the World from London says: A remarkable feature of the situation, one plainly indicating a belief that higher prices are coming, is that the farmers in the wheat growing districts of England are firmly holding on to their stock, even though the figures now obtained are much higher than they ever hoped to see again.

The continued absence of rain in the Punjab district and the measures now being arranged by the East Indian government to deal with a possible famine seem certain to make large demands on the market next month.

Your correspondent had a talk with Mr. Schamasch, the manager of the great firm of E. D. Sassoon & Company, of London and Bombay, the largest and most important London house in the East.

"I consider the prospect of the market excellent for some months to come, notwithstanding the price of wheat shows a downward trend. It has fallen to 32, and I believe it will drop to 30, from which point it will rise steadily in a healthy, stable manner. The poor potato crop both here and on the continent must be taken into consideration as an important element in predicting the grain outlook. It is almost certain that on this account France will become an importer, and when France begins to import prices will go up to two or three shillings in a week. Germany and Holland also have suffered in their potato crop, so that they will become importers, which will increase the strength of the market and maintain prices at a good level.

"As to India, the price of wheat will not be felt there for some months any more, as they have enough stock to keep them going. It cannot yet be said with certainty that they will have a famine at all. Rain may come and if it does the crop will be saved. Of course the stocks in India are held by speculators who may manipulate the market, in which event we shall have exciting times. The importation of wheat into India has reached so far only moderate proportions. I bought three cargoes and another firm bought one cargo for India. That is all.

"As to Argentina, we estimate that we shall get four million quarters at least from there.

"The reaction in the market is due to a stable state of nervousness produced by an incursion of outside speculators to improve the market. This reaction will prove beneficial in shaking off the weak holders, when trade will begin to improve, as already explained, on a stable, healthy basis, and prices will rise steadily."

YUKON MAILS. Hugh Day Starts from Seattle on His Long Trip.

Seattle, Oct. 29.—Hugh Day, who with Jack Hayes, will carry the United States mail from Juneau to Forty Mile and Circle City on the Yukon this winter, left on the Willapa this morning for the north. He will start out on his overland journey about the 10th of November, or before if he can get ready, and with but a single Indian guide and his dogs and sledge will attempt the long winter journey across the mountains to improve the river. Mr. Day will carry only letter mail and for this he will charge $1 for every letter carried. He spent yesterday looking this city over for dogs but secured only one which he thought will answer his purpose. He calculates that it will take him at least 70 days to complete his journey. Day is the man who about a month ago arrived here from the Yukon with two twin baby boys, the first white children to be born on the upper reaches of the river. Mr. Day died on the river last summer and Day carried them out on his back and delivered them to their grandparents in Minnesota. Day had not been home for 19 years, but so pressing was his work and preparations for his winter mail trip that he remained less than a week and once again turned his way towards the ice barriers of the north. Jack Hayes will follow him later in the month and will carry the mail and will probably be the first man to attempt the trip to the interior next spring.

The authorities of McGill University, which is situated just below the reservoirs, have communicated with the city officials, pointing out the danger and notifying the city that it would be held responsible for $1,000,000 damage in the event of a break.

The members of the executive of the Dominion Rifle Association, visited the suggested sites for the proposed new rifle range, and were practically unanimous in favor of the Rockcliffe site, about a mile below the city on the banks of the river.

Grisham, of Gaars Mills, La., has to say on the subject, viz: "I have been a sufferer from chronic diarrhoea ever since the war and have tried all kinds of remedies for it. TROUBLESOME UTES. Marauding Bands of Indians Causing Inconvenience Among Settlers.

Denver, Oct. 30.—Gov. McIntyre and State Game Warden Gordon Land have been notified that 600 Indians from Utah have invaded the White River country and the settlers are becoming restless and unless the Indians are rounded up there is likely to be trouble. Reports have been received at Meeker that a band of Utes and some ranchers had taken place in the Grey Hills country. No one was killed, but shots were exchanged. The Utes, it seems, killed a yearling steer belonging to a rancher and the rancher gathered his neighbors together and ordered the Indians away.
