MODISH MILLINERY.

The newest hats have extremely high crowns, a decided change from the flat-topped hats that have been in favor recently. The Louis XVI. and Directoire shapes are the season's novelties. The effect of the high crown is considerably modified in some models by folds and bands of ribbon or tulle puffings around the crown, and perhaps a parasol feather at the left side. The parasols in this season's most fashionable hat trimming.

Vivid colors and rather startling blends continue to be striking features in fashionable headgear. Fiamboise (a raspberry pink), coral de roche (reddish orange), Victorian or "bottle" green, minerva, "cactus" brown, and purple in all its tones are the colors used in the most successful creations. Brown is perhaps enjoying the greatest popularity.

The new turbans show the crown quite distinct from the brim, and in some instances they suggest the modified walking hat. The fur felts of last season have given way to those of soft, silky appearance and they lend themselves admirably to the new shapes.

Chanelle braids, too, are used in hats for general wear. The flat, oval and circular crowns of the picture hats are this season higher than they were, and with tips arranged around and against the crown is a favorite mode of trimming.—From The Delineator for October.

FRENCH LADY.

A lady in Paris the other day had her purse snatched, but raised a hue and cry, and after an exciting race the robber fled into the arms of a policeman and was laid before the magistrate.

The victim followed and claimed her purse. "Do you consent to hand this purse back to its owner?" asked the magistrate. "Certainly not," replied the thief. "Very sorry, madam, but I cannot give you back your purse," said the magistrate. "You may get it back after the trial and the appeal, say in two or three months."

"But I want my money," said the lady. "Ah, in that case I can offer you a solution of the difficulty. You must wait and see your accuser. The prisoner of course will go free, but I can then hand you back your purse. Such is the law."

The prosecutor nevertheless maintained her plaint.

Her body, as it fell to the floor, struck her ten months old daughter, crushing the child to death. Evans returned later only to find the bodies.

FREE FLOUR DISTRIBUTION.

Many Complaints Being Made About It—What the Distributors Have to Say.

The manner in which the one thousand barrels of flour sent here by David Russell, are being distributed is not meeting with general approval. Many complaints have come to the Star office to the effect that some families in thriving circumstances have received barrels of flour, while some who need them have been neglected. The persons making the complaints are far from imputing improper motives to any in charge of the distributing of the flour, but they think that some greedy and undeserving persons are seizing the opportunity to get some flour without paying for it.

One complaint is to the effect that a man who is in receipt of large and steady wages succeeded in some way in getting a barrel of the flour, while another man who lives near the city on a big farm got no barrel. A woman with a big bank account and the mortgage of considerable property is said to have received another barrel. These and many similar complaints have been made.

Charles Nevins, of the Canadian Drug Company, in the house of Mr. Russell, who is out of town, explained to the Star this morning the way in which the flour is being distributed. The flour is sent to no address unless it is one recommended by some clergyman. The lists of the persons to whom the flour is being given were shown to a reporter and all of them were seen to be the names of the different city clergymen. It is possible in some instances for the clergymen to be imposed upon by persons who are not in needy circumstances, but Mr. Nevins thinks that the clergymen so far have exercised great care in selecting families to be benefited.

Some of the Roman Catholic clergymen are pursuing a very prudent course in the matter. They are withholding the flour from them until they absolutely need it.

POLICE COURT.

Many Junk Dealers and an Aged Fruit and Candy Peddler Reported.

Matters were quiet in the city last night, not an arrest being made either in the city proper or in the northern or western divisions.

Myers Swarts and Abraham Bernstine were present in court this morning to answer a charge of trading in junk without a license. His honor called attention to the fact that the papers the other day published a list of over twenty names of parties who had been reported for carrying on a junk business without a license and wanted to know why it was that all were not present. It was explained that there had not been sufficient time to notify all, and as a result it was arranged that all the cases should be heard on Tuesday next. Over twenty dealers have been reported, and his honor said this morning that if they had not been out of a license in the morning while they would be fined and that the penalty was not a light one.

George Papa, who has been conducting a fruit and candy business on a go-cart at the corner of Gormain and King streets, was in court this morning. He said he was a runaway, was 75 years of age, and if he was prevented from selling peanuts he would have no way of making a living. His honor explained that he did not have to do with the regulation of the street and that the law must be carried out. Papa was ordered to move his cart. He said he would see the mayor.

Michael Harrington complains that John Currie struck his son. Mr. Currie was summoned to be in court this morning, but did not turn up at the hour stated. Mr. Harrington has retained Scott E. Morrell.

A PLUCKY RESCUE.

An Incident in the Life of a Recent Visitor to St. John.

Michael McQuade, of New York, a brother of William McQuade, proprietor of the Grand Union hotel, arrived in the city last night on a visit to his brother. It is over two years since Mr. McQuade was in this city, and during that time he has had at least one exciting experience that gave him considerable notoriety at the time. A man rushed into the store where McQuade was working calling out that his wife and child were burning. Mr. McQuade dashed across the street and made his way amid the flames to the room where the mother and child were and succeeded in bringing them safely to the street. While they escaped with slight burns Mr. McQuade was not so fortunate, and for some time he suffered severely.

FIRE IN ST. STEPHEN.

Councillor Stevens Meets With Heavy Loss and Has a Narrow Escape From Death.

ST. STEPHEN, N. B., Sept. 8.—The fire which broke out at an early hour this morning at Hawthorn Hall, the residence of Hon. Judge Stevens, was confined to the stable and shed, the all being but slightly damaged, except for smoke. A perfectly calm night favored the work of the firemen, for the stable, when discovered, was a seething mass of flames. Councillor Walter Stevens, son of Judge Stevens, occupied a portion of the large dwelling and had two large work horses and a driver horse. All of these valuable animals were burned in the stable together with hay and straw and a quantity of dry wood in a shed.

His loss amounted to $1,000, on which there was no insurance. The stable was insured for $400 which will only partly cover the loss. In attempting to rescue one of his horses Councillor Stevens was overcome by smoke when he had the animal almost to the door and only saved his life by rolling out on the street. He was badly burned about the head, neck and hands. The horse turned back into the stable and was burned.

UNCHALLENGED SUPREMACY.

"During recent years the Melster Singers have wandered far afield; but their supremacy in the rendering of part songs has never been challenged, and they come once more as the foremost exponents of a sometimes neglected art."

Consequent upon the phenomenal success achieved by this incomparable quartette, a marked revival was observable in relation to glee singing throughout the country, and competition was keen for a time, but every rival combination fell short of the excellence attained by the Melster Singers who so thoroughly deserve the title unanimously granted them throughout the world of the "world's greatest quartette."

The work of this quartette stands apart from that of all others in its balance of tone, its blending of voices, its perfect phrasing, and above all, its delicacy of refinement.—Nottingham, Eng. Daily Guardian.

The Melster Quartette will give two concerts at the Exhibition on Monday, 18th Sept., and two on Tuesday, 19th Sept. It is a treat which the musical lovers of St. John will certainly appreciate.

PRICE OF STEEL CHANGES.

The price of American steel billets has again taken a drop, this time from $23 to $19. The drop is said to be due to the rate war being waged between the United States Steel Corporation and the Public Iron and Steel Co.

The reduction will have no effect in Canada, as the prices here are already ruled by the price of the German article, which is always below that in the States, where a high protective tariff is in force. The price at Sydney will not lower and consequently the firm in this city will not be able to give any reductions.
