ST. JOHN, N. B., JAN. 2, 1906.

THE YEAR.

Many things have occurred in the year which has just closed, but the Sun does not propose to enter into a detailed review. It may easily be predicted that the event which will figure most largely in international history is the readjustment of power in the Far East, and the recognition of Japan as one of the great powers of the world. The dissolution of the Scandinavian partnership has been completed without bloodshed and almost without violent language. Russian history is now under construction, with some prospect of a disruption of the empire in Europe. Other events and tendencies include the weakening of the union of Austria and Hungary, with the possibility that the death of the sovereign may be the beginning of great changes in the affairs of that country. All writers of New Year's reviews will mention the era of good feeling between Britain and France and between Britain and the United States. A crisis in the affairs of Turkey is less significant, for Turkey without a crisis could not be identified.

In the history of the British empire the prosecution of the Chamberlain campaign, the change of imperial administration, the continued construction of the Cape to Cairo railway, the development of the regions of the upper Nile, the question of Chinese labor in Africa, the restoration of the Indian Empire, the prosperity of the Canadian Northwest and the establishment of two new Canadian provinces may be mentioned.

Over nearly all the world the year 1905 was a period of great industrial and commercial activity. Canadian foreign trade for the year will be the largest, or at least the second largest, in the history of the country, while the domestic trade has more than kept pace with extended commerce. Canadian industries on the whole have prospered, though there are many holders of important industrial stocks still lamenting the absence of dividends. At the end of the year bankers were advising caution, deprecating great extensions of credit, and using their influence to restrict a speculative habit of the times. Unhappy disclosures relating to the financial management of some of the largest corporations in high finance, and in a smaller way the like developments have occurred in Canada in the matter of a Nova Scotia bank and an Ontario loan company. But these concerns were not recognized as such by the typical, and confidence in the financial institutions of the dominion was never stronger than at present.

THE ALLIANS AND THE WINTER PORT.

The attempt of the Allan company to escape the performance of a part of the service which it has contracted to furnish and for which it will claim pay, has not yet proved successful. On a previous occasion the scheme was made effective and the company drew double port pay for a single port service. It is not at all likely that the company will give up the struggle. The first of March is still two months away and many vessels may be pulled in at that time.

The matter of a few sailings this year is, however, a trifling affair compared with the possibilities of the ten-year contract now sought by the Allan. If this company does not wish to bring its large ships here now there will be greater objection in the future when the ships are still larger. It may be said that a contract to come to this port will be binding. But such a contract has not in the past prevented the withdrawal of ships, and if such permission is sought this year in the face of a contract it is no less likely to be sought next year and the year after. There is another company whose new ships will be at least as large as those of the Allan line. That company makes no objection to the port of St. John.

No one believes that the Allans are afraid to bring their ships to St. John. No one can for a moment credit the statement that freight cannot be got here. The new Allan turbine ship have been to this port and no harm came to them. The accident which befell one of these ships happened on the way from the port of Montreal, from which the company has no desire to withdraw. As to freight, the cargoes that will be taken at Halifax do not originate in Nova Scotia. It will be western traffic conveyed by the Intercolonial. The same railway reaches St. John and the haul to this port is one hundred miles less. Naturally the Intercolonial would prefer to deliver the goods for the same price at the nearer port, and if the longer haul should be made it would be at the request of the Allans. They would then be in the position of having begged the government to haul the goods a hundred miles extra to get them away from St. John, and then seeking escape from their contract obligation on the ground that the freight they want is not at St. John.

Of course the truth is that a single port service is cheaper than one to two ports. A single port service can be handled with fewer ships. If a company can get paid for a double port service, then then only one port will save a great deal of money. It is not uncommon for contractors to seek concessions, and perhaps the Allans may be forgiven for trying the expedient. But it is not so easy to force the standard to this port which is contained in the intimation that the company is afraid to risk large ships on this service.

DEVONSHIRE SUPPORTS THE LIBERALS.

The Duke of Devonshire is taking a natural and consistent course in recommending the free trade unionists to vote with the liberal party. Comparing the strength, popularity and prospects of the home rule and Chamberlain causes, the Duke finds that the Imperial trade project is the more powerful, and from his point of view the more dangerous. Having both, and probably having home rule the more, he has now the greater fear of the success of the trade agitation. Therefore he proposes to throw his strength against the free trade unionists.

In making this appeal the Duke of Devonshire admits that he is speaking to a minority of the liberal unionist party, of which he was formerly the head. Mr. Chamberlain was the real captain of the Duke's vote, while the Duke was the nominal leader. When Devonshire withdrew from the Balfour government and tried to rally the unionist party against Chamberlain's crusade, he found that practically the whole executive was with Mr. Chamberlain. Of the liberal unionist rank and file a respectable number are still free traders, but they are a small percentage. Therefore the Duke of Devonshire cannot bring about anything approaching a liberal reunion. He will probably hear many suggestions to the effect that his offer for the result of the present premier is partly the result of jealousy over the ascendancy of Mr. Chamberlain in liberal unionist circles. But the former leader deserves to be cleared of any such suspicion. He has not been a seeker after honor or office or leadership.

It may be that when the elections are over and the balance of power is found to be in the possession of Mr. Redmond, the Duke of Devonshire will speak in a different tone. Yet he knows that the house of lords may strangle home rule, and he cannot be sure that the peers will condemn an imperial preference.

HOW TO STEAL A PROVINCE.

It appears now that the hope of the Scott government in Saskatchewan did not rest wholly on the back districts. The Scott candidate in Regina has been declared elected by a majority of three. To accomplish this result a recount was necessary, and a sweeping change at one poll did the business. It seems that the officer who held this poll kept the ballot box in his possession for five days, contrary to law. When the proceedings were completed it was found that three out of twenty-five ballots in the box were found to be marked for Laird, the opposition candidate. The other twenty-two were for Bole. Since then ten of the electors have been challenged, and this poll has been sworn that the electors' ballots for Laird. The transfer of these votes gave Bole his final majority. If this thing happened at the capital city, where there was such a chance for the provincial right to protect themselves, what a fine carnival of switching there must have been in the back districts, where the machine officials could get in their work without molestation.

It will probably be mentioned as a surprising incident that a Baptist minister of St. Catherine's has decided to remain where he is at a salary of $1,500 instead of accepting a salary of $5,000 to go into the service of a financial concern. Yet it is an insult to the clergy of the country to suggest that this minister has done anything exceptional. If such offers to ministers were common such refusals would also be ordinary incidents.

The South Africa investigating committee appointed by the Balfour government has recommended the prosecution of the perpetrators of the war stores swindles. As the Montreal Gazette observes, it is fortunate for some Canadians that the emergency food stuff had not come before an imperial commission.

The Sun wishes all its readers a Happy New Year.

Torpid Liver Cause of Fevers

THE SUREST WAY TO PREVENT DISEASE IS TO KEEP THE LIVER ACTIVE WITH

DR CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Too frequently an external cause for fever is looked for, when the real source of trouble is from within the body itself.

To begin with, the liver becomes torpid, sluggish and inactive, and poisonous bile is left in the blood to corrupt the whole system. The result is the overworking of the kidneys and the stagnating up of the organs of excretion.

Food which should be digested is left to ferment and decay in the intestines, and inflammations and fevers are set up.

In such a condition the body is a regular hotbed of disease, and is most susceptible to any ailment of an infectious or contagious nature.

The best insurance against disease is the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to keep the liver active. This great medicine has a direct and specific action on the liver, and is wonderfully prompt and effective in awakening and invigorating this important filtering organ.

A healthy liver means pure blood, good digestion and the proper working of the bowels. A healthy liver ensures the onward passage of the food through the intestines and excretory organs, and so removes all chance of poisonous waste matter remaining in the body to produce pain, suffering and disease.

Mr. Alex. M. Finn, Inverness, N. B., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for derangements of the kidneys and liver and stomach trouble, and can testify that they did me a great deal of good. I can heartily recommend them to any one suffering as I did."

Mr. Luc Dugas, Thetford, Gloucester Co., N. B., writes: "I am sixty-eight years of age and have to suffer a great deal with very severe pains in the back from deranged kidneys. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me, and I have also been much benefited by their use."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Mr. Otto A. Fleissner's KIDNEYS WERE SOAKED WITH CATARRH.

Pe-ru-na Promptly Cured Him.

Mr. Otto A. Fleissner, American Episcopate, late Chief of Col. W. J. Coady (Buffalo Bill), now Chief of the Rainer Grand Hotel, Seattle, Wash., writes: "I suffered with kidney and bladder trouble until life did not seem worth living. I had tried many medicines, but did not get any relief until I took Peru-na. It was really wonderful how much better I was after I had used this medicine only a week. I did not expect that it would help me permanently, but as long as it was doing me good I continued to use it. At the end of six months I found to my relief that it had rid my system of all poisons, and that I was cured to stay cured. I certainly have a splendid medicine and I gladly endorse it."—Otto A. Fleissner.

Catarrh of the Kidneys a Common Disease—Kidney Trouble Often Falls to Be Regarded as Catarrh by Physicians.

Catarrh of the kidneys is very common indeed. It is a pity that this fact is not better known to the physicians as well as to the people.

People have kidney disease. They take some diuretic, hoping to get better. They never once think of catarrh. Kidney disease and catarrh are seldom associated in the minds of the people, and, alas, they are not very often associated in the minds of the physicians.

PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH OF THE KIDNEYS.
