

Donned Male Attire And Worked in Woods To Be Near Husband

Maine Village agog over story of a woman who claims she was once the "Bearded Lady" in Barnum's Circus—Man she calls husband, says he has known her only two weeks.

Special to The Standard.
Farmington, Maine, June 2.—In James Jameson, late of St. Stephen, N. B., the husband of "James George," the handsome lumberman, who it has just turned out is not a lumberman at all, but a former "bearded lady" with Barnum's circus, who has been wearing men's clothing, smoking a pipe, playing cards, and working in a lumber camp to be near the man she declares is her husband.

Mrs. Jameson, as she now calls herself, declares she and Jameson were married in St. Stephen, afterward coming to Maine. Jameson, himself, denies the marriage and declares that he didn't even know his alleged "wife" was a woman. It now seems likely that the Maine courts will be called upon to determine the exact relationship between the pair. And in the meantime, the whole state is looking on in wild-eyed wonder.

Up to a few days ago, "James George" was looked upon in Farmington as a good natured, rather good looking man of 40, who was a good worker in the novelty mills and who seemed to prefer a pipe to the cigarettes of the more youthful workmen. The community was thunderstruck, however, when it developed that "George" had called upon Deputy Sheriff Hing and asked for a warrant for Jameson's arrest, claiming that "James" was not a man but a woman—Jameson's wife—and that her husband had deserted her. The deputy felt the case to be beyond him and sent the woman to Farmington to interview Sheriff Small. She is still here.

According to her story, Mrs. Jameson is 38 years old. She has a daughter 13, by a former marriage, and a child of three, of which she says Jameson, her second husband, is the father.

For some years, she says, she was the "bearded lady" in Barnum's circus. Her husband also travelled with the show, and six years ago, after he died, she married Jameson, who was then a carpenter, and moved into Farmington, where her husband got a job in a mill at Phillipsburg, and went into the woods as a pulp wood peeler.

In order to be near her husband, the woman says, she donned men's attire and joined the circus, working in the camps for several months, peeling pulp, sleeping in the common bunks, and carrying to camp the tobacco, smoke a pipe and playing cards. The only thing she didn't like about it, she says, was that she had to sacrifice her hair to keep up appearances.

After a few months of this sort of work, during which time she received the same pay as the men, Mrs. Jameson says she and her husband went to Livermore Falls, where they both got jobs in the pulp mill. It was before the birth of her child, three years ago, she says, Jameson deserted her. Then she resumed male garb and started in search of him, just locating him in Kinfield. Upon his refusal to make amends for his treatment of her and of their child, she demanded his arrest.

Mrs. Jameson says she is a graduate nurse and has served a year in the Maine Central Hospital at Lewiston, where her eldest daughter is now in training for a nurse. Jameson denies the "bearded lady" story and says he never saw her until two weeks ago in Kinfield. He denies all previous knowledge of her sex.

JUNE WEDDINGS

A wedding of more than ordinary interest took place yesterday afternoon in St. John's (Stone) church, when Miss Marion de Blois Millidge, graduate nurse of this city, became the bride of Dr. Frederick Thomas Dunlop, pathologist at the General Public Hospital. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. A. Kihring, assisted by Rev. J. W. Millidge, uncle of the bride, in the presence of many friends. The bride was given away by her father, Lewis de Blois Millidge, looked very charming in a wedding gown of white corded silk with veil and Juliet cap, trimmed with lilacs of the valley and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Miss Dorothy Fraser of Chatham, N. B., cousin of the bride, who was groomed in yellow shadow lace with maize girde and wore a black hat, trimmed with maize flowers and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. John Dunlop, brother of the groom, was best man.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride, 57 Cranston avenue, where a dainty wedding supper was served. Doctor and Mrs. Dunlop left on the Pacific express last evening on a honeymoon trip to Montreal and Toronto and other Canadian cities and on their return will reside at 153 Waterloo street.

A large array of pretty presents testifies to the popularity of the bride and groom. Among the most conspicuous are a silver tea service from the nursing staff of the General Public Hospital, with whom both Doctor Dunlop and Mrs. Dunlop were particularly popular.

Wilson-Leonard

A pretty wedding was celebrated at St. James' church, Broad street, at half past four o'clock yesterday afternoon when Miss Abbie Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Leonard, 150 St. James street, was united in marriage to LeBaron R. Wilson of Eastport, Maine. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. A. Cady in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Miss Edna O. Leonard, cousin of the bride, was brides-

MODELS LATE JURIST FOR THE GOVERNMENT

MR. WILLIAM ORDWAY PARTRIDGE, JURIST OF CHIEF JUSTICE MELVILLE W. FULLER, BY MR. WILLIAM ORDWAY PARTRIDGE.

Mr. William Ordway Partridge has completed in his studio, in New York city, a bust of the late Chief Justice Melville Weston Fuller at the order of the United States government. The bust, which is of Carrara marble, will be sent to Washington in a few days and will be placed in the Supreme Court room near the late Augustus St. Gaudens' splendid bust of Chief Justice Roger B. Taney.

Simply is one of the characteristics of the bust, and the purity of the modelling impresses the beholder. The jurist is represented in a thoughtful mood, with head slightly bowed and eyes half closed. The long straight hair, falling to the coat collar, and the drooping mustache added the sculptor in conveying a feeling of Americanism, which is pronounced. The soft shirt and plain bow tie add the effect. Mr. Partridge has emphasized the well known democracy of the jurist.
