IN MEMORIAM.

TESTIMONY TO GOOD LIFE OF THE LATE A. C. SMITH.

Carleton Free Baptist Church Crowded Sunday Evening—Rev. Dr. Hartley's Tribute—Address Also by Rev. C. T. Phillips—Special Music by Choir.

Through the blustering storm of Sunday evening people made their way to Carleton Free Baptist church in numbers to fill the church. It was a tribute to the late A. C. Smith that so many braved the storm, for the service last evening was one in his memory. Rev. Dr. G. A. Hartley, the venerable pastor, and Rev. C. T. Phillips, of Water- loo street Free Baptist church, conducted the service, which opened with a hymn, followed by scripture reading and prayer by Rev. Mr. Phillips.

Rev. Dr. Hartley delivered a feeling address from the text 2 Samuel 1-26. He said in part:

"The ancient Jews and the Philistines were often at war. In one of their most dreadful battles, on Mt. Gibeon, Saul, their first king, and his son, Jonathan, were slain. This was a terrible blow to all Israel, but no one seems to have felt it so keenly as did David. Our text is his language of lamentation. I have chosen it, as being appropriate to the present oc- casion, at least in some particulars. It divides itself into two sections.

"The first speaks of distress and intimates its cause—a loved one had been taken by death; his beloved Jonathan was no more. The second speaks of pleasantness, as it had existed between David and Jonathan.

"Of the first I will not speak for reasons that are obvious. The voices are tender. But of the second, pleasantness, I wish to speak briefly. It is not my purpose to speak of the departed as failures or as perfect men. Memorial communions when they exceed the truth, are no credit to the speaker. What intelligent thinking people want is not flattery, a sort of maligant veneering to cover up base or rotten character. They respect men whose interior is true to what the exterior indicates. In all the walks of life there are true and noble men—the world needs the true. True greatness consists largely in personal development, and its effective bearing upon the great ends of life. Every life has some end to serve, even suffering has its mission of softening and cementing the public conscience.

"Our friend and brother was pleasant in his life. He was a true friend, in and love for our Lord Jesus Christ. He was pleasant in his domestic relations to all to whom he was connected by ties of consanguinity and friendship, pleasant and entertaining to visitors in his home.

"Second, he was pleasant and generous in his church relations. He loved all, older or younger, rich or poor—most too young for his loving care; no hand too hard for him to grasp; his support of his church always generous.

"Third, in friendship, true friendship consists even more in being a friend than in having one, as it is more blessed to give than to receive. Mrs. Browning once said the good Charles was what was the secret of the power of his life. He replied: 'In early life I had a friend, then I tried to be a friend to others.' For Brother Smith's death the poor have lost a friend.

"Fourth, pleasant in business. He was prompt and persevering, a man of today, never leaving for tomorrow what ought and could be done today; while too many live in a tomorrow that never comes. To-morrow is the lazy man's working day.

"Fifth, he was pleasant and profitable to both united the sacred and the secular, showing that there is not necessarily any friction between a consistent Christian life and a successful business life—an example for young men, a man who was diligent in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord. Such shall stand before Kings. His sufferings are over, his last battle fought, his victory won through our Lord Jesus Christ."

Rev. Mr. Phillips also spoke, expressing his sympathy for the pastor and church and the family of the late Mr. Smith in his death. During the impressive service, the choir sang a solo to which was given by Miss Brown and a selection by a quartette composed of Misses Brown and Simpson, Messrs. W. O. Slipp and W. Webb.

FOUR MORE AWAY.

St. John Quota for Field Hospital Corps Off to Halifax.

Four more St. John men are off to the front, these as members of the Field Hospital Corps with the Canadian Mounted Rifles. They left Friday for Halifax—Edward Carman, Dr. Oswald Price, Orlie G. Price, and Frederick McMulkin.

Mr. Carman was a clerk in the city, and a member of the St. John Beaver Corps. Dr. Price formerly had charge of the fumigating for the board of health. Orlie Price, his brother, has been for the past four years a drug clerk with George Floren, Indianist, and Fred. McMulkin, son of Ald. John McMulkin, worked as clerk at Indianist.

The men were chosen from many applicants yesterday, the recruiting officer being Lieut. Col. McLean, and the medical officer Dr. T. D. Walker. The required height was five feet five inches, with a normal chest measurement of 34 inches. Mr. Price and his brother were under the stipulated height, but as each possessed unusual qualifications, Col. McLean waived for permission to enter the corps.

From the officers he received 103 names on the membership roll; at present there are 122 divided among the corps; 209 have been removed, but are 18 on the roll now. During his pastorate 238 were added, 188 by confession of faith and 60 by certificate from other churches; 209 have been removed, 79 by death and 130 by removal to other places, leaving a net membership gain of 40, or nearly 50 per cent, on the original roll.

This showing is thought encouraging, but nothing to boast of. In a city like St. John, with a steady population, a church which held its own had should have been grateful, but much more should have been done. Figures, however, could not show the best side of a church's growth which was not in numbers.

Although not stated officially, there is a likelihood of the men first proceeding to England before reaching South Africa. There they would receive instructions and equipment at the medical staff corps, either in Aldershot or in a regular transport, sail for the Cape in a regular transport.

Bridges, secretary; Hurd Peters, Dr. H. S. Bridges, Dr. J. R. McLeod, W. S. Carter, J. H. L. Fairweather, Dr. F. L. Kenney, J. F. Owens, G. Sidney Smith, Dr. W. P. Dole, Dr. J. H. McLeod, W. S. Carter, J. H. L. Fairweather, Dr. F. L. Kenney, J. F. Owens, G. Sidney Smith, Dr. W. P. Dole.

The following members were elected: Rev. Canon Eliezer, Montreal; Rev. W. S. Carter, Digby, N. S.; A. B. Connell, Woodstock, N. B.; Dr. S. F. Wilson, Montreal; J. S. Harrison, Westville, N. B.; Dr. J. H. McLeod, Fredericton; W. H. Harrison, Law, Harvard; G. Fred. McNally, Moncton, N. B.

The president reported on behalf of the council that the honorary degree of Nova Scotia had been conferred on the council to deliver the alumni oration at the next Encenia; that Dr. W. P. Dole, Dr. H. S. Bridges and Thomas McLeod, of the translations to be submitted in competition for the alumni medal, and presented the names of six members of the society who were to be selected by ballot at the next meeting to represent the society on the university senate. The recommendation of the council was accepted.

There was considerable discussion of the question of the conferring of honorary degrees and resolutions were adopted making recommendations to the senate for degrees. After further business the meeting adjourned.

The next meeting of the society will be held at Fredericton on the evening preceding the Encenia.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Delightful Reunion at the Home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Murchie, Edmundston.

Edmundston, N. B., Jan. 8.—One of the most successful and pleasant social functions ever held in Edmundston took place last evening at the handsome residence of Mr. and Mrs. Murchie. About 100 guests sat down to a sumptuous repast at 7 o'clock, and it is needless to say that there was no backwardness in discussing the viands. After the supper the health of the happy couple was proposed in a most eloquent speech by J. M. Stevens, which was briefly responded to.

Tables were removed, and the hall prepared for dancing, and the graceful air of the large dining hall was handsomely decorated, while the youth and beauty of a little town, added by fire apparel, made a scene long to be remembered. There was nothing to mar the pleasant nature of the gathering, and all enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

On viewing the gifts, one would imagine that several tinmiths had been occupying their time of late in devising new and useful articles in the white metal. The gifts, however, were not confined to tin, but Mrs. Murchie had many souvenirs in various ways to remind her of the joyous occasion.

It may be remarked that the majority of those who were present at the wedding and who witnessed that ceremony were yet alive, and with one exception, in good health. The parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Buppel, of whom it has been more than 70 years of age, and if blessed with health for another three years, will celebrate their golden wedding, took an active part in the happy reunion.

TALKED TO THE POINT.

REV. DR. FOTHERINGHAM MARKS ANNIVERSARY OF PASTORATE.

Starts Twentieth Year of His Care Over St. John's Presbyterian Church—Reviews Past and Points Out Strongly What Future Should Be.

On January 9th, 1883, Rev. T. F. Fotheringham was inducted into the charge of St. John's Presbyterian church. Sunday he preached on the occasion of the 19th anniversary of his induction. There was a good congregation.

Rev. Dr. Fotheringham took his text from 2nd Corinthians XII, 15, "And I will very gladly spend and be spent for you; though the more abundantly I love you, the less I be loved." He paid some attention to the progress of the church since the years he had ministered to it. At the time of his induction there were 103 names on the membership roll; at present there are 122 divided among the corps; 209 have been removed, but are 18 on the roll now.

During his pastorate 238 were added, 188 by confession of faith and 60 by certificate from other churches; 209 have been removed, 79 by death and 130 by removal to other places, leaving a net membership gain of 40, or nearly 50 per cent, on the original roll.

Driver Bradley, with the aid of Gunner Rabb, succeeded in getting the ammunition up the hill.

The New Chwang Trouble. -Pekin, Jan. 13.—The United States consul at New Chwang, Henry P. Miller, has applied to the Russian administrator's charge that sailors belonging to the United States gunboat Vicksburg shot a Russian soldier during the recent disturbance at New Chwang, saying that he, the consul, and the commander of the Vicksburg, Commander E. B. Barry, investigated the affair thoroughly and found there was no evidence whatever connecting Americans with the shooting.

United States Minister Conger has received copies of the recent correspondence between Consul Miller and the Russian administrator of New Chwang. The consul complained repeatedly of the oppressive regulations and of the encroaching on the rights of foreigners.

The report comes from Berlin that Baron von Loen will be sent to America by the emperor to study agricultural conditions in this country.

GIRL SHOT TO KILL ANOTHER.

ANNIE BEAUDRY THEN TOOK HER OWN LIFE.

Imagined Jennie Gagnon Was Cause of Her Dismissal from Amoskeag Mill Where Both Worked—Walked into Workroom and Shot Victim and Herself.

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 11.—Died! Led- reade Leavuer, commonly known as Annie Beaudry, shot Jennie Gagnon in a workroom of No. 1 mill of the Amoskeag corporation here today, and then committed suicide. Miss Gagnon is quite, but in a critical condition. The attempted murder and the suicide caused intense excitement among the operatives.

Miss Beaudry was found unconscious on the floor when the smoke cleared away, and was removed to the Sacred Heart Hospital, where she died in less than 15 minutes after her arrival. Her intended victim received a bullet wound over the right eye, the missile passing out through the skull over the right ear, doing little damage. She is resting comfortably and will recover.

Her assailant used a 32 calibre revolver, and fired two shots. Coroner Harrison D. Lord was notified of Miss Beaudry's death and decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The body has been taken in charge by relatives.

Miss Gagnon says the Beaudry girl had no words with her, but approached with a gun, and fired a shot which struck her in the head, and she fell back on her head and ran across the yard to mill No. 2. The shot attracted the attention of the girls in the room, some eight or ten of them, and those nearest the Gagnon girl's machine saw Miss Beaudry turn the revolver upon herself. There was a flash, a second shot and she threw up her hands and fell upon her back on the floor. The operatives ran screaming from the room.

Annie Beaudry, the would-be homicide, was the daughter of Edmund Leavuer, of 309 Elm street, and for a time changed her name to Beaudry, the daughter of a French Canadian, and her father took as a substitute for her name, Annie Beaudry. Since leaving the mill some two months ago, she had been out of employment. This morning she coolly made preparations for the tragedy she contemplated, leaving a note for her father, which was written in pencil and found pinned to a bureau. The note read:

Farwell, dear father, farwell. Will you give my regards to Charlie. Good bye, farwell.

(Signed) YOUR GIRL, Tommy Father, Edmund Leavuer. Manchester, N. H., Jan. 12.—Miss Jennie Gagnon is doing nicely today. The physicians have no doubt that she will shortly recover.

The body of Annie Beaudry was turned over to relatives for burial.

NEW BRUNSWICKER IN MEXICO.

J. D. O'Connell of Sussex Sends an Interesting Letter Describing His Travels.

Guadalupe, Mex., Jan. 6, 1902. To the Editor of The Telegraph:

Sir—When I left New Brunswick two months ago I promised my friends in Kings county that I would send an account of my trip to you and through this country, to your paper, which if you will kindly publish will save me writing several letters, as well as being interesting to many who read your paper. I left Sussex, my summer home, via New York and Washington, travelling through the States, and cotton growing states of the south to New Orleans, and after visiting the sugar growing section of Louisiana and the State of Texas, went to the great oil fields of Beaumont and saw the famous gusher that throws 60,000 barrels of oil per day, 150 feet in the air. Let us hope that some of the wells at Beaumont will become gushers like this. From Beaumont I went to San Antonio and Mexico City, via Mexican National Railway, stopping at many of the smaller places on the way down, which is about 1,000 miles. I stopped in Mexico City several days, as it is the capital of Mexico, as well as the largest and most important city in the republic, having a population of between 370,000 and 400,000. It is well laid out with straight streets, and each other at right angles. It has good public buildings and parks, and more than 120 churches of which the cathedral is the grandest, having 400 feet long, 200 feet wide and having two domes 200 feet high. This city was founded by the Aztecs in the latter part of the thirteenth century, was conquered by the Spaniards in 1521 and held by them just 300 years. The independence of Mexico being gained September 27, 1821. I might mention here the Spaniards mingled with the natives, intermarrying in many cases, thereby elevating, educating and christianizing them. This is spoken of by the Mexicans who have native blood in them, in striking contrast with the way the natives were treated by the invaders of the other half of the world, where they were portions of North America, they were made savage by being driven off the best parts of the country, isolated from the white man and finally being exterminated slowly but surely.

From Mexico City I went further south, and found the country very fertile, the climate good, frost being unknown, as well as the extreme heat which is often experienced in the more northern parts of North America. Cotton, rice and tobacco are among the agricultural products, as well as wheat, vegetables, fruit, cattle and sheep. It is also rich in mineral wealth. I have seen ore thrown over a dump having $10 to $20 per ton in gold and silver values. While poorer ore is being mined and milled profitably in Nova Scotia, Ontario and in the western states. Mining is a profitable business here for those who understand it and know what they are doing, but I would advise New Brunswickers to invest their surplus wealth in their own country.

I think there is plenty of opportunity for profitable investment in Canada, and without going out of New Brunswick I came.

After a short trip south to Mexico City I came to this place, which is the capital of the State of Jalisco, and the second city in importance, having about 120,000 inhabitants; it is also well laid out with straight well shaded streets. It has some of the finest public buildings, parks, gardens and churches in Mexico. The Guadalupe
