Turan Takes Tanlac and Now
Weighs 128 Pounds—Had to
Quit Work Two Months at a
Time—Now on Job Every Day.

"My troubles had pulled me down from one hundred and forty to only eighty pounds in weight, but it's a fact, Tanlac had built me up to where I now balance the scales at one hundred and twenty-eight pounds, and I am feeling great," was the remarkable statement made by Walter J. Turan, a well-known contracting plasterer, living at 142 Hiram Avenue, Toronto, Ont.

"Yes, sir, before I got Tanlac I was in mighty bad shape. I had no appetite and my food nauseated me, so I could scarcely retain a thing I ate. One forced in such quantities that the pressure against my heart made breathing very difficult for me, and when I would lie down at night it just looked like I was going to smother to death. I suffered constantly with constipation, had dizzy spells quite often and had awful aches and pains all around my stomach and through my back. I was almost a living skeleton, sometimes I had to lay off from my work for two months at a time and came very near giving up and going to a hospital.

"I heard so much about Tanlac that I decided to give it a trial, and my appetite began to pick up from the very first, and it wasn't long until I was eating like a bear. The medicine has relieved me of all my troubles. My stomach never bothers me any more and I never have an ache or pain. My sleeping is free and easy, I sleep good and sound every night, and am back on the job every day, feeling just fine. Tanlac is the only thing that ever helped me, and I believe it's the best medicine ever put in a bottle."

Tamlac is sold in London by Standard Drug Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

Puppy Stories (by Vincent G. Perry)

THE CURIOUS PUP.

The little mayor and the tiny citizen hopped out of Nibbles' ear as soon as the little dog was safe on dry land. The cat who had been left by the other cats to guard the shore, was indeed an agreeable cat, they soon found.

"I'll call the mayor of the country. He'll be glad to welcome a mayor from another country," the cat told the little mayor as soon as he heard their story. "You are the first visitors we have had here for a long time. I had no idea that you were all here. I had no idea that you were all here. I had no idea that you were all here."

No sooner had he said this than the catguard took a horn that had been concealed in some rocks nearby and blew a long blast on it. There was the trumpeting of soft little cat feet on the sandy beach. A whole regiment of gaily decked cats presented themselves.

"Go ye citizens of Stray Kitten Land, the mayor and all the councilors," ordered the cat, who by the way was the captain of the guard. The little regiment broke up in good order and hastened to obey. The mayor was quite sure to have a land all their own. Nibbles couldn't help but smile.

WAS LOST SIX DAYS; AVIATOR TURNS UP

Texas Flier Wanders Through Waste Lands to Rio Grande.

Sanderson, Texas, Feb. 17.—A guard of soldiers kept intruders away from the hotel room today where Lieut. Alexander Pearson, Jun., regained his first real rest since he left El Paso last Thursday on a flight in an army aeroplane to San Antonio.

Uniform in rags, face unshaven, worn out from privations suffered in the most desolate waste lands of Texas, the 25-year-old aviator rode into Sanderson last night on a horse borrowed from ranchers.

Less than three hours' flight from El Paso, he made a forced landing at 10:30 p.m. last Thursday in Reaganan, some 95 miles from Sanderson, miles from wire communication and human habitation. For three days he wandered without food, taking water from the aeroplane radiator to quench his thirst.

On the fourth day he struck the Rio Grande, and floated down the stream on an improvised raft, until he was discovered by ranchers, who gave him food and a mount. His arrival came as the 65 United States army aviators who had combed Texas in search of him had almost given up hope.

ENGINEERS DECIDE TO POSTPONE STRIKE

British Locomotive Men Act To Facilitate Inquiry.

Leeds, England, Feb. 17.—The executive committee of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen has sent a message to the prime minister, Mr. Lloyd George, concerning the situation created by the shooting of railway men at Mallow, Ireland, last month, saying the committee has decided to instruct its members not to strike on February 20, nor in the near future, unless they are further instructed. The action of the committee was taken in the public interest, and in order to facilitate an inquiry into the Mallow shooting, the message states.

Mr. Lloyd George, on February 10, informed the locomotive engineers and firemen's union that its implied threat to bring on a general strike in Great Britain over the shooting of the railway men at Mallow would not influence the government in considering the union's demands for an investigation. In a resolution adopted on February 10 by the executive committee of the union in Leeds, it was intimated that unless the government granted an inquiry into the Mallow shooting, and gave guarantees for the safety of the union's members, a general strike would be called.

FRENCH LABOR TO PLAY BIG PART IN RECONSTRUCTION

Federation Heads Have Been Making Visits to the Ruined Cities.

INEFFICIENCY CHARGED

Found One Canal "Opened" by Boat Transported To Terminal in Train.

Paris, Feb. 17.—Is French labor going to devise a new scheme for the reconstruction of the devastated regions? That is the question which is being asked in parliamentary circles following official visits to the cities ruined by German invasion by the heads of the French General Federation of Labor, despite the fact that this body was dissolved by a Paris tribunal recently.

Jouhaux, Laurent and other secretaries of the organization have returned to take the court's dissolution order seriously. They still operate in the Central Labor Federation and conference of the organization's funds and documents have been put in a place of safety until labor decides to assert its right to reconstruct. They have taken voluminous notes of actual conditions in the eastern areas which the politicians themselves overlooked in their zeal to hold office.

Moreover, by conferring with non-labor classes, as for instance several notable conversations with the Marquis de Polignac, regarding the best methods for aiding Rheims, they have been able to form the basis for a policy of reconstruction which may play an important part in the next parliamentary elections, possibly even going so far as to give labor as represented by the Left groups in the Chamber of Deputies an unprecedented voice in the affairs of the nation.

The tour of the devastated areas which has just been completed lasted a fortnight, and incidentally was made in a powerful rhinoceros used by Gen. Pershing during the final year of the war.

The most striking examples of material inefficiency, according to the investigators, was found at Bar-le-Duc, where the delegates say they arrived just in time to witness the reopening of the canal route which had been officially celebrated with bands, flags and speeches four months before.

At the previous ceremony the minister for devastated regions, after eating a hearty breakfast provided by the municipality, aided in launching a canal boat, and then, followed by scores of official, journeyed in automobiles to a city 40 miles away to await the arrival of the newly-launched vessel.

After several hours the vessel arrived and was again hailed by massed bands and more speeches, but it was learned later that the voyage was not made by canal route, but comfortably packed in a freight car to a point just outside the canal's other end, where the delegates say they arrived just in time to witness the reopening of the canal route which had been officially celebrated with bands, flags and speeches four months before.

The celebration is said to have cost at least $50,000 francs. The General Labor Federation intends to crush such waste, it says, and will make opposition to ridiculous Government pomp in such serious matters as reconstruction the chief plank in its platform hereafter.

BIG RUSH STARTS FOR BRITISH TITLES

Lost Heirs of Ancient Estates Are Thought To be in America.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Now is the time for all those Americans who go in for asserting claims to old British titles to step forth and obtain legal recognition as real, blue-blooded aristocrats. The House of Lords has established an special committee which is ready to inquire into all such cases, let bygones be bygones and recommend that his majesty reinstate the title.

It's the open season for bagging titles. Many claims already have appeared. And there's room for more. Think of all the titles that were forfeited in medieval times, when powerful barons fought against the king; think of all those attained for religious reasons.

Three of the titles which are looking for a missing heir are baronies of Ferrers, Compton and Bourchier, and hinge upon the possibility of there being a missing heir somewhere in the United States.

If some Little Lord Fauntleroy, bearing the ancient name of De Ferrers, doesn't come sailing over the seas, it looks as if the honor will go to Mr. Charles Vere Townshend, Mainwaring-Ellier-Ormsley. This case now is up for hearing for the second time. Just five years ago Mr. Mainwaring-Ellier-Ormsley appeared as co-claimant with Mr. H. Ferrers-Ferrers, who died in 1915.

Ferrers-Ferrers was the nephew of Marmion Ferrers male representative of the great De Ferrers, whose ancestor dated from the reign of King Stephen. His nephew's claim was adjourned indefinitely because the evidence was inconclusive as to whether Marmion Ferrers's brother, who formed a romantic attachment for a serving maid and went with her to the United States, had left legitimate issue. There you are. There is one chance for an American claimant.

The third Lord Compton in 1613 was created Earl of Northampton. The Compton barony descended with that of the Ferrers until they fell into abeyance in 1865. The barony's reversion dates from 1349. It became abeyant with the death of the third Lord Essex in 1644.

Another petition is that of Major John William de la Poer, Curteen in Poer, County Waterford, Ireland. He claims the Irish baronies of Le Power and Corcoran. Major de la Poer is an officer in the Leinster. His father was Edmund James de la Poer, Count de la Poer of the Papal States. He died in 1915. His grandfather was content to call himself plain Power, but the count assumed the original family surname and claimed the barony that Major de la Poer is claiming today.

Put the two most ambitious title-hunters now submitting claims are Edith Maud, Countess of London in her own right, who was married in December, 1916, to Lord Abney-Hastings, and her younger sister, Elizabeth Frances, wife of Viscount St. David. The sisters would seem almost intent upon trying to corner the title market. Between them they ask to be acknowledged as co-heiresses of the baronies of De Moelyns, Botreaux, Hungerford and Hastings, and second, to the baroness of Strange of Knecht and Stanley.

ANTI-DUMPING BILL PROPOSED

Lloyd George Government May Bar Entirely Certain Articles.

London, Feb. 17.—The Star today prints an outline of the government's anti-dumping bill, drafted with the purpose of improving trade and establishing exchange. The newspaper says the measure will be introduced in the House of Commons next week.

The measure would empower the board of trade, after committee recommendations, either to bar entirely or to admit on license a number of articles, among them fine chemicals, certain glass wares, special porcelain, optical lenses, tungsten powder, zinc oxide, arc-lamp carbons and gas mantles.

The clauses dealing with exchange, says the Star, would enable the government to impose an import duty particularly on cheap goods, which, rising or falling with exchange rates, would ruin the British manufacturer. A feature of the bill making it different from the one introduced by the measure of 1913, which failed of passage, is that the committee reporting never the board of trade would be composed not only of board of trade experts, but of commercial authorities who examine into complaints of dumping.

COMMUNISTS UNABLE TO REALIZE ALL AIMS

Riga, Feb. 17.—The Soviet Russian newspaper Pravda, reviewing the year 1920, says the Communists were unable to realize most of their practical aims because of the lack of both "people and means."

It proposed a revision of the party constitution as a practical measure for the building up of the state.

Reviewing the Soviet Russian foreign policy the Pravda remarks that Estonia and Latvia must be considered the Russian windows to Western Europe. Any future war with the border states must be avoided, it says, as the last war with them was very difficult and entailed many sacrifices on the part of Soviet Russia.

Other newspapers reprint rumors from the Western European press regarding a concentration of troops of the Russian frontier, and explain these rumors as the wish of the Western European powers to initiate more trouble.

FORDNEY BILL GETS INTO JAM

Future of Tariff Measure Uncertain—Second Bill Is Possible.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The Fordney emergency tariff bill, with its burden of Senate amendments, got back to the House today, only to get snagged in a legislative jam, leaving its immediate future uncertain.

Soon after Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee had started for St. Augustine, Florida, to consult President-Elect Harding about putting through a second emergency tariff as a stopgap measure, Acting Chairman Green sought to complete the House formalities of sending the first bill to conference, but failed to secure unanimous consent. The Fordney bill thus was left over-night with three possibilities, all depending upon maneuvers by Republican leaders. It may be sent to conference, or an attempt may be made to have the House concur in the Senate amendments.

As for the second emergency measure, which, if approved by Mr. Harding, is to be rushed through the extra-session ahead of all other legislation, Republican leaders were apparently in accord. It is proposed to make it comparable to a permanent tariff bill in scope and effect, and its rates, according to the program, will be based on information gathered in the hearings just concluded.
