A TRIP TO THE CLUB.

It did not seem more than a half hour before a most gorgeous little coupe was driven up to the door by John. As I went out to the car I glanced unobtrusively at Madame Gordon's windows. I saw the lace curtains flutter and I knew that she had come to the window immediately upon the "hook, hook," of the horn.

Of course I would never tell this to anyone but I was rather glad to know that my affairs had interested Madame Gordon enough to keep her swatching at the window most of the morning and as events turned out, I was the victor, and she witness my triumph.

"Oh, John, you dear," I said, and I know how shocked his mother by throwing my arms about his neck and kissing him at the door of the car. Indeed I think that John was a little fussed too, for lacking his usual discretion of public opinion I saw him look around at the surrounding houses and then back to his mother's window.

"But what shall I do, dear, you know I can't run it," I said, and I can teach you in half an hour," he said. "I have had this car in mind for you since before we were married, in fact I was talking with the man this morning about it and I had thought I would take you over after luncheon to see if you liked it."

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody can tell when you darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea. Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy, and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle, of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known down-town druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

"Like I Ladsen," I interrupted

as I opened the door and rubbed my hands over the exquisite upholstery. "So when your message came that mother wished to see her car, I decided not to wait as I was almost sure you would be pleased with it."

"Dearest, don't you know I am ever so much pleased to have you bring it to me as a surprise and to know that you have planned this for me than if I had gone and ordered it myself with your approval."

There is nothing in the world that a woman so appreciates as the knowledge that her husband is sometimes thinking of her when he is away from her. It makes no difference if it is a pound of candy, a bunch of violets, or a motor car—I believe that the glow that surrounds her heart when he unexpectedly brings anyone of them to her is the same. Many times during our first year of marriage John showed me this thoughtfulness and each time it gave me new joy in the thought that I was his wife—the woman of whom he thought.

"Well, hurry up. Jump into the car, sweetheart. We are late for our luncheon," he said.

"I have a mighty good excuse," John grinned down at me. "Kate," he said, "I never knew before how much fun it was to give a real woman a present."

"Have you been giving them to counterfeits?" I asked, as the picture of Bessie and John in conversation over her dinner ring rose in my mind. "That's just what I have been doing," said John rather grimly. "But I shan't do it any more, dear."

Again the horizon of my happiness lost itself in a golden haze. Why should I care if John had given twenty girls twenty rings before he knew me? I had forgotten every annoyance I had in the world and was my usual happy self as I left the car at the clubhouse and went up the steps to the piazza where our friends were awaiting us.

"Good gracious, John," said his sister, "do you mean to tell me that you have bought that love of a motor for Kate? Why isn't the very car I have been trying to persuade Tom to buy me for the last month?"

"Yes, this is my wedding present to her."

becoming it was, before

"We weren't interested in frocks Alice, I said. "What woman would be when her husband had just made her a gift like that car?"

"If a man would give me a car like that," said Bessie Moreland, "I wouldn't care if he never even noticed me again, not to mention my frock!"

My happiness was made superlative by hearing John say sotto voice: "True for you, young woman." (Continued Tomorrow.)

OUR OPINION

We have a vote on the liquor question. (I suppose you heard all about the election.) The Temperance people they won the day. But it's not dry yet by a long, long way. They have done wonders at least so they think.

In doing away with all spirituous drink. If they have done any good, remains to be seen. If life's not worth living, it sure might have been. Should we have got our wine and light beer. There's no place I'd sooner live than right around here. I speak from experience and I think it is true. That Waterloo has a reputation for making good brew.

They have started a work I hope they will finish. Then I'll look to see crime, and all evil diminish. But I really believe they began at the wrong end. If it's their intention these matters to mend; If you care to listen I'll give you my opinion.

On how to make dry (this great big Dominion).

First, the following must all cease to be: Apples, cherry blossoms, and all sap from the tree, Dandelions, clover, and a thousand things more. Of things to make drink, why they're here by galore. When you remove all these things, why it's not quite enough. You must take from all men their taste for such stuff.

So I believe just between me and you That they have bit off far more than they can chew. They must be ready and able to cope With all those people who now will use dope. But we'll leave them alone in their misguided passion And make some more whisky, for that is the fashion.

THE CANADA LIFE SUBSCRIBE TEN MILLIONS TO THE VICTORY LOAN. One of the first and largest subscriptions to the new Victory Loan is that of the Canada Life Assurance Company for Ten Million Dollars. This subscription means that the Canada Life will have included in its assets of $70,000,000, more than $20,000,000 in Government War Loans. The annual income upon this large amount is considerably over $1,000,000 and will be a source of dividends to policyholders.

A message to the policyholders of the Canada Life recently raised the following interesting question: "Do you pay your life insurance premiums in the same spirit you pay taxes? If so, consider this: Almost immediately your premium reaches the Home Office of the Canada Life it is invested in some safe, interest-bearing security like Victory Bonds, first class Farm Mortgages or Municipal Bonds. These investments are held as security to guarantee that your Policy will be paid when it matures or becomes a claim.

"In other words, you have indirectly made a high class investment with this important distinction:—The Canada Life (with over $70,000,000 assets) guarantees that should you die before you pay another premium, the amount of your policy $5,000, $10,000 or more, will be paid to your estate, your family or other Beneficiary. "Is there any better investment in the world?"

WILL TAKE OVER RAILWAYS

REGINA, Oct. 29.—Unless Saskatchewan is refunded every dollar paid in interest on the bonded indebtedness of the Grand Trunk Pacific branch line secured under Provincial guarantee, the province will take over the lines. This is Premier Martin's reply to press reports, quoting Hon. Mr. Meighen and Hon. J. D. Reid to the effect that the province would still remain liable on its bonds, despite the proposed Federal legislation to take over the G.T.R. and G.T.P. railways.
