

A White Enamel Finish that will Not turn yellow

In your home you want a white enamel finish that will not turn yellow, fade nor check.

You want a finish that will always look bright and new—a finish that is unharmed by frequent cleaning with soap and hot water.

Luxberry White Enamel

Whitest White—Berry Quality

is such a finish. It gives all woodwork a lastingly beautiful porcelain white finish.

For your floors, stair-treads and other interior woodwork subjected to severe wear use Liquid Granite.

Liquid Granite is a tough elastic floor varnish that resists hard wear to an unusual degree. Scrubbing with soap and hot water serves merely to brighten its beautiful lustre.

These two finishes, like all Berry Brothers Products, are of the highest quality. This quality is the result of over 56 years experience in varnish manufacture.

Berry Brothers Varnishes are sold by the leading dealer in every city. Ask him which "Berry" Varnish will meet your requirements best—and use it.

Advance Notice.—At the club the other night a member of the Seventh Regiment found himself the centre of a group who were discussing the likelihood of an invasion of Mexico by the National Guard. Cheerful remarks about the penetrative powers of Mauser bullets peppered about him. Everybody had kindly suggestions to make—such, for instance, as that a medal neatly adjusted over each bullet-hole would make him look as good as new. The victim took it very well.

"I'd like to contribute just one remark to this discussion," he said. "If I'm reported shot in the back, remember that I may have turned around to encourage my nien."—New York Call.

A Warning.—Woman is certainly coming into her own. Even in tender romance she is exerting an influence.

The young man had just been accepted. In his rapture he exclaimed, "But do you think, my love, I am good enough for you?"

His strong-minded fiancée looked sternly at him for a moment and replied, "Good enough for me? You've got to be!"—Judge.

Youthful Egotism.—Stimson (to Willie, reading the paper)—"What are you looking so cheerful about, Willie?"

Willie—"I see a lot of school teachers are detained indefinitely in Europe."—Life.

Far from Home.—First Artist—"The umbrella, you lent me? I have lent it to a friend."

Second Artist—"That is very awkward. The man who lent it to my friend tells him that the owner wants it."—Le Rire.

Attacking School System.—Small Boy—"Father, what is an equinox?"

Fond Parent—"What in the world do you go to school for? Don't you study mythology? An equinox is a mythical animal, half horse, half ox. The name is derived from the Latin 'equine' horse, and 'ox.' Dear me, they teach you absolutely nothing that is useful nowadays!"—London Evening Standard.

A Useful Combine.—A Polish couple came before a Justice of the Peace to be married. The young man presented his marriage license, and the pair stood up for the ceremony.

"Join hands," said the Justice of the Peace.

They did so, and the Justice looked at the document, which authorized him to unite in matrimony Zacharewitz Perzynski and Leokowards Jeulinski.

"Ahem!" he said. "Zach-h'm-ski, do you take this woman"—and so forth.

"Yes, sir," responded the young man. "Leo-r'm-h'm-ski, do you take this man to be"—and so forth.

"Yes, sir," replied the woman.

"Then I pronounce you man and wife," said the Justice, glad to find something he could pronounce. "And I heartily congratulate you both on having reduced those two names to one."—Weekly Scotsman.

Out of Stock.—Young Blood (wishing to purchase a pineapple)—"I sye,—aw—have you got a pine?"

Stout Woman (enjoying good health)—"Pine? Lor' bless yer, guv'ner, do I look like it? Never 'ad no illness in me life!"—Printer's Pie.

Difficult to Explain.—While admitting the general usefulness of the genus "flapper" as correspondence clerks a broker tells of a terrible happening, caused by his signing a letter in a hurry. The letter was duly dispatched, but was speedily returned by the client with some rather sarcastic remarks. On looking at the concluding sentence he found the typist had written, "business here has been on a more moral basis to-day." Of course what he said was "normal."

A Good Reason.—A certain Territorial officer was much disliked by his men. One evening, as he was returning home, he slipped into some deep water. A private in his regiment, however, happened to see him, and after some trouble succeeded in pulling him out. The officer was very profuse in his thanks, and asked his rescuer the best way he could reward him.

"The best way you can reward me," said the soldier, "is to say nothing about it."

"Why, my dear fellow," said the astonished officer, "why do you wish me to say nothing about it?"

"Because, if the other fellows knew I'd pulled you out, they'd chuck me in!"

Not a Corn

Last week that foot had corns. But the owner read of Blue-jay.

She applied it one night and the pain instantly stopped. In 48 hours all the corns came out. And those corns will never come back.

That's the story folks have told about sixty million corns. And tens of thousands tell it every day.

Some of them used to pare corns, merely to relieve. Some of them tried the old-time treatments until they gave up in disgust.

Now never again will they suffer from corns. When one appears, Blue-jay goes on it.

There is no more pain. The corn is forgotten. In two days they lift it out. No soreness, no pain, no trouble.

That sounds too good to be true. But remember, please, that a million corns a month are ended in this Blue-jay way.

Why don't you let it put an end to yours?
