Arguments Re:

Acceptance of honours from foreign sovereigns
and the Pope does not justify restoration.
It makes clear that removal has not gone far enough.

There are many other problems more important, than taking up the precious time of the Commons to resurrect a question already forgotten by the public.

Press of Canada generally has been against restoration of titles whenever matter discussed in Parliament or notice of same given in House of Commons.

A peerage as is known to his intimate friends, is his (Bennett's) dearest ambition. So far, the Commons' resolution has been an awkward barrier.
