RADIAL CAR SHEDS BURN IN HAMILTON

$75,000. Damage Caused by Fire, Which Destroys Five Freight Cars.

(Canadian Press Despatch) HAMILTON, July 7.—The freight sheds of the Interurban Lines of the Dominion Power and Transmission Company at the corner of Main and Catharine Streets were destroyed by fire yesterday morning. Five freight cars, an auto truck and other stock belonging to the company was burned. Spontaneous combustion is said to have been the cause. The loss is estimated at $75,000, covered by insurance.

BIG LEVIATHAN DOES GREAT WORK

One of the Largest Steam Shovels Made at Work on New Railroad.

One of the largest steam shovels ever operating in this country is now at work on the Lake Erie and Northern Railway, cutting a hill in rear of the McPherson farm house about three miles from Galt.

This leviathan boasts that it can do double the work of the average steam shovel, and what's more, proves it.

A Courier representative on Saturday afternoon paid a visit to the scene and found the monster eating up earth and boulders and tree roots with an evident relish for the meal.

Alongside a temporary track has been installed and a number of cars with two engines attached are kept more than busy in running the results of the "scoops" for a big fill-in of a Grand River loop near by.

Several more camps can be seen dotted here and there to accommodate the additional gangs of men now employed. That the first train will be run into Galt early in the fall is now practically assured. In the latter city, several houses have been torn down to make room for the right of way to the centre of the place.

As for the "Shovello Mastodon", he will shortly be seen in full action in rear of the golf links.

Sunday at the Local Churches

At The First Baptist. Yesterday was an extra good day at the First Baptist. All the services were well attended. The Sunday school was held in the morning for the first time for the summer season, and the attendance showed an increase over last year's record. For the last six months the average increase per Sunday as compared with the same period of last year showed an increase of 58 per cent. There was a splendid showing of the boys and girls at the preaching service.

At Colborne St. Church. Rev. James Awd of Hamilton, in the absence of Rev. T. E. Holling, pastor of Colborne St. Methodist Church, who is on a trip to the British Isles, occupied the pulpit morning and evening and delivered excellent sermons. Rev. Awd will continue to occupy the pulpit until Rev. Holling's return in September.

Manager Deneau wired pitcher Duggan to report at once and it is likely the Ohio College star will be on hand to-night.

CARNIVAL SHOW ARRIVES IN CITY

Difficulty in Securing Accommodation For Arrivals on Sunday.

A big crowd of people watched the unloading of the Ferrari Shows in West Brantford last night. The stunts which the elephants pulled off in boosting the heavy loads to the park being particularly amusing. Over 250 people arrived with the show by special train shortly before 6 o'clock and despite the fact that advance agents were busily engaged on all Sunday endeavoring to secure rooming accommodation for the visitors, only 35 out of 350 were placed. A couple of local men also assisted in the search for rooms. The hotels were either crowded or had to reserve rooms for the usual early week influx of travellers. Contrary to general practice, canvas had to be erected at Agricultural Park, otherwise a number would have been forced to remain out of doors during the night.

Military Notes

At the Ranges. The third Canadian Military Rifle League match was fired at the Mohawk Ranges on Saturday, when some very excellent scores were put on. In the last of the Gibson Spoon Competitions, the winner was Sergt. C. Bissett, with a score of 91 in the 85 class. The shooting for the Ottawa team of five men, which was also started on Saturday is bringing out very keen competition. The results on Saturday were as follows:

FAMOUS PICTURES AT THE GEM

Of all the moving picture films shown in Brantford, those of the "Lucky" Scott Expedition are most interesting. They will be on exhibition at the Gem Theatre to-night and to-morrow, afternoon and evening. It will be remembered that this expedition penetrated to the unknown lands of the far North. There all kinds of adventures were met with, and best of all, this party included a skilful moving picture artist who recorded every phase of the trip in imperishable moving pictures. There are 5,000 feet of films in all, these including many wonders of the North heretofore never pictured by the camera. The hunting of polar bear and seals is shown as faithfully as though the spectator were looking at the real adventure.

PARALYZED BY LUMBAGO

Manual labor or even light exercise is impossible with lumbago. The muscles stiffen out like steel—to move means agony. Only a powerful remedy can penetrate deep enough to help. The surest relief comes from rubbing in Nerviline. It sinks into the very root of the trouble—penetrates where an oil-liniment cannot go. To prevent lumbago returning, put on a Nerviline Porous Plaster which removes inflammation and strain from the muscles, and acts as a guard from drafts and exposure. Nothing will so quickly cure as these remedies. All dealers sell Polson's Nerviline and Nerviline Porous Plasters. Refuse all substitutes.

THE GENTLE CYNIC

It comes much harder for some people to spend money than to make it. No man should complain that his hands are tied if he has a free foot. Don't coddle your bad habits just because it's never too late to mend. Riches have wings, and they generally fly so high as to be out of range. Flattery is a good bait for suckers, but you can sometimes catch them with a bare hook. Would you say a man is effeminate just because he always manages to have his own way. Counterfeiters pass lots of bad bills, but then, so does the Legislature. We are apt to speak well of the dead, except in the case of the dead broke. At the age of 16 you can never tell whether a girl is suffering from malaria or is merely in love.—New York Times.

"The Mystery of Agatha Webb"

By KATHARINE GREEN CHAPTER XIX. A SYMPATHETIC FRIEND.

The next day was the day of Agatha's funeral. She was to be buried in Porchester, by the side of her six children, and, as the day was fine, the whole town, as by common consent, assembled in the road along which the humble cortege was to make its way to the spot indicated.

From the windows of farmhouses, from between the trees of the few scattered thickets along the way, saddened and curious faces looked forth, till Sweetwater, who walked as near as he dared to the immediate friends of the deceased, felt the impossibility of remembering them all and gave up the task in despair.

Before one house, about a mile out of town, the procession paused, and at a gesture from the minister every one within sight took off their hats, amid a hush which made almost painfully apparent the twittering of birds and the other sounds of animate and inanimate nature which are inseparable from a country road. They had reached Widow Jones' cottage, in which Philomena was then staying.

The front door was closed and so were the lower windows, but in one of the upper casements a movement was perceptible, and in another instant there came into view a woman and a man, supporting between them the impassable form of Agatha's husband. Holding him up in plain sight of the almost breathless throng below, the woman pointed to where his darling lay and appeared to say something to him.

Then there was to be seen a strange sight. The old man, with his thin white locks fluttering in the breeze, leaped forward with a smile, and, holding out his arms, cried in a falsetto joyful tone, "Agatha!" Then, as if realizing for the first time that it was death he looked upon and that the crowd below was a funeral procession, his face altered, and he fell back, with a low, heartbroken moan, into the arms of those who supported him.

As his eyes disappeared from sight the procession moved on, and from only one pair of lips went up that groan of sorrow with which every heart seemed surcharged—one groan. From whose lips did it come? Sweetwater endeavored to find out, but was not able, nor could any one inform him unless it was Mr. Sutherland, whom he dared not approach.

This gentleman was on foot like the rest, with his arm fast lanked in that of his son Frederick. He had meant to ride, for the distance was long for man past 60; but, finding the latter unable to walk, he presented to do the same rather than be separated from his son.

He had fears for Frederick—he could hardly have told why—and as the ceremony proceeded and Agatha was solemnly laid away in the place prepared for her his sympathies presented to him to such an extent that he found it difficult to quit the young man for a moment or even to turn his eyes away from the face he had never seemed to look till now. But as a friend and stranger were now rapidly leaving the yard he controlled himself and, assuming a more natural demeanor, asked his son if he were now ready to ride back. But to his astonishment, Frederick replied that he did not intend to return to Sutherlandtown at present, that he had business in Porchester and that he was doubtful if he would be ready to go home. As the old gentleman did not wish to raise a controversy, he said nothing, but as soon as he saw Frederick disappear up the road he sent back the carriage he had ordered, saying that he would return in a few days.
