AGAIN ADRIPT IN BAY OF FUNDY.

Monday, Aug. 13.

Scarcely a week since James Knight, a Newfoundland fisherman, had been lost in the bay for four days and four nights in an open boat and had put into St. John for refuge, he has been again at the mercy of the elements. This time he was in the company of James Simms, and in Thursday's gale was blown away from the schooner he was fishing from, in a small boat. For forty hours the two were without food or drink until they came to shore Saturday morning.

The dory in which Knight and Simms belonged to the fishing schooner Roseway. Captain John Simms had four dories with two crews of two men each. The Knight dory landed at Phinney's Cove, twenty five miles east of Point Prim at an early hour Saturday morning. Although in an exhausted condition when interviewed, Knight and Simms were able to tell a thrilling story of their forty hours' experience during the terrible gale. It appears that they in company with three other dories, from which, as yet, there has been no tidings, strayed from the Roseway about twenty miles southeast of Digby Gut Thursday afternoon. During the night they lost sight of their companions, all of whom were dorying toward the Nova Scotia coast.

When within four miles of the shore late Friday afternoon, Simms and Knight encountered the heavy southeaster which soon kicked up an awful sea, by times almost completely killing their little boat. They lost their fish and tubs of gear, but with a drag made from a trawl they managed to keep their little craft head to the sea, rapidly drifting off shore until the wind suddenly changed to northwest at 7:30 p.m.

This gave the men new encouragement and all night long they again rowed toward the Nova Scotia shore landing at Phinney's Cove, as above stated. Fishermen and seafaring men, residing along the coast, reported the worst sea witnessed in the Bay of Fundy for the month of August for many years.

Do you suppose that any of the poor people of this country could manage to worry along on the $4,000,000 which is said to be that left to the family of the Czar.

Yarmouth Exchange—Rev. A. B. Wheeler, who for the past fifteen months has been the esteemed pastor of Hebron United Baptist church, and recently received and accepted an invitation from the United Baptist church at Summerside, P. E. I., preaches his farewell sermon at Hebron on next Sunday evening. Mr. Wheeler is a preacher of marked ability. During his stay in Hebron the churches under his care, have prospered exceedingly and he leaves the charge with the best wishes of the community for his future success and prosperity. He leaves Hebron next week for Summerside but will return in a week or so for his household effects.

"A man came into my store the other day," said a druggist, according to the Boston Transcript, "and handed me seven prescriptions to put up. 'These, I see are all for the cure of a cold,' I remarked to him casually. 'Yes,' he replied, 'and of them cured by code last winter, but I've haggled if I could remember which was.'"

BRITISH TROOPS HOLD LANGEMARCK AND SOME GERMAN POSITIONS BEYOND

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The Official Press Bureau denies that the Germans have recaptured Langemarck, Belgium.

Concerning the report in the German official communication that the forces of Crown Prince Rupprecht had retaken the town, which was captured by the British Thursday, the Official Press Bureau this evening issued the following communication.

"The German wireless official communication today contains a series of misstatements. The right flank of the Allied attack on Thursday was on the Ypres-Menin road. There was no attack between that road and the River Lys. The enemy therefore, nearly doubled the length of attack.

"The enemy has not recovered Langemarck, nor did he make any attempt to do so. A British staff officer at six p.m. today that he had returned from Langemarck, where he had been for five hours.

"The British troops not only held Langemarck, but a considerable length of the German position 500 yards north of Langemarck."

Going along the highway from Yarmouth to Weymouth it is pleasing to note the enterprise of the Acadian population in the matter of shipbuilding. A few miles beyond the boundary of Yarmouth County a fine three master is in process of construction by Messrs. Foley at Salmon River, three at Meteghan, one at Little Brook, one at Church point, one at Belliveau's Cove, one at Grosses Coques and one at Weymouth. These vessels are all "timbered out" and will probably be launched in the early spring. They are all three or four masted schooners, some of them 500 or 700 tons, and no doubt will prove to be staunch and fast sailers.

A travelling man one night found himself obliged to remain in a small town on account of a washout on the railroad caused by the heavy rain, which was still coming down in torrents. The travelling man turned to the waitress with:

"This certainly looks like the Flood."
"The what?"
"The Flood. You've read about the Flood, and the ark landing on Mount Ararat, surely."
"Get Mister," she returned, "I ain't seen a paper for three days."

A sailor fell off his ship on to the wharf one night, and injured his hand. A week or so afterwards when he was getting better, he asked the doctor anxiously:

"Say doc, when this hand of mine gets well, will be able to play the banjo?"
"Certainly you will—certainly," said the doctor.
"Thanks doc. You're certainly a wonder," said the sailor. I never could before."

"But why did you get into this fight?"
"But how could get hurt if you had 'I was playing safe," replied the prisoner. "I didn't want to get hurt."

Major C. R. E. Willets, Infantry—He went forward to the front line under heavy fire and organized the defence of the position with great skill. He has at all times displayed the greatest courage and initiative.

Major Willets, who is the son of Rev. C. E. Willets, M. A., D. O. C. L., Vice-President of Kings College, Windsor, served in the South Africa war and held a commission with the Royal Canadian Regiment some years before the outbreak of the present war. When with the R. C. R. he was stationed for the most part at Halifax and married a daughter of Dr. Archibald MacMechan, Professor of English at Dalhousie University. Major Willets went to France with the R. C. R.

An angry solicitor looked at a three penny bit in his hand. "Here!" he said, glaring across at the countryman to whom he had given advice. "What is this for? My fee is six-and-eightpence." A smile spread over the yokel's face. "That be all right, sir!" he replied. "Six-and-eightpence make fourteen pence; fourteen pence be one and twopence; and sure one and twopence make threepence. Good day sir!"

Mrs. J. W. Churchill, Mrs. D. M. Welton, Dr. and Mrs. Rice and Miss Violet Churchill came from Hantsport in their motor car on Wednesday proceeding westward on a short tour.
