

BARBAROUS OLD-FASHIONED CUSTOMS Dressing Wounds With Boiling Oil Contrast Between Past and Present The Wonderful Advance of Science

Few people have any real idea of the great advance in the healing art, from the pain-saving standpoint. It is not many generations ago that surgeons used to arrest bleeding by searing a wound with the red-hot end of an instrument like a large soldering iron; and almost as recently the tourniquet was inflicting indescribable torture on those about to face the further terrors of amputation.

Pitiful, indeed, must have been the sufferings of wounded soldiers before the day of Ambrose Pare, the great French surgeon, who saw the brutality of dressing wounds with boiling oil, and was the first to substitute the more humane idea of a mild emollient application.

Just as Dr. Pare's emollient was a huge advance upon the crude methods of the French hospitals, so to-day Zam-Buk, the new healing balm, is an equal advance upon all other methods. In Zam-Buk has been discovered Nature's ideal balm for procuring new, healthy skin, and dispelling pain and disease.

In recent years ointments, salves and embrocations have always had to face the objection either that they were too coarse to enter the pores of the skin, or that their ingredients were so harsh and irritating for general home use. The advent of Zam-Buk overcomes both difficulties.

When you consider that the skin contains hundreds of thousands of pores, every one of which leads to the blood vessels underneath, you must at once see how injurious and dangerous it must be to rub into the skin chemicals containing rancid animal fats and are poisonous. You need use such no longer; for now in Zam-Buk you have a balm or ointment composed of purely herbal essences; a balm so refined and purified that even the delicate skins of babies can absorb it and benefit by it; a balm which, unlike the ointments of the past, owes no part of its composition to either the animal or mineral world; a balm which viewed in every way is a natural herb balm.

Medical men and nurses everywhere recognize the unique excellence of Zam-Buk, and it may be fairly claimed for it that it is the healer which Nature has intended man to use ever since she first breathed life into him.

A NURSE AS WITNESS. Sister Hannah's Story.

Some remarkable evidence has been given by a professional nurse, throwing an interesting sidelight on the resourcefulness of the members of this noble calling. For thirty years Sister Hannah, of 2 Bell View, Marsh Green, Edenbridge, Kent, has obtained a wide experience of nursing, training at St. Thomas' Hospital, London, England, and latterly devoting herself to the care of private cases.

ARRESTED PRIEST. ODDS AND ENDS FOUND ON JACOVUS DEMETRIADIS. Arrested on Instructions From Canadian Authorities—Carried Metal Candlesticks, Communion Cup, Cheap Jewelry and Cash.

London, March 26.—Some days ago the High Commissioner of Canada received instructions from the Dominion authorities to secure the arrest of Jacovus Demetriadis, a Syrian priest, on the arrival of the Tunisian at Liverpool. The priest was arrested, and in his possession was found in French money £20 francs, $75, and a draft on the Union Trust of Philadelphia for £483, also five metal candlesticks and a quantity of church property, including a communion chalice, and several pieces of imitation jewelry, which were claimed by a fellow-passenger. The passenger applied to the police to give up the jewelry, but the priest refused. The priest was remanded to await the arrival of the necessary papers from Canada.

Montreal, March 22.—Demetriades, who is under arrest at Liverpool, is the man who officiated as priest last Sunday week at the Greek church in Montreal, and who afterwards disappeared. A silver communion chalice, four silver candlesticks, a silver censor and altar drapes were missed from the church, together with five hundred dollars, received by Demetriades, in subscriptions for church purposes. A warrant for the man's arrest was issued last week.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor. So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by excessive monthly periods accompanied by unusual pain extending from the abdomen through the groin and thighs. If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation; secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once and begin its use and write Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., for advice. Read these strong letters from grateful women who have been cured: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (First Letter.) "In looking over your book I see that your medicine cures Tumors. I have been suffering for some time. I have a tumor. I will be more than grateful if you can help me, as I do so dread an operation."—Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa. Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— (Second Letter.) "I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation. I soon after read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After taking five bottles as directed, the tumor is entirely gone. I have again been examined by the physician and he says I have no sign of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more, and I am entirely well. I shall never be able to thank you enough for the great relief that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house."—Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa. Another Case of Tumor Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "About three years ago I had intense pain in my stomach, with cramps and became headache. The doctor prescribed for me, but finding that I did not get any better he examined me and, to my surprise, declared I had a tumor. "I felt sure that it meant my death warrant, and was very disheartened. I spent hundreds of dollars in doctoring, but the tumor kept growing, till the doctor said that nothing but an operation would save me. Fortunately I corresponded with my aunt in the New England States, who advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before submitting to an operation, and I at once started taking a regular treatment, finding to my great relief that my general health began to improve, and after three months I noticed that the tumor had reduced in size. I kept on taking the Compound, and in ten months it had entirely disappeared without an operation, and using no medicine but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and words fail to express how grateful I am for the good it has done me."—Miss Luella Adams, Colonnade Hotel, Seattle, Wash. Such unquestionable testimony proves the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and should give confidence and hope to every sick woman. Mrs. Pinkham invites all ailing women to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills.
