Obituary.

JAMES BUTLER, (HOLYROOD).

The death of Mr. James Butler, on Friday, July 16th, brought grief to a wide circle of relatives and friends. He was born in Clonmel, Co. Tipperary, Ireland, almost 50 years ago, and was a son of the late Edward Butler, with whom he and other members of the family emigrated over seventy years ago and were amongst the first Irish settlers in Holyrood. The family located in what is considered the prettiest spot in Holyrood and built a primitive homestead near the Southern Bridge—the property now owned and occupied by Mrs. James Mulhoney, a grand-daughter of the deceased Edward Butler. For forty years the late James Butler was a successful planter and prosecuted the Western and Labrador fisheries. But later he devoted himself to farming and public affairs, being a popular and trusted road commissioner for twenty years. He was a typical Irishman and represented the best traditions of his ancestry and race. Love of country and devotion to Holy Church were marked features in the characteristics of this true-hearted Irishman. He married a Miss Curran who predeceased him four years ago, a daughter of another pioneer Irishman around whose memory a very interesting tradition hovers. Left surviving him are four daughters, Mrs. W. P. Walsh, Holyrood, Mrs. Cornelius Sullivan at the old homestead, Mrs. Patrick Ryan and Mrs. Leiffrance Grant, East Boston, Mass., to whom we tender our sincere sympathy in the sorrow that follows the death of a loving father. The funeral of Mr. Butler was a large one and took place on Sunday evening. The funeral appointments were in charge of Undertakers Dunphy. The funeral service at the home and the final obsequies at the grave were given by the Rev. W. P. Finn, P.P. Afterwards the remains were laid to rest in the family plot of the South Side cemetery beside those of his wife, and may he rest in peace. Amen.—C.B.M.

ON THE HUMAN SIDE OF GREAT-NESS.

My boy and I were walking yesterday
And met a great man known to worldly fame.
He smiled upon the lad and asked
his name.
Talked of the sports the youngster
loves to play
And stroked his head in my familiar way.
And wished his son had such a sturdy frame.
Listened to all the young lips had to say
As though from them rich pearls of wisdom came.
When he had said goodbye and wandered on.
I saw the boy's eyes follow him, and then:
"Oh, dad!" he cried, "he's just like
Uncle John
And you and Mr. Brown and other men!"
For such a truth 'twere well worth going far.
He'd learned how human great men really are.

Premier Guarantees Prize Money.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Once more I request publication of a letter in connection with the matter of Naval Prize Money.
With myself. I know you will be only pleased to publish this as it will interest every R.N.R.
Tuesday morning Mr. Doherty and myself called upon the Prime Minister and requested, on behalf of the R.N.R.'s, an official statement re the matter of Prize Money. The following is the reply of the Prime Minister:
"Yes, you will be paid the Prize Money direct from the Admiralty either through H.M.S. Briton or from the Imperial Naval Dept. In other words, the Dept. of Militia will have nothing to do with it."
Now, Sir, that is a concrete statement from Sir R. A. Squires, Prime Minister, and furthermore he drafted a cablegram in the presence of Mr.

Doherty and myself, to be sent through the proper channels, to the Imperial authorities directing them to pay the said Prize Money to the N.R.
R.N.R.'s as soon as it is convenient for them to do so. That, Sir, is subsistent for us.

Now as we are sure that the Prize Money will be paid, we are quite satisfied, and I wish, on behalf of the R.N.R.'s, to thank every Hon. member of the Government and Opposition who were in favour with us being paid the Prize Money and also to thank the Prime Minister for the information given us by him Tuesday morning. I also wish to say, Sir, for the information of all concerned, that on receipt of a reply to the aforesaid cablegram by the Prime Minister he will inform us as to the time the Prize Money is likely to be paid, which I will then ask you, Mr. Editor, to publish for me.

Thanking you for space, Sir,
Yours truly,
J. RODGERS,
Chairman of Committee.
