I tried many remedies and doctors without avail until I began using South American Rheumatic Cure. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on this advice I procured the medicine, and less than half a bottle cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to a trial, as I was reduced to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me good.

Gen. Dewett says: On Sunday afternoon, arrived between Paardeberg and Koodoosrand, in which direction there has been heavy firing since morning. He stormed several kopjes, which the British vacated, leaving their dead and wounded and 40 prisoners in the hands of the Boers, who captured the kopjes. The Boer loss was two men killed and four wounded. The fight lasted until late in the evening.

Buller Pushing on.

WITHOUT RESTING.

New York, Feb. 21.-A Durban dispatch says: Gen. Buller new has 4,000 men north of the Tugela, and intends to push on to Ladysmith without resting. Engineers are endeavoring to repair the railway bridge. Heavy artillery has crossed on a pontoon bridge. The Boers are evidently retreating, maintaining only a small rear guard. They occasionally fire shells from their big guns on Grobler's Kloof.

A dispatch dated Ladysmith, Tuesday, Feb. 20, by heliograph to Colenso, says: We see Buller coming to our rescue. The town is elated, for we feel sure of relief now. Our forces are ready to co-operate. Renewed life in

SIEGE PRACTICALLY RAISED. A London cable says: Private dis-patches state that the Boers have practically raised the siege of Ladysmith, and that Gen. Buller will have little, M any, opposition to his advance to the relief of that place. There is full confidence that twelve hours will not elapse before word is received that Gen. Buller and Gen. White have

Modder River, Feb. 21.-At 9 o'clock yesterday morning the Guards' brigade, under Gen. Pole-Carew, advanced to Magersfontein, and found the trenches deserted. They occupied the kopjes, and found the position most formidably fortified, there being long rows of great, deep trenches, through which large bodies of men might march under cover, and tiers of wire fences hung with tins, so that the slightest touch would warn them of the approach of an enemy. The kopje was in the greatest disorder, the Boers apparently having left in a great hurry. A dinner was found prepared, but untouched.

GALA DAY AT CAPE TOWN. The Daily Telegraph's Cape Town correspondent, cabling on Tuesday, said: "There was a parade through the town this morning, which was un-equalled here. It comprised two Canadian batteries and other colonial contingents, together with imperial troops and volunteers. The whole

At last, for the first time during these op-erations, we had found the Boer flank and had placed a strong force at right angles to his main position. The fruits of this were plucked on the 18th (Sunday), when Gen. Hildyard began a vigorous attack across the Nek on Monte Christo. The guns and the other brigades assisted. The Boers then commenced a rear guard action, which degenerated rapidly into flight. The whole line of abandoned trenches, two miles long, were captured, with a loss to the assaulting brigade of three men. The Boers then fled across the Tugela. That the fighting has been serious all know from the names of officers sent in as killed or wounded. The severe wounding of Gen. The public have surrounded him with a halo of heroism. They consider him lion-hearted and invincible, and, above all, one of their own body, for Macdonald is a self-made man. most striking. As the men came in through the gates, Hon. Dr. Borden asked Col. Steele to bring them to a halt. Mounting a high snow-pile, the minister of militia read a cable from Mr. Chamberlain to the governor-general, which said: "The Queen appreciup positions and played patriotic airs while the men embarked. Over 3,000 people were in the dockyards, red tape the Queen," and other airs. The men crowded the railings of the ship and lined the rigging. They thoroughly ap-preciated the evidences of good-will towards them. As the steamer left the pier a mighty cheer went up from the multitude, which was caught up by hundreds of people on the steamer, accompanying the troops down the harbor. Then the united bands struck up "Auld Lang Syne," and all hands on land and on shipboard joined in. The troopship moved down slowly past the city, and as each pier was passed mighty cheers rent the air.

Those who believe in supporting this movement are urged to shop as early as possible on Saturday so that all can be waited upon. It is a good idea to shop early every day.
