PRAISE FOR A LONDON "OLD BOY."

Toronto World: There was a large attendance at a garden party held on Saturday evening in the grove, corner of East Queen street and Logan avenue, under the auspices of the Epworth League, The grounds were beautifully decorated with Chinese lanterns, and music, for the occasion was furnished by the J. James' Concert Band. H. R. McDonald, late of London, and one of Canada's foremost baritone, delighted the gathering with several selections.

WOODMEN AT CHURCH.

Sunday afternoon the several camps of the Woodmen of the World gathered at their hall, Ballymore, and marched to Emmanuel Church, London township, where Rev. Canon Richardson preached an able sermon from Romans, viii, 31. The church was too small to accommodate the congregation that attended, and many remained outside to listen. "The order favorably appeals to all good men," the speaker said. "It stands for these great New

HORTICULTURAL ASSOCIATION

Canadian horticulturists Convene at the City Hall.

Interesting Addresses by President J. H. Dunlop, Dr. Bethune and Others.

The Canadian Horticultural Association is holding the fourth annual convention in the city hall. It began yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and delegates are present from Montreal, Kingston, Toronto and other places. Mayor Rumball delivered an address of welcome, which was replied to by Mr. Thomas Manton, of Eglinton. The president, Mr. J. H. Dunlop, of Toronto, then delivered his address. He extended a hearty welcome to the members of the association, which has for its aim and object, he said, the lifting up and carrying forward all that pertains to horticultural and particularly that branch known as "arboriculture." The speaker referred to the present day improvements in the products of our greenhouses, over the products of twelve or fifteen years ago, the difference has been in both quality and quantity, and the excellence has been met by a demand for all that has been raised. Mr. Dunlop also spoke of the success achieved by the Pan-American Exhibition at the American Rose Society's exhibition at New York. Ten first prizes were taken. Highest honors were also taken by Canadians at the carnation show at the Pan-American. Such a showing should prompt all horticulturists to further effort on behalf of those who have chosen such a calling. In conclusion, he referred to the loss of the Canadian Gardeners' and Florists' Exchange, a paper which had ceased publication. He hoped that some time during the present convention steps would be taken towards resuscitating this trade journal, and establishing it on a firm financial basis.

The judges appointed for the trade exhibition are: Thomas Manton, of Eglinton; George Robinson, of Montreal; and E. Dale, of Brampton.

At the evening session Dr. Bethune delivered a very instructive address on the subject of "Insects Injurious to Floral Culture." He stated that more taste was displayed this year, than ever before in the matter of floral decorations in this city. This, he believed, was due in part to the influence of the Horticultural Society. He dwelt upon the necessity of a careful knowledge of insects. Through lack of this knowledge people often destroyed their best friends—those insects that are necessary to plant life. Insects might be separated into three classes—noxious insects, beneficial insects, neutral insects. The noxious insects were of two classes as regards to structure, those that take their food by biting and those that take it by sucking. The remedy for insects that bite was to poison the foliage. The second class sucked the juices from inside the leaf or stem, and consequently escaped the poison. The proper way to destroy the latter class was to apply something to the body to kill it. He emphasized the treatment of those insects which infest flowers. Wasps were really beneficial insects. The number of insect remedies were constantly increasing. Almost every year entomologists found that some new pest or other comes to the front. Very few of our noxious insects were native born; the majority of them come from Europe and Asia. Most of the scale insects had come chiefly from tropical regions.

Dr. Bethune gave directions for the destruction of some of the most troublesome pests. Powdered white hellebore was the best remedy for the gooseberry saw-fly. Fleas and lice were best destroyed by kerosene emulsion, which would destroy the body of the insect. None of our insects breathed through their mouths, but by a series of breathing pores along the body; these the different emulsions close up and the insect is smothered to death. Many fruit growers had suffered loss from the San Jose scale, which attacked all kinds of fruit trees and spreads very rapidly. Scale insects were common also among plants, and in these cases fumigation with tobacco was often very effective. Something very penetrating was necessary to pierce the outer scale in order to get to the insect, and if the tobacco fumes failed, hydrocyanic acid gas was effective, but the utmost care should be exercised in handling it, as animal life would live only a few seconds in it. This treatment, however, should be resorted to only as a very last resource, owing to its dangerous nature.

In conclusion, he referred to the toast as a friend to the gardener, and recommended that a toad or two be kept in the greenhouse. They were very effective insect destroyers. "No one," said the doctor, "should destroy an insect unless he is sure it belongs to the destructive variety. He should not destroy it because it is an insect."

Mr. W. Lawrence, president of the Toronto Gardeners' and Florists' Association, spoke on the subject: "The Advancement of Horticulture." He compared from a commercial point of view the flowers of the present with those of fifteen or twenty years ago. The successful florist of today is very different, he said, from the florist of the past. In the up-to-date florist's establishment everything was clean and bright with attractive surroundings. There was a difference also in the arrangement of flowers. The change had taken place by degrees, and for the improvement credit to a large extent should be given to the floral exhibits at the fall exhibitions.

The speaker stated that there was in Canada a growing demand for roses, and in New York also there was a demand for Canadian roses. He thought we had every reason to feel proud of the progress Canadian growers were making from a commercial point of view.

Upon the invitation of the president and directors of the London Horticultural Society, the delegates this morning took a trolley ride through the city and to Springbank, where luncheon was served.

CAR SMASHED INTO TRAILER

And Four Persons Received Painful Injuries.

Other Passengers Were Severely Shaken Up and Both Cars Were Slightly Damaged.

An accident occurred on the Springbank line shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon by which four persons received painful injuries and several others were more or less bruised. The injured persons are John Aikenhead, of 123 Horton street; Thomas Stephens, of 26 Saunby street; Miss Edna Mansbridge, Pipe Line road, and Miss Nona Donnelly, of Appin.

A trolley with two trailers attached was proceeding toward the city, followed closely by one of the large new cars. When near the county club the bell rope on the leading car was pulled, and the car was stopped. Motorman Temple, of the car following shut off his power and endeavored to apply his brake, but he was hindered by passengers who saw the danger of impending collision, and in their efforts to get off they crowded upon him, preventing him from using the brake. The car's momentum carried it on until it struck the trailer ahead of it, smashing in both platforms of the trailer and damaging the headlight and vestibule of the big car.

Thomas Stephens, who is 70 years old, and who was on the back platform of the trailer, had two ribs broken and his right thigh severely bruised. He was removed to his home.

John Aikenhead had his right leg badly jammed, but no bones were broken. Mr. Aikenhead, who is 28 years old and in delicate health, suffered severely from shock.

Miss Edna Mansbridge was thrown over a seat and had several teeth loosened by striking on a seat back. Her thigh was severely cut and she was rescued with difficulty from the crowded car by Mr. Joe Paladino, of Cleveland. Miss Donnelly, who is visiting Miss Mansbridge, had her legs severely bruised and received a bad shaking. Other passengers received minor hurts.

Dr. J. M. Piger and Dr. Cligford Reason were passengers on the car, and they attended to the injured passengers.
