

For a "Snack."

For luncheon, for dinner, for bedtime suppers, at mealtime and between meals, for outings and parties—there's always a time and an occasion for

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

Your grocer has them, fresh and crisp from the bakery, in 1 and 3 lb. boxes

MOONEY BISCUIT AND CANDY CO., LIMITED, STRATFORD, CANADA

BAD PERTH FIRE

Firemen Have Fought With an Afternoon Blaze.

Perth, Ont., Sept. 12.—At 3:30 p.m. fire broke out in the old Stanley carriage works in North street, owned by Mr. F. A. Hall, barrister, of this town. The building was a stone one, and the fire occurred in the north end in the James Bros. foundry. The employees were engaged in casting, and the roof of the main building became ignited rapidly. The fire was got under control about 5 o'clock after a hard fight by the local firemen. The surrounding buildings were kept busy protecting them from the flying sparks. Part of the large building was used as a paint shop by J. Benoit, and part as a store room for winter vehicles. A large number of vehicles were saved, although several valuable ones, including a rubber tire buggy, were consumed by the flames. The building was not insured, and Mr. Hall and from town the loss is not known at present.

Your Case Calls for Paine's Celery Compound

One false step taken at this time when you are weak, nervous, sleepless or suffering from the agonies of rheumatism or neuralgia, may prove fatal. Thousands are now hovering near the grave who can be brought back to their former health and strength if Paine's Celery Compound is faithfully used for a time. This wonderful medical discovery is acknowledged by physicians to be the most potent boon ever given to weak, ailing and half-dead men and women.

If your life is now miserable and in danger owing to nervousness, sleeplessness, liver and digestive troubles, use Paine's Celery Compound; your special case calls for this medicine. Do any substitute may be recommended for the sake of a large profit. Insist upon having the best.

Physicians and Druggists Recommend Paine's Celery Compound

If you are sick and desire free medical advice, write to "Consulting Physician," The Wells & Richardson Company, Limited, 200 Mountain Street, Montreal, P. Q.

IN ILLEGAL ELECTION

The Nova Scotia Bishopric May Be Vacant Once More.

Halifax, Sept. 12.—A meeting of the executive committee of the diocese is to be called to consider a point raised by one of two laymen. It is stated by these gentlemen that the election of Archbishop Warrell, of Kingston, to the Nova Scotia bishopric was not legal, and they base that opinion on a fact which at the time the synod was in session, escaped attention. The canon governing the election of a bishop requires that if two-thirds of the clerical and lay members are present, a majority shall determine the choice. If not, the vote of those present must be a two-thirds vote of those present. There were on the lay side 115 votes cast out of a total of 172, thus lacking the two-thirds attendance by one-third of a man.

Mr. Ritchie, of Borden, Ritchie & Chisholm, barristers, has given it as his opinion that the election was not legal. He states that the lack of the two-thirds vote by even a slight deficiency makes the election illegal. It seems probable that another meeting of the synod will be called.

Headite

Cures Headache

THE PROGRESS OF ARBITRATION

The Inter-Parliamentary Union Addressed by President Roosevelt.

St. Louis, Sept. 12.—The twelfth conference of the Inter-Parliamentary Union opened today in Festival Hall at the World's Fair grounds. Two hundred and twenty-six legislators from Great Britain and practically every European Parliament were in attendance. Congressman Richard D. Bartoldt, of St. Louis, presided. After an opening address, Mr. Bartoldt introduced the Hon. Francis B. Loomis, first assistant secretary of state, who represented President Roosevelt. The secretary spoke as follows:

"The President of the United States authorizes me to extend to you his kind and most cordial greetings, valuing as he does, the blessing of peace, earnestly desiring the diminishing and lessening of the rigors and horrors of war, your coming is particularly grateful to him, for you are about to discuss phases of a problem of deeply human and world-wide interest, the peaceful settlement of international disputes. You have aroused, directed and educated public sentiment in favor of arbitration throughout the civilized world. The union should never cease its efforts to stimulate public interest in arbitration. The cause of international arbitration is making notable and permanent progress. Since your last meeting, Great Britain and France, Italy and Italy, Great Britain and Italy, Holland and France and Spain, Holland and Spain, Denmark and France, and Spain and Portugal have pledged themselves to submit certain classes of cases to the Hague Tribunal. The signing of these treaties marks a distinct and important advance. The Alaskan boundary dispute has been amicably settled, and the record of the year counts among its achievements, besides the cases dealt with in the Hague Tribunal, the appointment of special arbitrators to settle: The boundary dispute between Ecuador and Peru; the boundary dispute between Colombia and Italy; French citizens on the treaty shore of the general agreement between France and Great Britain; the question of the Christiania Flood, between Norway and Norway; the land question in the Hebrides, between France and England; also provided for under the Anglo-French agreement; the Barotzeland frontier question, between Great Britain and Portugal; the controversy between the Turkish Government and the administration of the Ottoman debt. The Government of the United States, in all proper ways, will continue to give its aid and encouragement to the cause of international arbitration to which it is so firmly and earnestly committed."

JAPS WERE HARD HIT

Canadian Says They Suffered Greatly in Big Naval Battle.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 12.—Capt. Ryan, of the Canadian permanent forces, has arrived from Japan, and reports that home at Ottawa, after spending some months at Tokyo as the representative of the Canadian fleet. He was detained at Tokyo with other foreign attaches and correspondents. He says the Japanese fleet has suffered severely in the encounter with the Russian war vessels and that all the drydock repairing harbors in Japan are full of Japanese war vessels in various stages of repair. One big cruiser which was in the great naval battle off Port Arthur had all her funnels shot away and 25 holes in her hull.

Capt. Ryan reports that the Japanese themselves admitted gross blundering in allowing loaded transports to leave Japan for Korea, and other points without proper escort, and that the raids of the Vladivostok fleet filled all Japan with intense alarm.

The report circulated by the Japanese war office that the unexpected stubbornness of the Russians in the recent fighting is due to the improvement in rifle shooting and steadiness in the troops, Capt. Ryan says is false, as the Japanese are well aware of the fact that they are now confronted with regiments straight from Europe and not undisciplined raw levies of Siberian peasants hastily hurried to the seat of war. He spoke bitterly of the treatment accorded to the attaches and correspondents.

The Barnabites Expelled.

Paris, Sept. 12.—The Government authorities forcibly expelled the Barnabite community from their establishment here this morning. A large force of municipal guards and firemen executed the expulsion. The doors and windows were barricaded, and the fire windows and expelled the monks and a number of their sympathizers, including the Marquis de Fougere.

LEAP FROG IN HOSPITAL

Staff of Ottawa Isolation Hospital Had a Gay Time.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—Judge O'Meara continued the isolation hospital investigation today, and it certainly afforded lots of amusement. Evidence was given by cooks and engineers, and all sorts of allegations were made showing that there were high jinks at the hospital. One engineer said the domestics used to play leap-frog in their night clothing in the corridors and lie around the floors in all sorts of attitudes. Men crawled in the windows to see them. Mrs. La Chance, a superintendant in ordering the supplies to the ex-cook. Spring chicken and lavish wine were ordered at all seasons. Large quantities of stuff were burned in the furnace. Some of the staff started away was stuffed in bags. The investigation will be continued tomorrow.

What One Man Has Done.

The Remarkable Achievement of a Remarkable Man—A Splendid Example of What Untiring Devotion Can Do.

For years Dr. J. S. Leonard, of Lincoln, Neb., studied the problem of how best to prevent and cure disease. He was not satisfied with the methods and treatments in general use, and after long study and much experiment, he declared that "The poisonous products of the fermentation and decomposition of undigested foods absorbed by the system are the first cause of almost every disease."

He knew that all the medicines prescribed for the stomach and bowels contained resinous properties which left behind them a dried up condition of the mucous membrane lining of the stomach and bowels—this after effect being the result of chronic inflammation.

Dr. Leonard therefore determined to correct disorders of the stomach and bowels, and produce an effective medicine containing absolutely no resinous substances such as opium, morphine, or any other drug. He succeeded and the result he called Anti-Pill.

Dr. Leonard's Anti-Pill will cure permanently any case of Dyspepsia or other Stomach Trouble, Biliousness or Constipation.

Fifty cents a bottle. All druggists, or Niagara Falls, Ont. Sole agents for Canada.

STEAMERS ARRIVED.

Sept. 12.—Steamships—London, from Montreal; Lake Erie, from Montreal; Minneapolis, from Montreal; New York—Columbia, from Glasgow; Germania, from Southampton; Nordland, from Rotterdam; Antwerp—Kronland, from New York; Glasgow—Laurentian, from New York.

Do Your Corns Ache?

Of course they do. But you can cure them in one day with Putnam's Pain-Extractor. For nearly 50 years Putnam's has been the safe and reliable corn cure. None so good as Putnam's.

Titled Visitors.

Montreal, Sept. 12.—Several very distinguished English visitors are present in the city en route to the west, including a visit to the Rockies. The party includes the Earl and Countess Lichfield, the Earl and Countess of Dartmouth, Hon. Wolham Cooke, Lady Dorothy Legge, Viscount Lewis Ham, and Viscount Anson. They will visit Toronto and Ottawa before proceeding west.

Going for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Don't put yourself in this man's place, but keep a bottle of this remedy in your home. There is nothing so good for Colic, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery and Summer Complaint and Cholera Infantum and has saved the lives of more children than any other medicine in use. When replaced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.

You, or some one of your family, are sure to need this remedy sooner or later when that time comes you will need it badly; you will need it quickly. Why not buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency? Price, 35 cents.

A BIG ORDER FOR 500 RAILS

Consolidated Company to Supply 40,000 Tons, Commencing February Next.

Montreal, Sept. 12.—The Canadian Pacific Railway, after the statement by President Shaugnessy that he considered that steel rails at the present time could not be manufactured economically or effectively in Canada, has decided to find out what can be done at the rail mill at the Soo. A newspaper representative was officially informed today that the Canadian Pacific had asked the Consolidated Lake Superior Company if it was in a position to make a contract to supply 40,000 tons of rails, delivery to be at the rate of starting February 1905.

The Consolidated Lake Superior Company immediately signified its willingness to comply with all the specifications required by the company.

CHAMBERLAIN'S HEALTH

The Rumor That He Has Gout Is Contradicted.

London, Sept. 11.—The rumors of Mr. Chamberlain's failing health are, it is asserted, entirely untrue. He is, in fact, in excellent health, and his heart action is normal. They explain his lack of energy in conducting a fiscal campaign as a sign that he expects a general election next July, and is saving his strength for the decisive moment. The free trade zealots are arranging meetings in every section of the country for the last three months of the year, and are boasting that the reversal of the free trade policy cannot be brought about abruptly. The dock hands are out of work at the chief ports, and at least seventy-five thousand able-bodied men, mainly unskilled laborers, are unemployed in London, and there is little doubt that bread and meat will be high during the winter. There is, however, a marked improvement in the Lancashire cotton trade, and coal, iron and steel industries are picking up. Mr. Chamberlain's lieutenants admit that he is hardly expedient to talk about the colonies when the cost of living is already rising steadily.

HON. G. W. ROSS,

Premier of Ontario, Pays High Tribute to New Scale Williams Piano.

The Williams Piano Company, of Oshawa, Canada, have a very fine display of magnificent instruments in the main building. One style in particular, Colonial design, polished green oak, is following letter has been recently received from Hon. G. W. Ross, and is as follows:

"Dear Sir:—Received on Friday last the new Scale Williams piano selected by me, and an delighted with its fine sound and beautiful finish. In design it is most attractive and merits all the praise which has been bestowed upon it. I had in my house for about fifteen years one of your pianos and have no doubt that it was the best I ever had. It was found equally acceptable. You may be fairly assured that I would not have continued my patronage unless your instruments were satisfactory."

Yours truly,
GEORGE W. ROSS.

CHEERED "BLACK WATCH"

Thrilling Finale of the Big Fair—Ovation to the Bandsmen.

The Toronto Globe says: The fair ended by a brilliant and stirring scene. The Black Watch Band, shortly after 10 o'clock, as the throngs began to pour through the gates of gold, led in a procession of the "God Save the King" in the main band stand. The first strains heard were "Will Ye No Come Back Again?" Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke into "The Maple Leaf," and immediately 15,000 people, had taken up the song and were singing of the emblem dear. After that came "Gullie Brianna," the chorus increasing in volume until the time "God Save the King" was reached it was a full crescendo carried into "Auld Lang Syne," which the crowd sang again and again. Then when the band stopped, the throng broke into such cheering and shouting as to repeat the "God Save the King" again. Then the band broke