Through their special taxes—the local improvement tax—the people of London paid out $158,733.37 for pavements during 1923, according to a statement furnished by City Treasurer James Bell.

The treasurer itemizes all special expenditures in detail, as follows:

Cement walks	$18,260.00

Total $417,714.70

It will be noted that the special tax for the aggregate sum of $56,685.88 for their street cleaning, oiling, sweeping and watering.

These local improvement taxes do not include the expenditures provided in last year's 34.7 mill rate. Had they been included, the rate would have been in the neighborhood of 40 mills on the dollar.

ARGENTINE TRADE MUCH IMPROVED

Conditions Bright, Though the European Situation Is Unsettled.

The following interesting account of commercial and industrial conditions in the Argentine is from the report of E. J. McColl, Canadian trade commissioner to the South American Republic. He says:

"Argentina is to a very great extent dependent upon Europe as a market for her agricultural products, and the unsettled political situation in Europe is viewed with much concern. Nevertheless, in spite of the diminished buying power of most European countries, the commerce and finance of Argentina have shown considerable improvement during the last few months. The federal government is making a strong endeavor to balance its budget, and has succeeded in doing so. It is believed that it will succeed. Customs duties show an increase of $26,000,000 Canadian currency, or 30 per cent over the previous twelve months.

"This year's abundant crop is finding a ready market at good prices, partly owing to the fact that practically no stocks remained over from last year. Improved prosperity in agriculture, especially in every region, has resulted in a considerable increase in the areas cultivated. The unfortunate condition which has prevailed throughout the live stock industry has happily been disappearing gradually during the last half year, until it has attained a very healthy and satisfactory position. Canned beef, butter and cheese are being exported in increasing quantities, no small amount going to the United States and Canada.

"Wool is another of Argentina's most important exports, and the very high price which it is selling at today is helping in no small degree to bring further prosperity to the live stock industry. The iron and steel industry has received a set-back in the failure of the Argentine government to honor its obligations, but the steel foundries, which have been sold by auction. The boot and shoe trade is in many instances having a hard time to keep its head above water, although some companies are flourishing."

POLITICS IN COUNCIL ATTACKED BY MAYOR

Outlines Reason for Voting Against Walsh Resolution at Meeting.

Politics should not be allowed a place in municipal affairs, Mayor Menzies proclaimed in connection with the Walsh resolution on tariff passed last night.

"I have repeated time and again that, irrespective of what my politics might be, I still have my own convictions," the mayor stated, "And last night's development, when I voted against the Walsh resolution, again demonstrates my attitude. The citizens should not dabble with political issues. The tariff question has unfortunately been a political football for all the political bodies, but there is no reason why we should use it in a similar manner in the council."

REV. FATHER FOLEY IS SLOWLY IMPROVING

The condition of the Rev. Father J. T. Foley, who has been confined to St. Joseph's Hospital for a number of weeks, is showing some improvement and hope for his recovery are entertained. When first admitted to the hospital little hope that he would survive his illness was entertained, but his physician declares that in all probability he will recover.

WHAT KIND OF PERSON WOULD YOU MARRY?

"Girls Without Educations Good Mothers" says "Chater"—"Country Girls are the Best" Declares "L. G. S."—"Read Bibles More" Urges "Violet"—"Tried it Once" Tells of Her Experience.

Dear Sir,—Permit me to express my views on "J. Sooner's" letter. I cannot understand why this person should desire a tall, fair girl. There are many girls of that type who have just as good qualities and personalities as the other, mentioned previously.

In regard to a good education, although it may be considered necessary in order that a wife may make the best mother and teacher for her family, there are many who have made a success of life without it. I would make as efficient mothers and housekeepers as the girl with a higher education. The well educated are not usually acquainted with the economic and best modes of housekeeping.

You also require a good looking girl. I don't see why this is absolutely essential. There are many girls who are intelligent, winsome and modest, and appear nice and attractive without having a pretty face. Almost any girl will make a true companion for her husband in his old days if it has been true love.

C. LATER.

Editor of The Advertiser:

Dear Sir,—Should a girl propose? Well goodness knows, what a question. A girl is bold enough to propose whether it is right or not; but to do everything a man is supposed to do except dig sewers. They would do that if they could make it smell better. The women have tried to take away all of men's rights when they were overseas fighting. They took away his beer and tried to take his fags. The girls have stolen his money and dab themselves up and parade around the streets, afternoon and night, to try and find with some poor sap who is fool enough to fall for them.

The trouble is too many put on false fronts. How many real men and women in London are there under 25? Not many.

The girls of today don't know much about house work. They have made to do it. About all they know is how to wield can openers and dance. You go in to a woman's home for a drink and it is mostly canned stuff. When a girl marries she should know how to cook and do house work above all things. About the best way to reach a man's heart is through his stomach, and not looks. Some things look all right on the surface but underneath are rotten.

There are not many nice girls in London. The best and ideal girl is to be found in the country. They are the "peacocks" feathers. True, some paint their faces, but I have known them to get up and milk five and six cows before breakfast while the girls in London are having their beauty sleep or rubbing mud on the face.

L. G. S.

Dear Sir,—I see where "A. C. B." was writing that a girl asked him to marry her. She must have been an awful bold girl. He just kindled a big fire when he started that. If people in these last days would read their Bibles more and think less of the opposite sex they would be far better off; think more of where they will spend their long eternity. Hope I will spend it all for God.

CANADA HAS BIG PLACE IN ZEALAND CAR FIELD

Trade Commissioner Beddoe States Canada Leads Other Countries.

Canada is taking an important place in the supplying of automobiles to New Zealand, according to W. A. Beddoe, who is the Canadian trade commissioner to that country. Mr. Beddoe shows that Canada leads all other countries in this market and in producing cars at a low cost. He says that the number of motor vehicles imported into New Zealand last year has shown a striking increase compared with those of 1922. The number of imports according to country of origin, he remarks that in numbers (7,380 motor cars and 925 commercial vehicles) Canada easily leads any other country. Response in aggregate value is not so marked in the case of automobiles ($496,384), and it is lost in the figures for commercial vehicles. Whereas last year 925 Canadian lorries, etc. cost £21,459, 217 of British make cost £21,034, an average roughly of £90, against a £95. Similar striking results demonstrating the relative cheapness of the Canadian product can be obtained under several headings during the same period. The United States have increased at a much greater rate than those from Britain, thus indicating a quickening in demand for lower-priced motors.

VIOLET.

Dear Mr. Editor:

It looks to me as though A. C. B. had put himself in a funny position. Being a girl myself, I cannot see very much fault on the young girl's part, as I think she has as much right to do that proposing as the fellow has, and nowadays, as the women are supporting the men and families, why shouldn't she choose for herself instead of having to take someone she doesn't really want and then have trouble for the rest of her life.

CANADIAN.

Woodstock, March 17.

Dear Editor:

I feel that "Another Student's" criticism of my letter somewhat biased.

Now, I don't know whether "Another Student" is a man or a woman, but I think it is a pity that the letter I conclude that the writer is a member of the latter sex.

In my first letter I explained that I would select an old-fashioned type of girl for a wife if the occasion did arise, but I did not state or infer that all girls were of any one particular type. I merely voiced my selection. There are all sorts of women, just as there are all sorts and conditions of men, although "Another Student" doesn't seem to think so.

"Another Student" makes the blanket charge that all men have over morals than in other years. That statement is much too general to be guised down without further comment. And it is most unfair. I should have said that some evidence from "Another Student" to support his or her claim. "Another Student" cannot be allowed to get away with a declaration to that effect.

Sincerely yours,

"STUDENT."

P.S.—Just another word. "Another Student" says that the old-fashioned girls enjoy the theatre or dance just as much as the flappers. Agreed. Did I say or infer otherwise. Let "Another Student" consider my letter again before dragging in the universal "hearing across the trail."

Regarding the question as to whether a girl should propose or not, I absolutely do not think that she should. A woman is attributed with a woman's wit, she cannot put her wiles against the man whom she intends marrying and get him at the altar without a rope, she should marry at all. I know as I proposed and was accepted, regretting it ever afterwards.

Of course, every rule has its worthy exception. If a man is a cripple and is too proud to ask a woman to share his lot, and the woman loves him and know that he loves her, I think the woman should be able to propose if it is leap year or not. I proposed to my first husband. Incidentally we separated. If we disagreed on a subject and it came to bitter words, he would immediately throw it up to me that I had proposed to him, and being a very considerate man, he had accepted me rather than cause me pain, although he didn't care a hang for me.

NO FAILURES NOTED DURING THIS MONTH

Best Report For Eighteen Days During the Past Two Years.

No failures have been recorded this month to date, Manager Gairns of Bradstreet's said today. This represents the first eighteen-day period in two years that no assignments have been made and indicates, according to Gairns, a more optimistic trend in business conditions. Although industry is quiet, as is customary at this season, the absence of failures shows that business is gradually recovering. It was said. Steady improvement in all lines is anticipated from now on.

OWNERS FIND COTTAGES AT PORT UNMOLESTED

Number of Owners Journey to Lakeside to Investigate Recent Report.

Rumors that a number of cottages had been broken into at Port Stanley during the past few weeks prompted several owners to journey to the lakeside last week-end, expecting to find the furniture missing and the house in a general state of confusion.

Upon investigation they found everything O. K., and were gratified to find that the vandals who in past years have bothered the cottagers during the winter months, had not returned this spring. In former years several cottages were broken into at this time of the year, and according to Douglas Teasdale, an owner who with others made the trip, it is a new pleasure to find cottages the way they were left.

Today in the Commons.

Ottawa, March 18.—Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways, will resume the debate on the address in the House of Commons. The address will probably be taken today.

Yesterday in the Commons. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Conservative (South Wellington) criticized the administration of the department of soldiers' re-establishment, and said that 35.8 per cent of the expenses of the department had been paid for officials' salaries and 35.8 per cent to the soldiers.

He challenged the premier to test public opinion by opening a constituency. Hon. Dr. King, minister of public works, spoke of the efforts of the government to balance the budget and pointed out benefits from the last year's increase in British preference.

R. A. Hoey (Progressive, Springfield, Man.), predicted the re-entry of Russia into the wheat market of the world in the near future, and said that unless handicaps to agriculture were removed Canadian wheat would be underbid in British market.

Harold Putnam (Liberal, Colchester, N. S.) spoke on behalf of certain C. N. R. conductors who had been dismissed in Nova Scotia.

Gordon Wilson (Conservative, Wentworth) mentioned the case of an industrialist that would suffer severely if tariff was reduced. People were losing faith in the prime minister, he said.

News From City Churches

ST. ANDREW'S SUPPER.

The ladies of St. Andrew's Church planned for 300 guests for the St. Andrew's supper last evening, but the attendance was much nearer the 400 mark. This fact, coupled with the really splendid arrangements which had been made, resulted in a great success. Had the date been other than March 17, it would have been merely a chicken supper, but the ladies took advantage of the authority of Jared Vining of the Lodge of Perfection, and the St. Andrew's Church Sunday School, not forgetting that St. Patrick himself was a Scotchman. The framed crepe paper in the proper shade of paddy, and along the table robust potatoes held aloft the flag of the Irish, with green plants set at intervals carrying out the scheme. Following the supper, there was a short program, but one which included some very delightful numbers. It was arranged by Mrs. C. E. Wheeler and Mrs. W. A. Martin, and included solos by Miss Eula Kennedy; readings by Miss Jean Walker; and dancing by Dorothy and Sam Munro. The Central Collegiate Orchestra, under the direction of Miss McCann, gave some enjoyable numbers throughout the evening. Mrs. Robert Anderson was the general convener in charge of Mrs. George McDonald. Mrs. Robert McDonald, Mrs. Mercer, and Mrs. Anderson.

WORTLEY ROAD CHOIR.

Mr. Wm. R. McFadden is the new president of the choir of the Wortley Road Church. Others elected to the annual meeting which took place following last Friday's rehearsal were the following: Honorary president, Rev. R. J. Murphy; secretary, Mr. Wm. Kay; assistant secretary, Miss Mary Grey; treasurer, Mrs. M. S. Clark; convener of the society, Miss Mary Grey; convener of the membership committee, Miss Myrtle Jones; convener of the flower committee, Miss Jennie Dicks; convener of the refreshment committee, Mrs. Wm. R. McFadden; and then the social half-hour when the Irish ladies in full uniform treated the friends with dainty refreshments brought in this interesting affair to a close.

CENTENNIAL LEAGUE.

Miss Edna Gatefield was convener of the St. Patrick's social, which formed the program at last night's meeting of Centennial Church Epworth League. The evening included a number of delightful Irish songs, and a solo by Miss Edna Gatefield, also in an Irish duet with Miss Edna Skinner. Games formed the remainder of the program and refreshments were served at the conclusion.

GRACE CHURCH CONCERT.

The St. Patrick's concert and social held last night at Grace Methodist Church, Hamilton road, was a great success. In numbers, every available seat was used, and the program was one of the best ever presented at the church. The Egan Ladies' Quartet excelled themselves in solo, duet and quartet work. Mr. Leslie Lucas charmed his audience with violin solos, with piano accompaniment, played by Miss Hazel Taylor. The literary part of the program was well sustained by readings from Miss Jean Metcalfe and Miss Mary Denegate. A tale history from the pastor, Rev. George W. Dewey, and then the social half-hour when the Irish ladies in full uniform treated the friends with dainty refreshments brought this interesting affair to a close.

CHALMERS MISSION BAND.

The Mission Band of Chalmers Presbyterian Church are inviting the congregation to a tea and sale of homemade candy which they propose to hold in April. Arrangements were made for the regular meeting of the band after the tea, over which Florence Tilley presided. Members of the band are supplying the program which is a concert of readings, dialogues and so on. Among other items of business, Beth Duguid was appointed pianist for the band. Beth Duguid and David Duncan were test charge of the first chapter of the new study book, "The Travels of Dick and Mary Louisa."

FIRST METHODIST LEAGUE.

Marjorie Pickthall's book, "The Bridge" was reviewed in a very interesting manner at last night's meeting of the First Methodist Young People's League by Mrs. Frieda Stephens who was the principal speaker of the occasion. The regular meeting followed under the chairmanship of Mr. Norman Dunn included a violin solo by Mr. Frank Kennedy. Contest and games followed by the regular meeting of the league, rounded out the evening.

HALE STREET LEAGUE.

The literary and social committee, convened by Miss Elsie McLeod prepared an interesting program for last night's meeting of Hale Street Epworth League. Games and contests occupied the greater part of the evening and were followed by refreshments appropriate to St. Patrick's Day.

EMPRESS AVENUE LEAGUE.

"Brownings, His Life and Works" formed the subject of a very interesting paper given at last night's meeting of Empress Avenue Epworth League by Miss Rena McPherson. The regular meeting followed a short session of the executive. The program was prepared by the literary committee and included a solo by Miss Margaret Macleod. Mrs. McLean read the Bible lesson.

ST. PATRICK'S SOLO.

Irish songs, Irish games, Irish contests and Irish refreshments made up the program of a St. Patrick's social held last night under the auspices of the Colborne Street Young People's League. Solos were rendered delightfully by Miss Hazel Steneman, Mr. Fred Ball, while readings by Miss Mortimer and several selections by the orchestra rounded out the interesting program, which was brought to a close by community singing, led by Mr. W. F. Sherwin. Miss Margaret Usher arranged the program.

CRADLE ROLL TEA.

A little bit of the Emerald Isle was transplanted to the Sunday tea rooms of the King Street Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon.

CHILD WELFARE WORK IN LONDON IS RECOGNIZED

Association Will Receive Aid in Drive To Be Inaugurated in City.

PRIDE IN RECORD

One of the fourteen social agencies affiliated in the London United Welfare Fund, the canvass for which is soon to be made throughout the city, is the Child Welfare Association, organized in 1918.

It is significant on more accounts than one that the late world war should have conspired with other social influences to quicken interest in and a sense of responsibility for the child. Perhaps the terrible slaughter of young manhood in the war has awakened civilized society to a sense of the preciousness of human life, and there has developed a new determination to preserve its values at the very spring, in infancy and childhood.

The Child Welfare Association points with becoming pride to the fact that whereas the deaths among the clinic-children in the city of London—that is, among those ranging in age from 1 month to 5 years—was 167 in 1916; the number dropped to 81 in 1922, and in 1923 it had dropped to the surprisingly low total of 67.

The Child Welfare Association points with becoming pride to the fact that whereas the deaths among the clinic-children in the city of London—that is, among those ranging in age from 1 month to 5 years—was 167 in 1916; the number dropped to 81 in 1922, and in 1923 it had dropped to the surprisingly low total of 67.

Pride in such a record, the leaders in the Welfare Fund believe, should not be confined to this and the other child life conservation agencies at work in London, but should be expressed in tokens of gratitude on the part of each and every London citizen, by a support of the Welfare Fund budget, which will insure the complete total of the askings, scrutinized by the budget committee, and recommended as useful for the welfare work of the community during the coming year.

FIREMEN'S SESSION OFF WHEN ATTENDANCE FAILS

Although a meeting of the firemen's union was scheduled for last night only a half dozen members showed up which necessitated it being called off.

Whether the reported resignation of Assistant Chief Scott from the union would have formed an interesting subject for discussion remains to be seen. Scott will neither deny or confirm the report.
