

tructions of young girls. - Closing scenes of an angelic life. - Obsequies. - The last visit to Notre-Dame. - The cell of the recluse. - Our lady of Pity. - Eulogium delivered by Mr. de Belmont, of Saint Sulpice, the 5th of October 1714..... 273

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIXTH.

Reminiscences of Louisbourg. - The city of Plaisance. - Misfortunes of Acadia. - Port Royal. - Louisbourg. - Congregation of Notre-Dame. - Renewal of hostilities between France and England. - The siege of Louisbourg. - Transportation. - The trials of exile. - Sister Saint Placidus. - Return to Louisbourg. - How the Sisters trusted in Divine Providence. - July 1750. - Second siege of the city. - Death at sea. - Ville-Marie's sympathy. - The Sisters in France. - Death of Sister Saint Arsenius. - The last of the Louisbourg missionaries. - Sister Saint Vincent. - Louisbourg in 1866 294

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVENTH.

The English conquest, or Canada in 1759. - The city of Quebec taken by the English. - State of the missions in this locality during the siege. - Convent of the Pointe-aux-Trembles. - Incident connected with the attack upon l'Île d'Orléans. - One of the Sisters seeks shelter in the woods. - An unknown protector in the hour of danger. - Other details concerning the conquest. - An English regiment at Point St. Charles. - The Sisters of Ville-Marie..... 315

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHTH.

The hands that always remained pure. - Spirit of faith and piety. - Characteristics of the citizens of Ville-Marie up to the English conquest. - The youthful guardian of Jesus in the Sacred Host. - The prophecy. - Point Saint Charles. - Sister Saint Agatha's misgivings. - The convent of the Congregation destroyed by fire. - Miraculous bleeding of Sister Bourgeoys' heart, at the expiration of sixty-eight years. - The twelfth of January at the Congregation. - Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. - Margaret Bourgeoys' memory 338

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINTH.

Reflections. - Thoughts on the heroic missionaries, who founded Ville-Marie. - Seminary of Saint Sulpice, Benefactor of Ville-Marie to this day. - Progress of education since the foundation of the colony. - Suburban schools opened in the city and placed under the direction of the Sisters of the Congregation of Notre-Dame. - Attendance at these schools. - Number of missions be-