

MEMOIRS OF PRINCE METTERNICH, 1773-1815 ; Edited by his son. 2 vols. 8vo. Portrait. $5.00.

For twenty years—since it became known at his death that the great diplomatist of the Napoleonic period had left his memoirs—the publication of this book has been looked for with such interest as, perhaps, no other personal revelations could have aroused. Metternich alone held the keys of the most secret history of the most important epoch in modern times, and in this book he gives them up—an impossibility during his life. We are at last in possession of the autobiography of the statesman, who, from the French Revolution to Waterloo, took part in the making of nearly every great treaty, and was himself the negotiator of the greatest; and who, from 1806 to 1815, was the guiding mind of the vast combinations which defeated Napoleon and decided the form of modern Europe.
