

- The Canada Fund for Local Initiatives supports a variety of small local development projects and has an annual budget of $300,000.
- Guatemala benefits from regional Central American projects. Two such projects are the Regional Energy Program, which focuses on the reform of energy policy and on providing electricity to rural areas; and the Gender Equality Fund, which helps Guatemalan women participate in politics, take advantage of economic opportunities, and access programs dealing with violence and its prevention.
- The Industrial Cooperation Program finances the initiatives of Canadian businesses working with Guatemalan partners in areas such as agriculture, food processing, mineral development, rail and ports development and medical facilities development.
