

January 21st, 1924

Professor R. M. Sugars,
School of Commerce,
McGill University.

Dear Professor Sugars:-

I have your letter of January 16th with reference to the Export Trade Course which may be given this winter by the University of Montreal.

I remember when I spoke to you last about the possibility of our giving this course you told me you did not think there would be sufficient demand this winter from English-speaking people to justify us in arranging a course. Possibly Mr. Poussette held the same views.

Of course, it is impossible for us to think about having a course this winter, but it ought to be well considered whether we shall not plan one for next year.

Yours faithfully,

Principal.